Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1936.

Vol. 19. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MAY 4, 1936. No. 1.

SENATE

MONDAY, MAY 4, 1936, 8 O'CLOCK P. M.

This being the day and hour fixed by the Governor of the Commonwealth in his Proclamation, convening the General Assembly in Extraordinary Session, the members of the Senate assembled in the Senate Chamber.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) called the Senate to order at 8 o'clock P. M.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard, D.D., offered the following prayer:

O Lord, our Heavenly Father, from every section of our Keystone State the men charged with the task of enacting legislation to promote the happiness and well being of our people are gathered in Special Session. Beneath the dome of this beautiful Capitol they stand in Thy presence.

One who met here with his associates a few short months ago has answered the Last Roll Call, and is no longer in our midst. We pause in our devotions to think of him and to honor his memory.

Bless those who tonight assume the official duties of this Senate for the first time. These legislators here assembled, under Thy wisdom and Thy guidance, may they hearken unto Thy voice, and lean upon Thine arm. Thou art the final judge of all human activity. Thy voice speaks louder than any human voice. We pray that Thy call to service may reverberate through the halls of this building, and that our answer may be, "Speak Lord, for Thy servant heareth." Amen.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senators arise and face the west for a moment as a token of respect to the memory of our late colleague, Honorable James E. Norton, who died December 9, 1935?

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO MEETINGS OF THE COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS

Mr. HARRIS offered the following resolution: which was twice read:

In the Senate, May 4, 1936.

Whereas, that for more than a score of years—with two exceptions—the Committee on Appropriations of the Senate has not met nor carefully considered the appropriation bills and acted upon them as required by the rules of this body; and

Whereas, thousands of bills appropriating millions upon millions of dollars of the people's money have been reported out of the Senate Appropriations Committee, without a meeting of this Committee being held, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Committee on Appropriations be informed that the members of the Senate respectfully request that no appropriation bills be reported out of the Committee on Appropriations without the approval of the Committee at a meeting regularly called at which such bills were carefully considered in accordance with the rules of the Senate.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended, and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object, and ask that the resolution be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I hoped that there would not be any objection to the immediate consideration of this resolution. If there had not been objection, of course I would not be required to speak of it. Everybody—every old member of this Senate remembers that for the nine sessions that I have been a member of this body I have objected to the practice by the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations of reporting out bills without a meeting of that committee.

No attention was paid to my protests except in two instances, and one, I regret to say, occurred at the last session, in the very closing hours. I will not discuss tonight the cause of my asking and insisting then upon a meeting of that committee, but a meeting was held, and, as I am informed by those who know, it was only the second time in more than a quarter of a century.

Now, the fact that something has been done does not make it right, and I want to submit to every member of this body, and particularly those who are members of the Committee on Appropriations, that the practice of reporting bills out of the Committee—thousands of bills in this number of years, appropriating millions and millions of dollars of the people's money—by one man, the Chairman of the Committee,—no one can argue with me and convince me that if the rules require a majority of the members present, and this Committee be guided by the same rules as the other committees, that the report of the most important Committee of all, the Committee on Appropriations, can be made by one man.

This resolution merely does this: it empowers the members of this body to do away with the practice that has been, I would say, a stench in the nostrils of the people of this State. No man has a right to appropriate these moneys without the consent of the other members of the committee; and I ask the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, to withdraw his objection to the immediate consideration of the resolution.

And I want to say now that if this resolution is not passed, and if this practice is not stopped, any time an appropriation bill is reported out of committee without a legal committee meeting having been held, without the number required by law, I shall move immediately that it be sent back to the committee; and the chairman may do nothing else than send it back, because otherwise, it would be a violation of the law. I ask the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, to withdraw his objection and permit the immediate consideration of this resolution.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I do not know but that I shall support this resolution. It is an important resolution. Therefore, under the rules, without unanimous consent it must go to Committee. I merely ask that that be done.

Of course, the Senator from Allegheny County, Mr. Harris, is entirely out of order in discussing at this time a resolution which has been merely introduced, and which, under the rules, must go to Committee unless unanimous consent be given otherwise.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I challenge the statement of the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, that I am out of order. I am discussing his objection to this resolution and not the resolution itself; and, if necessary, I shall exercise the time honored and much abused expedient of personal privilege to discuss this, under which other resolutions have been discussed on this floor.

Tonight more than twenty resolutions have been presented, and all acted upon immediately; and now, when one dealing with this important subject is offered, its immediate consideration meets with objection. There is no study required of this, because this is not a new song with me.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, was perfectly in order in discussing this objection. The objection has been made, however, to the unanimous consent for immediate consideration, and unless the objection is withdrawn the Chair has no alternative to referring the resolution to Committee. The objection still stands, and the resolution is referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

It is with sorrow that the members of the Senate of Pennsylvania record the death December 9, 1935, of Honorable James Edward Norton, of Reading, member of this body for many years from the Eleventh District.

Senator Norton was born in Reading, Pennsylvania, and was elected to the House of Representatives in 1918 and to the Senate in 1920, being re-elected in 1924, 1928, and 1932. We pray Thy blessings upon all the people everywhere, all classes and conditions of mankind, and may the time soon come when righteousness and peace and true holiness shall cover the earth as the waters cover the great deep.

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair turns the gavel over to the Chief Clerk of the House, Honorable William P. Gallagher.

THE CHIEF CLERK (William P. Gallagher) PRESIDING.

NOMINATIONS FOR SPEAKER

Mr. CAPUTO. Mr. Chief Clerk and fellow members of the House, this evening over nine millions of Pennsylvanians are focusing their eyes upon this Legislature. Under the call of the Governor, we are here to act upon legislation which will affect every person in Pennsylvania either directly or indirectly. Under these conditions it is important that we cast aside all personal dissatisfaction, disappointments and ambitions. Under these conditions it behooves us to select as our leader someone who has the qualifications to lead us through these troublesome times. We should select a man who has the confidence not only of his own party but the confidence and respect of everyone in this House. For this reason I take great pleasure and it is indeed a pleasure for me to submit the name of a personal friend of mine, a man who is well fitted for the office I am about to nominate, a man who has served here the last four sessions, both through the regular sessions and special sessions. He has been trustworthy. He has gained the admiration and respect of all of us. It is, therefore, a privilege and an honor that I submit to you the name of Roy E Furman of Greene County.

Mr. CLIFF PATTERSON. Mr. Chief Clerk and fellow members of the House, I rise at this time to second the nomination of the Honorable Roy E. Furman for the Speakership of this House. During the many years I have known him, I have learned that he is one you can count upon as a true friend, and I am sure that at the end of his term, when he has finished his Speakership, you will agree with me that Roy E. Furman has been fair and honest and will have fulfilled every expectation that you have asked of him. It gives me great pleasure to second the nomination of Roy E. Furman as Speaker.

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Chief Clerk and fellow members of the House, it has been my pleasure to serve with the member from Greene for a number of years. I have served with him on a number of committees, and I know that with his sagacity, with his fairness, and with his poise, he will make an excellent Speaker of this legislative body. It affords me great pleasure also to second the nomination of Roy E. Furman for Speaker of this House.

Mr. BROWNFIELD. Mr. Chief Clerk and fellow members of the House, it is indeed a pleasure for me to second the nomination also of Roy E. Furman of Green County, that neighbor county of my county, Fayette.

We received sometime ago with deep regret the news that our Speaker of the last legislative session, Mr. Sarig, had died.

During this past session we have learned to love and admire Roy Furman. It was in the session of 1933 that Mr. Furman began his service in this House, and he had the good fortune and the opportunity to be seated here right in this row beside Mr. Sarig. Mr. Sarig had the aisle seat and he had the one next to it. All through that session we could see that a close friendship was developing between the veteran of many legislative sessions and the youth of potential ability. During that session Mr. Furman received from Mr. Sarig that most valuable instruction and advice that only Mr. Sarig could give, and during the next session, the session of 1935, Mr. Furman played an important part in the oragnization of this House. He was made Chairman of the Highways Committee and later on was thrown into the breach created by the sudden illness of the Reverend Ruth at a critical time in the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. Chief Clerk and fellow members of this House, it is most fitting tonight that we elect as our Speaker the friend and the pupil of Mr. Sarig, the man who can take the work up just where he left it off.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Chief Clerk and fellow members of the House, although the party to which I belong is in the minority in this House I nevertheless arise with an extreme feeling of pride that the honor has been given to me this evening by the Republican Caucus, that met but a short time ago, to place in nomination a Republican, a true Republican, to the high office of Speaker of this House.

Eleven years ago I came to this House and since that time I have sat here under four Speakers, and I believe that I have a full realization of the dignity of the office, of the splendid position that a man occupies as the Speaker of this House, of the honor that is cast upon him to preside over the House of Representatives of this great Empire of ten millions of people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. This rostrum has a great tradition behind it and in the time that I have had knowledge of this House, I think that every man who has occupied that rostrum has graced it and has given honor and credit to it.

When I came to this House eleven years ago, there was another green member who came from the city of Philadelphia and during the eleven years that we have been associated together I have formed for him a strong, personal attachment that has not only existed within the halls of this House but has existed outside in our professional lives and in our social connections.

I have always thought that the Speaker of this House should, in the first place, be a man of calm and judicious temperament, that he should be a fair minded man, that he should be schooled in the procedure of this House, the parliamentary procedure that is necessary to run this House, I believe that he must be filled with a desire to carry out the business which comes before the Legislature and to dispatch its business for the best interests of the people of Pennsylvania. So, I think the Republican Party, the Republican members of this House have taken the right step when tonight they placed in nomination and, therefore, gave me this delightful task of presenting a nomination to this House, my colleague and long time friend, Morton Witkin.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Chief Clerk and members of the House, in rising to second the nomination just made by my colleague from Delaware, I must confess that I do so strongly moved by personal emotion. Ever since January of 1925, when Morton Witkin first came to this House, he and I have been not only close personal friends but also real legislative buddies. When he first came here a very close political friend of his asked me whether I wouldn't look after him as a green member, and it wasn't very many days before I found that he probably would be the teacher and I the pupil. During the service of his first session in this House Mr. Witkin displayed a keen sense of fairness, justice and humanity when he arose in the defense of one Judge Berkey who was charged with impeachment proceedings. Although new to his duties, the minority report filed by him and one other member against impeachment was adopted as the policy of the House.

A number of the members now sitting in this session will recall the will, the determination, the never-say-die spirit that this Legislator assumed when he refused to concede the defeat of the Firearms Act, now on our statute books.

All of us know that at all times he has been a sincere and thorough legislator, a tireless worker. He has the happy faculty of keen perception, a ready wit, and clear and logical thinking—all part of his equipment as a lawyer. His deportment is unexpected legislative situations, his activity on the floor of the House, his dependability, his ability in debate brought him, as you know the honor of being selected as Chairman of the Republican Steering Committee during the regular session of 1935. All of us know how excellently he performed the arduous duties of leading the minority party during that regular session. He fought hard but always fair. He knew when to be uncompromising and when the best interests of the people required harmonious concessions. His word given either to a member of his own party or to the members of the other two parties, the Democrat and the Socialist party, was never broken. While you know he was a stormy petrel, he was always courteous in the treatment of his fellow members. Now, back in his native city, the electorate have recognized those sterling qualities and in the election just passed, they honored him by electing him a member of the Board of County Commissioners, to be followed very shortly thereafter by his designation as president of that Commission. He is now discharging the duties of that office with the same high regard for fairness, the same dynamic spirit that characterized all of his actions here. The work on the Commission has necessitated his refusal to be a candidate for the 1937 session. So Morton Witkin is now serving his last session in this House, and what more fitting honor, I ask you, can we confer upon him than by making him our unanimous choice for Speaker of this House. He has the experience and the equipment to bring to that office the highest degree of efficiency. He will bring to it the same qualities that endeared him to all of us as the minority floor leader during the last regular session.

Now if this House is to transact the business of this extraordinary session without delay, if we prefer spending our vacation in someplace other than Harrisburg, if we want legislation worthwhile legislation enacted without undue delay, without rancor and with dispatch, then I urge and recommend all the members of this House in a spirit of nonpartisanship, regardless of party politics, that we vote for this choice of the Republican members of this House for Speaker.

This is an important session. It was called by the Governor to provide relief, relief for the needy, not waste, not debauchery of public funds by the creation of jobs for political satellites. We need a firm hand at the helm and in electing this candidate of the Republican party as Speaker, you know by his past actions in this House that he will uphold every measure that has in view the best interests of the needy, and that he will resist with all the vigor of his small body but firm will any attempt at debauchery of W. P. A. or State funds.

I present to you, in seconding this nomination, one who has the right to say to you in the spirit of nonpartisanship that he will conduct the office of Speaker also without regard to party and in the same spirit as his Excellency says he called this session: He wants a non-polital session. Mr. Morton Witkin will give it to him.

If you Democrats can forget your party label tonight, I say to you then cast your vote for the Republican nominee.

Mr. Chief Clerk I have the greatest pleasure in seconding the nomination of Morton Witkin as Speaker of the House.

Mr. KINNEY. Mr. Chief Clerk I move that the nominations for Speaker of the House be closed.

The motion was agreed to.

The oath of office was then administered to Honorable Roy E. Furman Speaker-elect of the House of Representatives, by the Hon. Henry C. Niles, Judge of Court of Common Pleas of York County.

THE SPEAKER (ROY E. FURMAN) IN THE CHAIR

ADDRESS OF THE SPEAKER

Members of the House: As much as you have honored me tonight by your action in elevating me to the Speakership, it would be only natural that this would be one of the happiest moments of my life, yet, under the circumstances that is not the case.

I am indeed sorry that it has been necessary for this House to elect a new Speaker. The late Speaker, the Honorable Wilson G. Sarig, was one of my dearest and closest friends. I attribute the greater portion of my success in this House to his influence and direction. He was a true friend, a patient and faithful teacher, and an outstanding leader among men, as well as a great statesman. It is my greatest desire to conduct the affairs of this office as he would have done, and I now dedicate myself to that purpose.

I wish to thank the Members of this House for the honor you have conferred upon me tonight. I trust you have chosen me for your Presiding Officer, with a singleness of purpose, believing that together we can carry on the duties of our common aim, which is the welfare and advancement of the interests of the people of Pennsylvania. Our duty as Members of the Legislature is to act and so use our opportunities in a way that will gain that end, and in obtaining it, we shall also advance Democracy itself.

It will be impossible for each of us to be informed on the details of each proposed bit of legislation coming before this Assembly. This being the case, we should all start with the common purpose to consider each other just as honest, just as patriotic, just as wise, and just as able and well meaning as we ourselves claim to be, and to so act and believe until our minds are changed by our fellow-members.

It shall me my aim as your Presiding Officer to try to carry out this policy to the best of my ability, and in doing this I ask the co-operation of each Member of this Assembly, whether you are a member of my particular political party or not.

I ask that each one of you feel free personally to consult with me at all times and explain your views, the purposes and the workings of any measure in which you are interested. And in this way we may work with a minimum of friction, a maximum of efficiency, and in that way the public welfare may be advanced to its highest degree.

I promise each of you who may have opposed my policies, that in the conduct of my duties I shall try to be impartial, try to give you as fair a deal at all times as I hope you will show towards me and your fellow Members.

I take it that we are a unit in the belief that the old days of static philosophy are gone and, we hope, gone forever, and that we are in an age of action; it, therefore, is incumbent on us all to strive to depend less and less on tricks, sharp practices, and to resort to parliamentary law to further our purposes, and to depend more and more on the spirit of American fairness, enlightenment and scientific approach.

In the fulfillment of this compact that I hope we are all forming here and now, I shall try to do my best to carry this out in spirit to the end that human welfare may be advanced, and that at the close of this Special Session it will be written in history that our work was not in vain.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM W. FELTON,
Clerk of City Council.

CLERK'S OFFICE, CITY COUNCIL

Philadelphia, May 2, 1936.

Sir:

This is to certify that the following is a true and correct copy of the original Resolution passed by City Council and approved by the Mayor on the 1st day of May, 1936.

RESOLUTION

With respect to the celebration in Philadelphia in 1937 of the One Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of the Adoption of the Constitution of the United States; inviting the Governor and the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to participate in the historic event, and requesting an appropriation of one hundred thousand (100,000) dollars by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to be used as part of a fund to pay the costs of such celebration; and directing the presentation of this resolution to the Mayor for his approval or disapproval.

Whereas, A grateful and appreciative Nation will appropriately celebrate during 1937 the One Hundred and Fiftieth Anniversary of the Adoption of the Constitution of the United States, a charter of government under which we have thrived and grown great;

And Whereas, The Constitution of the United States was conceived, debated and adopted by a Constitutional Convention composed of delegates from the thirteen original States, and held in the City of Philadelphia;

Mr. ROBERTS. Mr. President, I have the honor to present to you His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, who will address the Joint Session.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR KENNEDY. It is my privilege and pleasure at this time to present His Excellency the Governor of the Commonwealth, The Honorable George H. Earle.

MESSAGE TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

The GOVERNOR.

Ladies and Gentlemen of the General Assembly:

I have convened your honorable body in extraordinary session to consider important measures which vitally affect the welfare of our people.

Our most important problem is unemployment relief. As you are aware, my original request for an appropriation of $120,000,000 for relief during the biennium was reduced to $60,000,000.

As a result of this action by your members our relief appropriation is inadequate and will be exhausted one week from today. It is principally for that reason that this special session is now necessary.

Other unforseen needs have arisen as a result of the recent disastrous floods and other conditions.

My first recommendation is that you immediately provide an appropriation to meet unemployment relief needs after May 11 by emergency transfers from special funds, pending enactment of a relief program for the remainder of the year. Under no circumstances should these transfers be made without providing for repayment at this session.

In order to meet the Commonwealth's financial needs until the next regular session of the State Legislature I submit hrewith, in accordance with the provisions of my Call, the following schedule of necessary expenditures:

Unemployment Relief Needs to January 31, 1937		$70,991,000.00
State Veterans' Commission		250,000.00
Flood Relief—Department of Welfare		279,100.00
Flood Control		500,000.00
Social Security
Labor and Industry	$134,666.26
Welfare	2,500,000.00
		$2,634,666.26
State Institutions
Emergency Construction Eliminating fire and other hazards	$500,000.00
Construction to reduce overcrowding	1,000,000.00
Tubercular Hospitals	600,000.00
Military Projects	500,000.00
		$2,600,000.00
Refunding Bonds		$25,000.00
Deficiencies
State Police	$9,000.00
Health	684,103.53
Agriculture	5,927.70
Military	400,000.00
Labor and Industry	24,795.00
		$1,123,826.23
Distressed School Districts		$1,000,000.00
Revenue: Cost of Collections		800,000.00
Historical Observances		50,000.00
Expenses of Special Session		365,000.00
		$80,618,592.49

The estimate of unemployment relief needs made by Karl de Schweinitz, State Emergency Relief Director, is based upon a minimum amount to provide for comfort and decency. You can reduce it only by causing great suffering to the unfortunate men, women and children on our relief rolls, and the more you reduce it the more they will suffer. My Administration most urgently recommends that you appropriate the full amount, and will gladly present any facts and figures you may desire to justify this estimate.

The flood relief appropriation to the Department of Welfare is for the repair of flood damage to State institutions.

The flood control appropriation of $500,000, together with enabling legislation to dovetail with Federal flood control measures, will permit us to receive an estimated $2,000,000 in Federal funds for this work. That amount will be adequate for all the flood control work that the Federal government will start before the regular session. Remembering how this year's flood caused physical suffering and economic havoc in Pennsylvania's richest areas, the busy industrial centers and the fertile river bottom farm lands, I most urgently recommend approval of this item.

The Social security appropriation, together with other necessary enabling legislation, will permit Pennsylvania to receive millions of dollars under the provisions of the Federal Social Security Act. Unless such legislation is enacted Pennsylvania taxpayers will be obliged to pay their share of the cost of this security program without participating in its benefits.

The Social Security Act provides for old age assistance, old age annuities, unemployment compensation, mothers' assistance, medical and nursing service for mothers and infants, help for crippled children, general child welfare, vocational rehabitation, public health service and pensions for the blind. It is fully justified on economic as well as humitarian grounds, and in addition it will relieve the State and local poor boards of a large relief tax burden. I most urgently recommend adoption of this legislation.

My estimate of the needs of our State institutions has been reduced to a minimum. The appropriations for emergency construction and removal of fire and safety hazards will enable us to receive millions additional in Federal funds for this necessary work. The suggested appropriation to relieve overcrowding of the State's institutional wards will permit us to make a start toward these improvements pending a regular session.

I do not believe the appropriation to reduce the tubercular waiting list requires discussion. Common humanity, requires that we shall not permit our stricken citizens on institutional waiting lists to suffer and die without medical and hospital care.

The military project I have recommended will permit the Commonwealth to receive approximately $5,000,000 of Federal funds if we provide $500,000 for work on our armories, including repair of the $61,600 flood damage to those armories.

The small appropriation for refunding the State's bonded obligations is to cover printing and administrative costs involved. It is estimated that this refunding will save up to $5,000,000 in interest charges over a 15 year period.

The departmental deficiencies are a result of extraordinary expenditures during the recent floods. The Health Department appropriation includes the cost of dewatering flooded mines. The National Guard deficiency covers the expenses incurred in occupying flood zones. The Labor and Industry deficiency is chiefly for emergency building inspection work in the same areas.

The estimate of $1,000,000 for distressed school districts is far below normal needs, but I believe it will tide us over until the regular session next year.

The need for additional Revenue Department appropriations for collection of new taxes is obvious.

A nominal sum has been fixed as the administrative cost of recommended historical observances.

The item for expenses of the session has been placed at a minimum in the hope that this session will be very short. If that is not the case you will of course appropriate as needed.

In order to provide the necessary funds for the expenditures I have recommended, I submit herewith the following revenue-raising program:

An additional one cent tax upon to yield	$12,000,000
An increase of three mills in the Personal Property Tax striking out the exemption of securities of those corporations that now pay a Capital Stock or Foreign Franchise Tax; to yield	40,000,000
A graduated license tax upon chain store organizations based upon the number of stores each organization; to yield	3,000,000
A ten per cent (10%) tax upon the sale of Spiritous Vinous liquors to the consumer; to yield	7,500,000
An excise tax upon the sale of electrical energy, both retail and wholesale within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; to yield..	5,000,000
An increase in the motor vehicle license fees upon the heavier trucks and trailers; to yield	3,000,000
An increase of four per cent (4%) in the corporate net income tax rate; to yield	10,150,000
Grand Total	$80,650,000

The increase in the gasoline tax should not result in a price increase to the consumer since recent financial statements of gasoline companies show that they are more than able to bear this tax burden.

The increase in the personal property tax, and the repeal of existing exemptions, is entirely fair and just under existing circumstances, particularly in view of the fact that intangible wealth has long escaped its fair share of the tax burden.

The chain store tax is based squarely upon ability to pay, and in addition is economically advantageous in that it protects our independent merchants against the cut-throat competition of large chains, many of which are owned by corporations outside of Pennsylvania.

The 10 per cent tax upon liquors is a luxury tax and I do not believe any consumer will object to this levy for the relief of suffering and distress among the poor.

The tax upon electrical energy, as recommended, will be levied in such a way that it cannot be passed on to the consumer. At the same time it works no hardship upon the electrical utilities, which now enjoy a virtual exemption from the real estate taxes all other corporations are obliged to pay.

The additional license fees for heavier trucks and trailers do not begin to compensate for the advantage they derive from the use of State-constructed roadbeds. I am heartily in favor of this tax, and I am sure most other motorists will agree that the gigantic trucks which monopolize our highways should be made to pay.

The foregoing items I have already submitted to the bi-partisan committee of legislators as my recommendations for unemployment relief taxes. In order to provide funds for the other subjects in the Call I have, in addition, suggested the increase in the corporation net income tax, which will bring this tax to 10 per cent. That figure was recommended to me last year by the Republican Senate Caucus.

All taxes are objectionable. I have no pride of authorship in the tax program I have presented here. It is subject to change in any or all particulars. I shall be happy to meet with any committee of your honorable body, at any time, to discuss the entire subject. I am perfectly willing to accept any tax substitutes you may propose, on two conditions. One is that such substitute do not fall upon necessities, the other is that they be based upon ability to pay.

There is no reason why we should not reach a speedy agreement. I beg of you to make this session short. We must not delay. Politics and political consideration must take a holiday in this emergency.

You know, and I know, that the appropriation estimates I have submitted can be reduced. But I warn you to consider the cost. Unless we meet this crisis courageously indescribable privation, hardship, and economic, physical and moral disaster will be visited upon hundreds of thousands of our fellow citizens. You can cut corners only at the expense of the poor unfortunates whose destiny rests in your hands, the men, women and children on relief, the sick and the lame and the halt and the blind.

In addition to the subjects involving appropriations which I have discussed, there are several other points in the Call to which I direct your attention. Abatement of penalties and interest on real estate taxes is a measure for relief of distressed farmers and home-owners. The validating of municipal bond issues needs no discussion. Legislation to remove defects in existing revenue legislation will naturally permit greater tax returns.

The proposed Constitutional amendment to remove the so-called "time lock" on amendments is highly desirable. At present our Constitution can be amended only once in every five years. This is one of its most criticized provisions. It imposes an undue and unnecessary restraint upon the will of the people. For these reasons I recommend that immediate steps be taken to remove it.

The proposal to eliminate roadside displays of wild animals is intended to end a type of cruelty that is degrading to human beings and barbarous to the suffering animals. We cannot move too quickly in this direction.

In addition to the subjects in the Call there are certain items included in a supplementary Call on recommendation of Mayor S Davis Wilson of Philadelphia. These I submit without comment, for your consideration on their merits. I am also recommending amendment of the Act providing a weekly day of rest and vacation for policemen. This amendment will extend the benefits of the Act to the policemen of the City of Scranton, who for some reason, unknown to me were specifically exempted from the provisions of the original Act.

I am submitting to your honorable body a statement covering in detail the subjects of this call, and my recommendations thereon.

I would like to see this session ended as quickly as humanly possible. Whatever you do I beg of you to cast partisanship aside and give deep and serious consideration to the dire need of our people. They are our neighbors. The situation in which we find ourselves today comes down to just one thing—we are our brother's keeper. We share a common responsibility toward the unfortunate. Let us face that responsibility courageously and intelligently, with solemn regard for our sacred oath to provide for the general welfare of the people of our Commonwealth.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR KENNEDY. The Chair wishes to express the thanks of the General Assembly to the Governor for the wonderful message delivered to us this evening. I join with you in expressing the hope that we will have prompt and favorable action upon your recommendations. Thank you very much.

ADJOURNMENT OF JOINT SESSION

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR KENNEDY. The business for which the Joint Session of the General Assembly was convened having been transacted, the Joint Session is adjourned. The Senators will immediately assemble in the Senate Chamber.

THE SPEAKER (Roy E. Furman) IN THE CHAIR

ADDRESS OF THE GOVERNOR

THE SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House the address of His Excellency the Governor which will be printed in the Journal and also in the Legislative Journal.

The GOVERNOR:

To the Honorable, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have convened your honorable body in extraordinary session to consider important measures which vitally affect the welfare of our people.

Our most important problem is unemployment relief. As you are aware, my original request for an appropriation of $120,000,000 for relief during the biennium was reduced to $60,000,000.

As a result of this action by your members our relief appropriation is inadequate and will be exhausted one week from today. It is principally for that reason that this special session is now necessary.

Other unforeseen needs have arisen as a result of the recent disastrous floods and other conditions.

My first recommendation is that you immediately provide an appropriation to meet unemployment relief needs after May 11 by emergency transfers from special funds, pending enactment of a relief program for the remainder of the year. Under no circumstances should these transfers be made without providing for repayment at this session.

In order to meet the Commonwealth's financial needs until the next regular session of the State Legislature I submit herewith, in accordance with the provisions of my Call, the following schedule of necessary expenditures:

Unemployment Relief Needs to January 31, 1937		$70,991,000.00
State Veterans' Commission		250,000.00
Flood Relief—Department of Welfare		279,100.00
Floor Control		500,000.00

		$ 2,634,666.26
State Institutions
Emergency Construction Eliminating fire and other hazards	$ 500,000.00
Construction to reduce overcrowding	1,000,000.00
Tubercular Hospitals	600,000.00
Military Projects	500,000.00
		$ 2,600,000.00
Refunding Bonds		$ 25,000.00
Deficiencies
State Police	$ 9,000.00
Health	684,103.53

Military	400,000.00
Labor and Industry	24,795.00
		$ 1,123,826.23
Distressed School Districts		$ 1,000,000.00
Revenue: Cost of Collections		800,000.00
Historical Observances		50,000.00
Expenses of Special Session		365,000.00
		$80,618,592.49

The estimate of unemployment relief funds made by Karl de Schweinitz, State Emergency Relief Director, is based upon a minimum amount to provide for comfort and decency. You can reduce it only by causing great suffering to the unfortunate men, women and children on our relief rolls, and the more you reduce it the more they will suffer. My Administration most urgently recommends that you appropriate the full amount, and will gladly present any facts and figures you may desire to justify this estimate.

The flood relief appropriation to the Department of Welfare is for the repair of flood damage to State institutions.

The flood control appropriation of $500,000, together with enabling legislation to dovetail with Federal flood control measures, will permit us to receive an estimated $2,000,000 in Federal funds for this work. That amount will be adequate for all the flood control work that the Federal government will start before the regular session. Remembering how this year's floods caused physical suffering and economic havoc in Pennsylvania's richest areas, the busy industrial centers and the fertile river bottom farm lands, I most urgently recommend approval of this item.

The Social security appropriation, together with other necessary enabling legislation, will permit Pennsylvania to receive millions of dollars under the provision of the Federal Social Security Act. Unless such legislation is enacted Pennsylvania taxpayers will be obliged to pay their share of the cost of this security program without participating in its benefits.

The Social Security Act provides for old age assistance, old age annuities, unemployment compensation, mothers' assistance, medical and nursing service for mothers and infants, help for crippled children, general child welfare, vocational rehabilitation, public health service and pensions for the blind. It is fully justified on economic as well as humanitarian grounds, and in addition it will relieve the State and local poor boards of a large relief tax burden. I most urgently recommend adoption of this legislation.

My estimate of the needs of our State institutions has been reduced to a minimum. The appropriations for emergency construction and removal of fire and safety hazards will enable us to receive millions additional in Federal funds for this necessary work. The suggested appropriation to relieve overcrowding of the State's institutional wards will permit us to make a start toward these improvements pending a regular session.

I do not believe the appropriation to reduce the tubercular waiting list requires discussion. Common humanity requires that we shall not permit our stricken citizens on institutional waiting lists to suffer and die without medical and hospital care.

The military project I have recommended will permit the Commonwealth to receive approximately $5,000,000 of Federal funds if we provide $500,000 for work on our armories, including repair of the $61,600 flood damage to those armories.

The small appropriation for refunding the State's bonded obligations is to cover printing and administrative cost involved. It is estimated that this refunding will save up to $5,000,000 in interest charges over a 15-year period.

The departmental deficiencies are a result of extraordinary expenditures during the recent floods. The Health Department appropriation includes the cost of dewatering flooded mines. The National Guard deficiency covers the expenses incurred in occupying flood zones. The Labor and Industry deficiency is chiefly for emergency building inspection work in the same areas.

The estimate of $1,000,000 for distressed school districts is far below normal needs, but I believe it will tide us over until the regular session next year.

The need for additional Revenue Department appropriations for collection of new taxes is obvious.

A nominal sum has been fixed as the administrative cost of recommended historical observances.

The item for expenses of the session has been placed at a minimum in the hope that this session will be very short. If that is not the case you will of course appropriate as needed.

In order to provide the necessary funds for the expenditures I have recommended, I submit herewith the following revenue-raising program.

An additional one cent tax upon Gasoline; to yield	$12,000,000
An increase of three mills in the Personal Property Tax striking out the exemption of securities of those corporations that now pay a Capital Stock or Foreign Franchise Tax; to yield	40,000,000

Let us face that responsibility courageously and intelligently, with solemn regard for our sacred oath to provide for the general welfare of the people of our Commonwealth.

I submit to your honorable body this statement covering in detail the subjects of the call for this Special Session and my recommendations thereon.

First. Appropriations to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief and expenses incident thereto should be considered.

At the beginning of the 1935 session of the Legislature, I, as Governor, submitted a program calling for the appropriation of $120,000,000 for unemployment relief in Pennsylvania for the two-year period ending May 31, 1937.

After months of debate, relief funds were provided for only the first year of the biennium. No provision was made for the second year.

You are familiar with what happened then. The Federal Government changed its relief policy, substituting work relief for direct relief. Pennsylvania, like other states, was then and still is required to bear the entire direct relief burden. Instead of spending $5,000,000 a month for relief, as we had planned, we had to spend much larger sums, with the result that the $60,000,000 appropriated for this purpose is now gone.

After a most careful study of the unemployment relief situation in Pennsylvania, the State Relief Director estimates that $70,991,000 will be needed to care for the unemployed through January of next year.

A thorough study of facts and figures convinces me that this amounts is necessary. However, if conditions should change so that all of this money is not needed, any balance can be used for relief in the remainder of the biennium: that is, from February 1, 1937 to May 31, 1937, a period of four months unprovided for in this program.

If the Legislature should decide that relief funds economically necessary to provide for our unemployed are less than $70,991,000 and fails to appropriate an adequate amount, another special session of the Legislature will be necessary the moment it appears that we are running short of relief money.

In dealing with the relief problem, funds should be provided both for the continuation of relief at present rates and also to furnish shelter and certain other necessities which are more urgently required every day for many of the unemployed on the relief rolls.

The funds appropriated by the Legislature at the 1935 session will have been exhausted early next week. It, therefore, is recommended that resolutions be adopted transferring funds sufficient to carry relief through the remainder of May and through the month of June. There must be no stoppage in relief while a program for the remainder of the year is being considered by the Legislature. Immediate repayment of these funds must be provided during this session.

A request for temporary provision during May and June is based upon a budget of $6,971,620 for May, which already has been approved by the State Emergency Relief Board, and an estimate of $7,200,000 for the month of June.

Against this total of $14,171,620 there was available on May 1st an unexpended balance of $3,341,620, leaving $10,830,000 needed to carry relief through June. No increase in the present rate of relief is involved in these requirements. This sum should be transferred at once to the General Fund for relief purposes.

To continue relief at the current standard, $53,100,000 would be required for the period beginning July 1st, ending February 1st, next. To include provision for shelter would require an additional $2,950,000. This is a need that is becoming increasingly more acute. The lack of sufficient funds for this type of relief is causing great hardship both to the unemployed and to the owners of property, most of whom have been compelled to give free rent.

In other respects also our present grants to families are considerably below the minimum needed to maintain physical efficiency. The grants for clothing are two per cent less than they were a year ago, and there is urgent need in many instances for fuel for light and cooking. These essential requirements would involve an additional expenditure of $4,111,000.

Thus you will see a relief need through January of next year for $74,332,620. Deducting existing balances an appropriation of $70,991,000 is required.

This program provides only for the absolute necessities of life. The latest available comparative figures show that the cost of relief per case, including administrative cost, is less in Pennsylvania than Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, Minnesota, California, and many other states. We must provide for those who through no fault of their own cannot provide for themselves. Therefore, I most earnestly recommend appropriation of the full amount.

The Legislature at its last session appropriated funds to enable the State Veterans' Commission to provide for indigent veterans of any wars or their widows and infant children. This is a just cause, and I ask that funds be made available to continue this work on the same basis as heretofore. A total of $250,000 will be required for the period from June 1, 1936, to January 31, 1937.

Second. Flood Relief.

The disastrous floods of last March created conditions which must be remedied as quickly as is humanly possible. Those of you who come from flooded districts fully understand the seriousness of the situation. You are familiar with the tremendous destruction that was caused when swollen rivers rushed out of their banks and flowed through the streets of our cities. You know that even before the turbulent waters had stopped rising, every agency of the State Government was mobilized to meet the crisis. We did everything possible to alleviate the distress that arose on every hand. We met the situation then with emergency measures. We must meet the situation now with rehabilitation measures. The despair of flood destruction has given way to the hope of reconstruction. The task of saving lives and alleviating human suffering is done. Now we must rebuild. Thousands of our citizens were sorely afflicted by the calamity. Their homes were washed away or badly damaged. Their furnishings were destroyed and places of business were filled with muck and slime. Merchants' stocks of goods were ruined. Millions of dollars of public and private property was destroyed. Pennsylvania, of all states, was hardest hit. Many saw the fruits of a lifetime of toil swept away by the angry waters.

The people of our Commonwealth should face this as their calamity and their problem. Those who were most sorely affected as a consequence of this flood cannot help themselves. Their rehabilitation rests in your hands. Most of this relief has already been provided by the Federal Government and the American Red Cross. We cannot commend and praise too highly the splendid untiring work performed by the Red Cross at no cost to the Commonwealth.

The United States Congress is now considering legislation to provide relief to these stricken areas. Unquestionably that will require some measure of co-operation from the State.

As soon as the Federal program is completed and the extent of the State's participation determined, legislation will be submitted to provide for such co-operation.

At present an appropriation of $279,100 to the Department of Welfare to repair flood damage to State institutions is needed.

Third. Flood Control.

This destruction to property and human suffering caused by the recent flood makes it imperative that we institute a flood control program to prevent the recurrence of such disasters. Flood prevention and flood control are the only protective measures which will insure against the loss of life and property accompanying every major flood. There is now before the United States Senate the so-called omnibus flood bill providing for this necessary work. In order to take advantage of the funds to be made available to the states under this bill, it is necessary that the Commonwealth pass enabling legislation authorizing some agency of the State to carry out for and on behalf of the State its participation in a Federal program of flood control.

We must take advantage of Federal co-operation without the loss of valuable time. The Department of Forests and Waters should be designated as the agency of the Commonwealth to carry out the State's work in flood control. Legislation is also necessary in order that proper studies may be made with reference to this subject to provide reforestation and the prevention of erosion. The State's share in co-operating wit hthe Federal Government in the prevention of floods and flood control will amount to a large sum. That sum is not now known and cannot be provided for at this time. However, in order that the work may be begun and as an evidence of good faith on the part of the Commonwealth, you should immediately appropriate the sum of $500,000 to be used by the Commonwealth in participation with the Federal Government in its work, with the provision that such sum shall not be available unless and until the Federal Government shall have authorized one or more flood projects within Pennsylvania, and shall have allotted funds for the carrying out of such project or projects. This appropriation, with enabling legislation, will bring to Pennsylvania $2,000,000 in Federal funds for this work. This total sum of $2,500,000 will be sufficient to begin and carry on a flood control program until your next Regular Session. As soon as we definitely learn the exact requirements imposed upon the Commonwealth by the Federal Flood Control Act, further co-operating legislation will be submitted.

Fourth. Social Security.

The Federal Social Security Act covers a number of important social subjects. Most important to labor and industry is the enactment of an unemployment compensation law. Unemployment compensation has both a humanitarian and an economic aspect. It is one of the most inexpensive and effective methods of alleviating the results of depression. It undertakes to level off purchasing power by carrying over buying power from those of good times to those of declining prosperity. It will definitely help the individual workman at all times when he is out of work for an extended period. The Federal Social Security Act levies an assessment on payrolls beginning January 1, 1936. The assessment is 1% for the first year 2% for 1937, and 3% for each succeeding year. Unless our State has such an act, it will receive none of the benefits of the Federal act while its employers will still be required to pay the assessments. In other words, although Pennsylvania employers will pay out approximately $20,000,000 in 1936, $40,000,000 in 1937 and $60,000,000 each year thereafter in payroll assessments, the workmen of Pennsylvania will receive no return from the same unless an unemployment compensation act is enacted in Pennsylvania. Under the Federal Social Security Act each state having an unemployment compensation act will receive back 90% of the total amount of the assessments for the benefit of its workers.

Therefore, if Pennsylvania does not, at this session, enact such legislation, its citizens will lose approximately $18,000,000 this year, approximately $36,000,000 next year, and approximately $54,000,000 every year thereafter until such legislation is enacted in this State. These millions lost to Pennsylvnaia, paid by Pennsylvania employers, will go to other states having unemployment compensation laws.

It should be clearly understood that this plan requires no expenditure whatsoever by Pennsylvania for the administration of the act, no additional levies upon its employers, and no appropriation to carry out its purposes. All these costs will be supplied by the Federal Government.

The next important subject of the Social Security Act is old age assistance. At the present time there are 39,520 people receiving the benefit of old age assistance. This costs the Commonwealth $840,000 monthly. Our Old Age Assistance Act should be amended to conform with the standards of the Social Security Act so that the number of those eligible will be increased to a total of 94,930 persons at a monthly increase in cost to the Commonwealth of only $180,000.

Therefore, the Commonwealth will be able to provide for 55,410 additional old men and women who are now in dire need of assistance and who will be removed from the relief rolls. Today the average monthly cost to this Commonwealth for old age assistance is approximately $21.20 per person. If we amend our laws to conform to the Social Security Act and accept the resulting benefits from the Federal Government, the average monthly cost to Pennsylvania for old age assistance will be reduced to approximately $10.60 per person, while the average amount received monthly per aged person will be at least $21.60.

If you fail to pass this legislation, $12,696,000 which the Federal Government is willing to give us to help our needy aged will go to other states each year.

Such legislation as will entitle us to receive the full benefits of the Federal Social Security Act for mothers assistance, medical and nursing services for mothers and infants, help for crippled children, general child welfare, public health service and pensions for the blind should be enacted. This will bring grants of several million dollars from the Federal Government which will go to other States if we fail to pass such legislation.

The Department of Labor and Industry, through its Bureau of Rehabitation, has been supervising the transforming of its poor, maimed in Pennsylvania industry, from what might ultimately become public charges to self-sustaining persons. Under the Federal Social Security law, additional grants are made to the State for this purpose, provided we match dollar for dollar the amount granted. The appropriation to the Department of Labor and Industry of $134,666.26 should be provided for this purpose.

The appropriation of $2,500,000 to the Department of Welfare for old age and mothers' assistance also should be provided.

Aside from some small items and the amount just mentioned for Labor and Industry, there is no other appropriation needed to give Pennsylvania the full benefits of the Federal Social Security Act.

From this investment, Pennsylvania's needy will receive at least $34,278,000, if not more, from the Federal Government; otherwise, Pennsylvania's citizens will receive nothing and the citizens of other States will benefit by our neglect.

Fifth. Abatement of Tax Penalties.

This merely extends the operation of similar acts passed at the last session of the Legislature. We are all aware that economic conditions have made the ownership of real estate an onerour burden. Because of an outworn and antiquated taxing system real estate is bearing far more than its fair share of the cost of local government. Such abatement acts will, in a small measure, afford a limited relief to the real estate owner.

Sixth. Safety and Expansion Needs of State Institutions.

The law, common sense, and humanitarianism fix certain standards necessary to reduce to a minimum hazardous conditions in public buildings. The Department of Welfare, Health, Education and Military Affairs are all charged with the maintenance of certain State institutions. Because of inefficient supervision and lack of funds, these institutions have fallen into disrepair; they have become overcrowded; fire and other hazards to safety constantly imperil the lives of those who are forced to inhabit them. This institution has become so acute that it is a disgrace to a modern State and reminds one of conditions of a barbaric age. The cost of emergency construction eliminating fire and other hazards is $2,808,417. If the State appropriates $500,000, the Works Progress Administration will provide the balance, $2,308,417. You should, therefore, unhesitatingly appropriate $500,000 for this purpose.

Many of our State institutions are overcrowded. Our hospitals, asylums, homes, penal and correctional institutions, must be expended. There are thousands of applicants on the waiting lists for admission to State schools for mental defectives, asylums, hospitals and homes. The over-crowded conditions at our State penal and correctional institutions constitute a constant menace to the safety of our people.

There are a thousand tubercular cases on the waiting list in Pennsylvania, which the Department of Health is not able to provide for under its present facilities. Five hundred of these cases are sick cases, which cannot go to camp, and consequently there is urgent need for additional hospitalization for five hundred patients.

To meet these needs of construction to reduce hazardous overcrowding, waiting lists, and facilities required to properly care for the increased population would require $37,500,000. In order to recognize the need, and as a pledge of good faith toward meeting that need, $1,000,000 should be appropriated at this time to increase the facilities of institutions under the Department of Welfare, and $600,000 should be appropriated to the Department of Health to relieve the waiting list of tubercular patients. Further provisions for these purposes must await the next regular session.

Under the State Authority Act which was enacted at the last session of the Legislature all of these much needed results would have been accomplished at a relatively small cost to the State. Projects totaling $60,000,000 had been approved by the Federal authorities, of which sum the Federal Government would have contributed $33,000,000 and the balance would have been paid by the State through rentals over a period of thirty years. However, due to the fact that the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania held this act unconstitutional, the State is now forced to bear this entire burden and to begin providing revenues therefor immediately.

In addition to the matters outlined, your attention is directed to the fact that a list of projects amounting to $4,568,202.00 has received Presidental approval. These projects are for the erection of additional National Guard armories throughout the Commonwealth. The only condition for the final launching of this project is the appropriation of $500,000 as the sponsor's share of this program. An appropriation of $500,000 for this purpose should therefore be made.

Seventh. Refunding of the bonded indebtedness.

There are now outstanding, among other, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania bonds, series "D" 4¾, in the amount of $11,200,000, which are due December 1, 1951, but which are callable, in whole or in part, at any time subsequent to December 1, 1936. The annual debt service on these bonds is $532,000. It is obvious that if these bonds can be refunded at 2% it will result in an annual saving of $308,000, or a total saving of $4,620,000 between December 1, 1936, and the time of their maturity.

I considered legislation to produce such refunding at the last session of the Legislature, and the Attorney General, under my instruction, prepared a bill to provide for the same. However, after the bill was prepared the Attorney General advised me that the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania had stated in the case of MONTGOMERY v. MARTIN, 294 Pa. 25. that the Constitution of Pennsylvania prohibited refunding of the State's loan. Accordingly, the bill was laid aside.

However, so much is at stake for the Commonwealth that it is advisable to enact such legislation and immediately test its constitutionality before the Supreme Court. The Attorney General will institute a test suit immediately after the bill is enacted and will do his utmost to persuade the Supreme Court, that, as a matter of justice to the taxpayers of Pennsylvania, such legislation should be upheld.

Eighth. Validating Municipal Bond Issues.

This subject has been included as a result of requests from various municipalities. Although the Act of April 11, 1929, P. L. 516, cures irregularities in municipal bond issues, there may be instances where its provisions do not afford a complete remedy, such as cases where there is some question as to the validity of the election authorizing the issue. Therefore, some good may result by including this subject.

Ninth. Chattel Mortgages.

Although chattel mortgages generally have been looked upon with disfavor in Pennsylvania, a limited Chattel Mortgages Act is now essential.

The act contemplated will permit the pledging of chattels solely to agencies and instrumentalities of the Federal Government, such as the R. F. C., in order to increase the borrowing capacity of our citizens, partnerships and corporations. Many of our home owners, farmers, small merchants and small businessmen have no means of rehabiliating themselves from the disastrous result of the recent floods except by loans secured only by personal property. Such loans are now available from Federal agencies now in existence. Congress has made $50,000,000 available to the R. F. C. for such loans, and our citizens should be placed in a position to avail themselves of this opportunity.

Tenth. Deficiencies Caused by Floods.

The recent flood emergency imposed extraordinary and unanticipated burdens and obligations upon certain departments of the State government. As a consequence, their appropriations were insufficient to provide for the great work they were required to do. In taking care of the flooded districts, preserving health and presenting disease, doing rescue and police work, supplying food, medicine, clothing and shelter, and in assisting in rehabilitation, the resources of the Department of Health, Military Affairs and Agriculture have been seriously impaired.

Deficiency appropriations to these departments amounting to $1,123,826.23 should be made.

Your attention is specifically called to the deficiency appropriation of $684,103.53 to the Department of Health, which is included in the figure mentioned. This deficiency was practically all necessitated because of the work that has been undertaken by the Department of Health to assist in overcoming the flooded conditions in the coal mines of Luzerne, Lackawanna, Fayette and Westmoreland Counties. As a result of the flood, certain mines in these districts were so inundated that emergency measures by the State were necssary; otherwise, they would have remained closed permanently. The presence of water in these mines constitutes a constant and acute menace to the health of our people generally, inasmuch as acids developing in these waters seeping into our streams would affect the purity of our water supply and destroy all animal life within the streams affected. The most important consideration, however, and that which prompted the Department of Health to act in this matter by purchasing equipment and supplying power with which to operate it, was the fact that thousands of people had been put out of work by the flooded conditions. It was anticipated that in the Pittston district alone 15,000 miners would eventually be put out of work, resulting in a $600,000 monthly relief cost to the State. In addition, there are approximately 1,000 miners jobless in Lackawanna County and 400 in Fayette County, due to similar conditions. The saving in relief cost to the taxpayers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which will be effected by this project is obvious. The owners of the flooded mines are rehabilitating them and are supplying the labor to operate the State's pumps at a cost to them of approximately $1,100,000. Accordingly, in order to maintain the pure stream supply, preserve this vital industry, and prevent the eventual unemployment of so many people, with the resulting cost to the State, this undertaking by the Department of Health was imperatively necessary.

Eleventh. Strengthening Existing Revenue Statutes.

By reason of adverse court decisions, ambiguous wording, and insufficient provision for enforcement, the Commonwealth is liable to incur substantial losses of revenue in taxes, a considerable portion of which have been included in the budget estimates for the current biennium. It is necessary that these conditions be remedied immediately, so that our budget may be balanced. Among the necessary amendments are:

(a) An amendment offsetting the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of SCHUYLKILL TRUST COMPANY v. COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, by renacting the Act of 1927 and omitting therefrom existing deductions permitted in the case of shares of corporations paying Pennsylvania tax or exempt therefrom.

(b) Amendments to the Acts of 1897 and 1907, to more effectively control deductions for depreciations by banks, trust companies, and savings institutions having capital stock, and also to charge for appreciation in the value of certain of their assets.

(c) An amendment to the Corporate Net Income Tax Act to repeal that section which makes it mandatory upon the Secretary of Revenue to permit consolidated returns. That obnoxious section which was made a part of the act by amendment in the Senate, at the price of its passage, must be removed.

(d) An amendment to the Corporate Net Income Tax Act and the Foreign Franchise Tax Act, so as to make the income of the taxpayer from personal and other holding companies taxable.

(e) An amendment to the Act of 1897, so as to make it specifically applicable to shares in domestic building and loan associations.

(f) An amendment of the State Personal Property Tax Act, so as to make failure to file a return, as required by the act, a penal offense. The omission of such a provision in the original act clearly affected its enforceability.

(g) An amendment strengthening and making effective the County Personal Property Tax Act, by inserting therein penal provisions for failure to comply therewith. By such an amendment, the County Personal Property Tax Act will be more than mere words upon our statute books, and will provide substantial revenues to the counties. Through the increase of their revenues from this tax, it wlil become possible for the counties to provide a substantial reduction in the tax upon real estate. This object should certainly have the most wholehearted support of this entire assemblage.

Twelfth. School Relief.

The need for special State aid to distressed school districts is imperative. If schools are to be operated for at least the minimum required term, the Commonwealth must come to the rescue of these school districts. The high standards of our Public School System must at all times be maintained. Every child is entitled to an equal opportunity for education. His training must not depend on locality. Accordingly, an appropriation of $1,000,000 should be provided for relief to financially distressed school districts.

Thirteenth. The Budget.

In order to provide the revenues necessary to carry out the various subject you will consider, I have prepared a program of taxation which I now submit to you for your consideration. I want to make it clear that I am not of the opinion that these are the only means by which the necessary revenues can be obtained. In my opinion, they are reasonable, practical and equitable. If you should feel that other methods are preferable, I shall be only too glad to consider them seriously, so long as they are just and sound. However, I shall insist that such measures be based upon ability to pay, and necessities always exempted.

In the program which I am submitting to you, I recommend the following appropriations:

Unemployment Relief Needs to January 31, 1937		$70,991,000.00
State Veterans' Commission		250,000.00

In order to provide the necessary funds for the expenditures I have recommended, I submit herewith the following revenue-raising program:

An additional one cent tax upon Gasoline; to yield	$12,000,000
An increase of three mills in the Personal Property Tax striking out the exemption of securities of those corporations that now pay a Capital Stock or Foreign Franchise Tax; to yield	40,000,000
A graduated license tax upon chain store organizations based upon the number of stores of each organization; to yield	3,000,000
A ten per cent (10%) tax upon the sale of Spiritous Vinous liquors to the consumer; to yield	7,500,000
An excise tax to be paid by utilities upon the sale of electrical energy, both retail and wholesale within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; to yield	5,000,000
An increase in the motor vehicle license fees upon the heavier trucks and trailers; to yield	3,000,000
A four per cent (4%) increase in the corporate net income tax; to yield	10,150,000
Grand Total	$80,650,000

Fourteenth. Historical Observances.

(1). Commemoration of the Constitution of the United States.

It is most fitting that Pennsylvania play an important part in commemorating the One Hundred Fiftieth Anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States of America. As you know it was in Philadelphia, the city whose name signifies the principles of brotherly love, that this great humanitarian document was signed.

The Federal Congress has taken action to observe the anniversary of this great event by appointing a bi-partisan United States Constitution Sesquicentennial Commission.

A national celebration, a jubilee of a free people, will be observed in Philadelphia beginning on September 17th of next year. It is singularly appropriate that this Commonwealth be as fervent and faithful in leadership in these anniversary proceedings as were the framers of the great charter of the Republic a century and a half ago.

Therefore, you should authorize the observance of the years 1937, 1938 and 1939 as a period of State-wide commemoration.

The Department of Public Instruction should be authorized in conjunction with the congressional commission to arrange a fitting celebration. An appropriation of $25,000 for this purpose should be made.

(2). Commemoration of First Settlement.

In recent years, Massachusetts and Connecticut have conducted three hundredth anniversaries of their foundation settlements. Last year, Delaware, our neighbor, enacted legislation to commemorate, in 1938, the Three Hundredth Anniversary of the Initial Civilization along the Delaware River and on Delaware Bay. With its glorious heritage, Pennsylvania should not lag in this respect.

Therefore, the Department of Public Instruction should be authorized to arrange for a fitting celebration on behalf of our Commonwealth in conjunction with similar commissions of other states. A further appropriation of $25,000 should be made for this purpose.

Fifteenth. Constitutional Amendments.

Our present Constitution, written in 1873, provides that amendments may not be submitted to the people more than once every five years.

This restriction manifestly is not a just one. Surely, the people themselves should have the right to say as often as they choose whether they want to change their basic law. The Constitution should be changed so that amendments may be submitted as often as the Legislature may prescribe.

Sixteenth. Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The practice of exhibiting animals in poorly equipped roadside zoos has been growing in Pennsylvania.

During the hot summer months, thousands of raccoons, bears and other animals are chained and penned in small cages. They are not fed properly, they have no room to exercise, many times they go without water. They are entirely out of their proper element. As a result they become mangy, diseased, vicious and dangerous.

In a civilized world, we should not tolerate such abuse of helpless animals, neither should we permit their degrading effect upon those who view them.

Therefore, adequate legislation to eliminate this form of cruelty is necessary.

Seventeenth. Expenses of Special Session.

An appropriation of $365,000 to cover the expenses of this Special Session should be made. This appropriation should be sufficient for a short business-like session.

In addition to the subjects in the Call there are certain items included in a supplementary call on recommendation of Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia. These are submitted without comment, for consideration on the basis of their merits.

Further, the act providing a weekly day of rest and vacation for policemen should be amended to extend its benefits to the City of Scranton, which for some unknown reason was specifically exempted from the provisions of the original act.

The appropriations recommended are necessary and essential for the welfare of our people. You now have a complete program and reasons for its adoption.

This is to certify that the following is a true and correct copy of the original Resolution passed by City Council and approved by the Mayor on the 1st day of May, 1936.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO TRANSFER OF FUNDS

Mr. REED (Dauphin) Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. REED (Dauphin) offered the following resolution which was twice read.

In the Senate, May 5, 1936.

Whereas, It is urgent that moneys be made available for the purpose of unemployment relief prior to the time that appropriations can be made by the Legislature now convened in Special Session; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That if the Governor, the Auditor General and the State Treasurer shall, in accordance with existing law, transfer to the General Fund the following sums of money from the following special funds, to wit: From the Liquid Fuels Fund, the sum of three million dollars; from the Motor License Fund the sum of four and one-half million dollars and from the Liquor License Fund the sum of two million dollars; in order to make the same available for expenditure for unemployment relief by the State Emergency Relief Board, the General Assembly hereby pledges itself that it will enact appropriate legislation at this session of the General Assembly specifically appropriating the sum of nine million five hundred thousand dollars to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief, and to provide revenue by taxation or otherwise, to repay said transferred moneys to said special funds.

Mr. Reed (Dauphin). Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended, and that the Senate proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. It there objection?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, if it is not true that the Governor has requested the Legislature to provide for the transfer of funds to the General Fund, to provide for the appropriation of those funds to the State Emergency Relief Board for the continuation of relief beyond May 11th.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I believe so.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, also, if it is not a fact that this resolution is in proper form to accomplish that purpose,—pledging the Assembly to pass the necessary appropriation bills, in due course, to carry out that request of the Governor's.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I do not think it is that kind of a resolution.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I did not understand what the Senator said.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I do not understand that it is that kind of a resolution.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I ask that the resolution be reread, in order that the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, may understand the exact purpose of the resolution.

The resolution was again read.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of information.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, will state his question of information.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, inasmuch as there is objection raised to the consideration of this resolution, it automatically goes to committee. Am I correct in my statement?

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, is correct. Unless the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, recedes from his objection to the immediate consideration of this resolution, it must, under the rules, be referred to committee.

Does the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, insist upon his objection to immediate consideration of the resolution?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I do.

The PRESIDENT. The chair hears objection, and the resolution will be referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn.

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I think if the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will have a little patience, we shall have the resolution from the House and, I think, the Senate will adjourn in much better odor in the public mind than if we adjourn hastily. I shall vote against the motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Shapiro and Mr. Pytko.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

YEAS—17

Batchelor,	Ealy,	Pierson,	Trainer,
Bean,	Graff,	Reed,	Ziesenheim,
Bennett,	Harvey,	(Dauphin)	Homsher,

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communications in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which were read as follows:

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO PAYMENT OF SALARIES OF MEMBERS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

May 5, 1936.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

AUTHORIZING FISCAL OFFICERS TO TRANSFER MOTOR LICENSE FUND.

Mr. COHEN asked unanimous consent to offer a resolution which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 5, 1936.

Whereas, House Bill No. 14, authorizing the transfer from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund of hundred thousand dollars ($5,500,000), for the purpose of amounts aggregating not more than five million five providing funds for unemployment relief, and providing for the repayment thereof not later than May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the resolution was merely read for information?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct.

The Chairs hears no objection and unanimous consent is granted.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments to the resolution.

The amendment were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend House Concurrent Resolution dated May 5, 1936 as follows:

Sixth Paragraph, second typewritten page, line 13, by striking out the word "five" after the word "exceeding" and before the word "million" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "four"

Amend line 14, same paragraph, by striking out the figures "$5,500,000" and insert in lieu thereof the figures "$4,000,000"

Amend line 16, same paragraph, by striking out the words "and the General Assembly pledges that"

Amend same paragraph by striking out remainder of same by striking out lines, 17 to 24 inclusive and insert after line 16 the following paragraph in lieu thereof: "and further be is Resolved, that the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass subject to the necessary amndments to conform to the foregoing provisions of this Resolution, House Bills No. 14 and 15, validating the action of the Governor and the Fiscal Officers in making such transfers, and the General Assembly further pledges that it will pass, subject to such amendment as may be necessary House Bill No. 17 appropriating the aforementioned sums, among others, to the State Emergency Relief Board, for unemployments relief purposes, and the General Assembly further pledges that it will do so without delay."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania last night asked for a non-political legislative special session. With that thought the Republican minority of this House is thoroughly in accord. At some future time, during this session, I hope to argue to this House that the Republican minority desires to go one step farther. We want a political holiday dealing with the question of unemployment relief during this session, but we are going to argue to you that we want a permanent political holiday dealing with the administration of relief. We want a permanent political holiday from the interference by the Democratic state leaders in Pennsylvania with the administration of WPA funds. We welcome a political holiday from now until we pass on in the administration of relief and in the passage of legislation dealing with relief, but the best example of how that political holiday is being carried out is what has just occurred a short time ago in the Senate of Pennsylvania. There was introduced by the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, a resolution providing for the allocation of $9,500,000 for unemployment relief from now until the first day of July, 1936, but unlike the Republican minority in this House, the Democratic minority in that House stopped immediate consideration on that most important resolution. So we start out with the Republican minority in the House refusing to play politics, and declaring a holiday that we hope will be permanent, and we follow that through with the opposite tactics on the part of the Democratic minority in the Senate. I want it understood—and no possible argument or no endeavor on the part of the Democrats can possibly blind or mislead the people of Pennsylvania with respect to this issue—the Republican party of Pennsylvania, the Republican minority of this House are for unemployment relief for the needy, and we will back every piece of legislation dealing with help for the unemployed and the needy of Pennsylvania. I want to say, further, that we are opposed to waste; we are opposed to extravagance; we are opposed to debauchery; we are opposed to the use of political tactics in the administration of relief, and that is why we offer this amendment, because we do not believe that the figure of eleven million dollars is the right figure up until the first of July, 1936. We believe that our figure that I shall give you in a moment is the correct figure.

I can not help but pause to tell the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the cost of administering relief in Pennsylvania today is eight hundred to nine hundred thousand dollars a month for a great horde of political workers, when that eight hundred or nine hundred thousand dollars, or at least a great portion thereof, ought to go to the unemployed and it ought to go to the needy. Figures don't lie, and my Democratic friends can not argue that their own figures lie. I read from the report of your Democratic Emergency Relief Board, the Executive Director, to tell you how efficient you are, how interested you are in the needy when it comes to handing out jobs and expending money in the cost of the administration of relief. In January of 1933, on page 58 of your report, the cost of administration of relief in Pennsylvania for a month was $143,664.56. Then we move on to January of 1934, and from one hundred forty-three thousand and some odd dollars we jumped to $406,884.98, but then the Democratic administration in Pennsylvania became entrenched, and look at what happened to the unemployed, to the needy. Your cost of administration jumped so that in January of 1935, from your figures, to $1,473,578.89. Where are we going; from one hundred and forty-three thousand in two years under your Democratic administration you jumped to one million and a half per month—mind you, for the administration of relief. Oh, I know politics, and I know that a lot of you men sit there and you marvel at the revelation of your own figures, and I know that I am not going to change a vote, but down deep in your hearts and down deep in your minds, can you possibly conjure up an excuse to your own conscience for not saying to the Democratic administration of Pennsylvania, "Even we can't stomach all of that. For Heaven's sake be a little reasonable."

Oh, I know there is an answer. The answer you are going to give or at least I am assuming you may, is that you cut it down a little. Yes, you did, but after you cut it down, it is still almost a million dollars a month, and I believe you cut it down because this Legislature is now in session, so that we say to you, when we are knocking off a million and a half from now until the first of July, we are not taking it away from the needy, we are not taking it away from the unemployed; we are taking it away from the political hangers-on who are feeding at the public crib under the guise of relief.

Now, I am opposed and the Republican party is opposed to this business of transient relief. We do not think that the taxpayers of Pennsylvania ought to pay relief to those people who migrate from other states into our state, stay here but a week or two and then get relief. We tell you that Pennsylvania relief ought to be for Pennsylvanians. I read from your report, page 47, and what did you spend for transient relief during the year 1935? Your report, not mine, says that during that year you spent $2,328,161.35 for transients. I say transients come second to Pennsylvanians, and the Federal Government ought to take care of transient relief, not the taxpayers of Pennsylvania. So that we say again, we are not taking anything from the needy until the first of July. We say cut out the transients, cut out the non-residents, reduce your exorbitant pay roll and you will have plenty of money.

But let us see what we advocate. Our amendment says, cut down the amount to be transferred from the Motor License fund from five and a half million to four million. Are you really cutting it down and taking it away from the needy? No, because that million and a half remains in your Highway funds to take care of the men working on the roads, so that we are not even taking that away from relief, but we are leaving it for road work, so that there won't be more people on relief. Why all this hullabaloo? If you are not playing politics, if the State administration and his Excellency are not playing politics, why don't you take the nine and a half millions that the Senate will pass, that we will pass, and if you are short, we will still be here? You know that, I know it, but what you are doing is this, you want to fool the people of Pennsylvania, you want to make them believe that the Republican party is opposing a resolution for eleven million dollars. Why, you can't fool them; the people of Pennsylvania are intelligent, and we have the courage not to let you fool us into voting for a resolution that we know ought to be cut down, and we are reasonable in our cut.

There is just one other thought and that is this, WPA and relief agencies in Pennsylvania seem to be in a contest who can get the most clients. We claim that if the Democratic politicians in Pennsylvania will let the WPA jobs go to the needy instead of distributing them before elections so that the needy can't get them, the relief rolls in Pennsylvania will be reduced by the number of political hangers-on that are knocked off, so that the needy can get those WPA jobs. You all know I speak the truth. You all know how easy it is to get a WPA job. You don't have to be on relief; but you don't dare be a Republican; you have got to be a Democrat. You have to go to the political leader of your particular county; he calls up on the telephone the WPA distributor of jobs, and you're on. You're on that ten per cent item. That ten per cent item is a fake. It is more than ten per cent, but they wont give us the figures, but they are going to give us the figures or refuse to give us the figures before we are through this session. This little bunch of some eighty odd men that are here have that right, and we are going to get them. Now, members of the House, I have spoken long enough. I want you to go along with us. We want to provide nine and a half million dollars and you say you need more. Who says no? Governor Earle, on March 27, 1936, and you have the written report, said to a conference in the Governor's office that Mr. de Schweinitz said that the minimum amount that we need, the minimum amount of relief for May, was nine million dollars, and then a bold Republican had the effrontery to say to Mr. de Schweinitz "You the wrong. Give relief out; have your administrator spend as much as he wants. You don't need that much." Governor Earle said, "Mr. de Schweinitz says" We do; we can't get along without nine million dollars." But when this bold Republican, our State Treasurer, Charles Waters, got down to brass tacks, Mr. de Schweinitz agreed that for the month of May he only needed $6,971,620, and when he was asked how he could be out of line two million dollars, you ask him what answer he gave. So that if they could be wrong two million dollars for one month, for a month and a half they can be wrong more, excluding the costs of the transients. So we say if you are sincere, if you are not playing politics, we are in session and we are going to be in session; we won't let them starve. Appropriate the nine and a half million dollars. The Senate will pass it tomorrow morning. The unemployable will know and the needy will know that we won't play politics, and if they starve it is at the door of the Democrats, and of the Democrat who occupies the Governor's chair.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, apparently all our good intentions have gone for naught. In a deliberative group such as this where we should call upon our highest ideals of citizenship there is no need to indulge in political recrimination and incrimination.

We have a very simple problem before us. We have the very simple problem of providing relief for the unemployed, and immediate relief. Now our deliberations apparently up to this point have been directed in the wrong channel, because in conference after conference, at which both parties were represented, Republicans and Democrats alike, the facts were laid before them in an attempt to ascertain what is required for unemployment relief in the Commonwealth.

I do not set myself up as an authority as to the relief requirements of the Commonwealth and there is no man in this House who has the time, the ability or the energy so to do. All we can do is to rely upon the best knowledge, information and statistics that we have available, and in relying upon that best information, knowledge and statistics we come to the unbiased, unpolitical, honest conclusion that the resolution as presented must be passed.

The gentleman from Philadelphia places a tremendous amount of force upon the fact that our own State Treasurer Mr. Waters, arrived at the conclusion that the relief requirements for the month of May amount to $6,971,620. That is the figure that we took, that is the figure that the Democrats took, and that figure was arrived at in conference between the Auditor General of this Commonwealth, a Republican, the Treasurer of this Commonwealth, a Republican, and our Democratic Governor. Those are your figures. Those are the figures that the non-political Republicans submitted, and those are the figures that we have submitted to what we thought was an honest and non-political group.

It is very easy to multiply the relief requirements for the month of May of seven million dollars by two and get fourteen million dollars, the relief requirements for the month of May and June. I am sure that the mathematical computation is not susceptible to any political influence. Those are the figures that were submitted to us after consultation with the individuals whom I have mentioned and those are the figures upon which we base our relief requirements for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Those are the figures that are based on honest deliberations. Those are the figures that were based and extended to the Republican minority for cooperation. Any attempt to indicate that those figures are the result of chicanery or politics is an attempt to becloud the issue and you members of the House may judge for what means or purpose. All through the process of relief administration in this Commonwealth since 1935, the present Democratic administration has attempted by every method and every means to keep politics out of relief. Just as you men on the other side have had the experience, as has been indicated by the gentleman from Philadelphia.

You remember in 1933 the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth was none other than Gifford Pinchot. In January of 1933, the cost of administration, as the gentleman from Philadelphia has indicated, was one hundred and forty three thousand plus. Mr. Pinchot was the Governor and Mr. Eric Biddle was his Director of Relief, and the increment that the gentleman from Philadelphia has indicated from January 1933, to January 1935 occurred entirely, solely, under the supervision of the Republican Governor and the Republican Relief administration.

Apparently the gentleman from Philadelphia finds difficulty in remembering when the Democratic Governor and the Democratic administration took office. Apparently this year and a half has seemed four years to him. But that is not the problem; our only concern, our only immediate duty is today to place this House on record that it will do three things: No. 1, that we will authorize the transfer of sums of money from the Motor License Fund. No. 2, that we will authorize the transfer of moneys from the Liquid Fuel Fund, and No. 3, that with those moneys and other moneys in the General Fund we will make an appropriation to the State Emergency Relief Board to take care of the starving and the needy; not on our figures, not on our basis, but on the basis that has been arrived at by two Republican members of that Board and our Governor of Pennsylvania.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we seem to have been wasting a great amount of time in determining, or in trying to place the blame for the increasing cost of relief in Pennsylvania. I am not so much concerned as to where the blame shall be placed as I am concerned for the taxpayers of Pennsylvania who have to foot the bill.

In 1931 when we passed the first Talbot Act we carried ten million dollars for relief, and from that time up until 1933 we saw the demand steadily increasing until I remember an occasion when Governor Pinchot called us into his office to tell us that he needed seven million dollars for the month.

I remember also that subsequently with Federal funds the amount being expended in Pennsylvania was up to twenty million dollars a month. We are now asked at this time to appropriate eleven million dollars or approximately on a seven million dollar a month basis. In the 1935 session we were told, and I think all of the member of this House recall the debates on this floor, by the Federal administration that if we would supply five million dollars a month, the Federal administration would take care of the balance, and yet it was only a couple of months after the adjournment of the 1935 session when we were advised that all of the unemployables would be turned back to the State and the Federal government would take care of the employables. If your unemployable list was supposed to take five million dollars a month, the Federal government has not been taking care of the employables since that time, and I have seen figures which compute that the Federal government owes to the State of Pennsylvania to keep its bargain and its promise, between twenty-seven and forty million dollars, which the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has had to spend for relief beyond the amount it was told was its share of the bargain.

Now, I would not perhaps today have offered this resolution had I been convinced that the gentleman who has charge of the distribution of relief in Pennsylvania has any exact knowledge as to what will take to carry on relief at the present time. When the call for this session was first discussed, you will recall that the Governor submitted certain figures and that those figures were based on a statement given to him by the relief administrator, Dr. de Schweinitz of $70,500,000 for an eight months' period,—it was almost an eight months' period.

At that rate we would spend approximately nine million dollars a month. The committee, the bi-partisan committee, to discuss the problems of this session met here in Harrisburg, and the problems were then discussed with the Relief Board. We found that the Relief Board itself had no definite figures upon which to base a computation as to the amount of money that was needed for relief beyond the general figures given by Mr. de Schweinitz.

Now, after the first figure of nine million dollars a month we found that there was a new figure at the time that non-partisan committee met of $7,400,00 a month, which they thought would do for relief, and I might add that in that meeting that we had in the Governor's office with the Relief Board, the bi-partisan committee was told by the Relief Board that they would expend whatever sum of money the Legislature appropriated, and we were told by Mr. de Schweinitz that if we gave him less money, he would get along with that amount.

Now we have come down from the figure of nine million dollars a month to a figure of seven million four hundred thousand a month and then a figure of approximately seven million dollars a month. W are told by the State Treasurer, who is a member of that Board, that he thinks that nine million five hundred thousand dollars will see us through to the first of July, and they can get along on that. Therefore, I would agree with the gentleman from York if we had in this State one who could present facts and figures to us to warrant the expenditure of seven million dollars a month when we have nothing but estimates. Those estimates, as we know, have varied from time to time, from 1931 on, always on an increasing ratio of the amount of money that was needed. In 1932, I think the figures show that the per case amount of contribution was on the basis of $17 per month, and the figure of $9,000,000 a month was on the basis of $36 a month per case as an average grant by the State for unemployment relief. But in the meantime also the overhead has been increasing, and we know we have departed from the early idea of the Talbot act and the constitutional restriction that is placed upon us, that we could only appropriate and hand money over to the indigent. We have gotten away from the idea of food, shelter and clothing and contributions for many other things that we might call "frills" in a situation like this.

If we were to follow that $9,000,000 a month, do you realize that in a biennium the appropriation for unemployment relief would be $216,000,000, which is $14,000,000 greater than the General Fund appropriation of the 1935 session; a 100 percent plus increase in the amount of money that we would have to pay in the State of Pennsylvania were we to follow the $9,000,000 a month.

If you take it on the basis of $7,000,000 a month you will cut that down below that $200,000,000 mark, but still it would be almost a 100 per cent. increase in the amount of money it would take for relief in Pennsylvania.

Now, I would like in my own personal affairs, as you would, many times to do many things. There are many things that we may consider a necessity, but on the other hand, as I said in the beginning, you have to consider the source from which this money comes. At the present time it seems a very simple proposition to take it out of the Highway fund. I see no other recourse at the moment, but I wonder if you have stopped to consider that of the moneys we have taken out of the Highway fund since 1934. we now owe the Highway fund, the Motor fund, $12,340,000 which has been not repaid. There is at the present time a balance of $22,876,000 in the Motor fund. If we add to that the $12,240,000 that we owe, it will give us somewhat over $35,000,000 for our highways in Pennsylvania. We need for the seven months balance of this year to carry on the ordinary operation of the Highway Department $35,000,000. We are taking out of it for this purpose under the amendment which I have introduced about $7,000,000, which means that the Highway fund would therefore be short in the balance of this fiscal year, the balance of this calendar year, the sum of $7,000,000. We all know the deplorable condition of the roads of the State; at least I know them in our country; I don't know whether that is because it is a Republican county, but anyway they are full of holes and the Highway Department is not filling them up. We know that one of the strongest agencies for the relief of the unemployed is the Highway Department and its work upon our roads. We have to consider how much we are going to cripple our Highway Department as well as how much money we are going to contribute for relief in this situation.

I think under the circumstances that the guess or that the figure that has been given to us by the Relief Board and by the Relief Administrator has varied, that they say that they could get along with a less amount if we give them a less amount. In view of the fact that the State Treasurer who has had many years of experience on Capitol Hill and has been a member of the Relief Board since its beginning, has said that he can get along with $9,500,000 a month for the balance of this fiscal year, until July first, and in view of the fact that the reduction of $1,500,000 can easily be made upon economies, in cutting out the frills, in the elimination of all those that do not deserve to be there, that we can on that basis continue the present contributions at least.

I want to say for myself, however, that I am not content with this relief situation, and that I do not want to be construed in the future or to be held in the future to have agreed that this is the figure upon which relief should be based. I am confident from the attitude of the people in my county that they are sick and tired of this whole relief proposition, that they believe that there is a tremendous amount of abuse in this whole relief proposition. They believe that if this relief proposition were returned to the local communities it could be cut down considerably, and there could be a great saving. I believe there are a great many deserving people on relief. I believe that there are thousands of families in Pennsylvania who deserve every bit of sympathy and everybit of help we can give them, but I know from actual cases that have come to my knowledge, I know from actual conditions that other men, in whom I have the greatest confidence, have told me of, I know there is tremendous abuse in this relief situation. Last week I was in Pike County, and one of the local men up there who visits among the farmers, and does business with them, told me that the farmers up there couldn't get anyone up there to work because the people were on relief. I know there are people in that community and throughout that section of the state, men whom we usually know in our jocular way and call "wood burners" are today receiving more money than they ever had in their history. Some place, sometime, we have got to get our feet on the ground. The taxpayers of Pennsylvania and of the Nation cannot continue on the basis we are now going, and I think it is high time now, today to serve notice upon the relief administrator and upon the people of Pennsylvania that the turning point has come that the high water mark has passed, and that we intend from hence forward to scan this relief question most carefully, that we intend to cut it down, that we intend to reduce the amount and on that basis I ask you to support this resolution.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I just want to add one word in answer to my friend from York wherein he stated that I do not know when Governor Earle took office. I want to direct his attention and the attention of the people of Pennsylvania to a rather significant set of figures. I presume it is known that there was a Primary Election in September of 1935. I think the people of Pennsylvania ought to know that the cost of administration in July of 1935, and we must admit from the calendar that July precedes September and precedes the primary—that the cost of administration of relief in that month was $1,686,761.69. And then in August we reached almost the all time high even in 1935, the month immediately preceding the primary election, $1,703,416.29. And then the very next month—the Primary came in the middle of the month—it was reduced very easily almost $400,000.00 to $1,378,051.95, so that I say to the membership of this House and to the people of Pennsylvania that these figures speak for themselves, because we have had $1,700,000.00 in one month, and if it were to continue, in one year it would provide $21,000,000.00. If that figure were to continue for the administration of relief, not one dollar of which goes to the needy or the unemployed, and I say that in January of 1936 it was $996,153.68. Those figures speak for themselves.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, after listening to my two friends on the other side I am surprised that they did not blame some disgruntled Democrat for having loosed the waters that poured down the western part of Pennsylvania, and bringing destruction and making people there who were self sustaining subjects for relief today.

It is very amusing to hear the minority floor leader in his subtle way blame this tax program or rather this calling of the session on the tax program. I wonder how many of you members recall the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, last year, who took the initial step in suggesting that we should just appropriate for one year, because at the end of the year we would have a new constitution and we would have to reconvene and pass laws in conformity with that new Constitution.

I wonder if it ever occurred to you that we might be here today because we did not get that extra $60,000,000 that the Governor asked for at the regular session.

There is just one thing that I want to correct the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin on—this may add a little force to his argument,—he stated the maximum figure as $1,700,000.00. You missed $300,000. It is $300,000 higher than that, so if it is any good to you you may use it.

The basis of Mr. Witkin's argument in trying to amend this resolution is the fact that relief has increased or, rather, that the administration of relief has increased in cost from January, 1933 up until the present time. I think he has brought it down as far as the Primary Election of 1935, but he didn't bring it down to December, in which month the figures was about the lowest for the year. I have spent a lot of time in studying this relief problem; I have worked on the joint committee, and there is no member of this House who is capable of taking these figures that are thrown on his lap and properly digesting them and attaching the proper importance to those figures. All of you may not know that at the present time all of the counties but two are receiving their relief in kind. By that we mean they get shoes, they get bread, they get fuel. Every item of relief is distributed in kind. In the two counties, Philadelphia and Allegheny the distribution is in cash. Now you can readily see as the distribution becomes more protracted, as it continues, there are naturally new needs that arise that must be given to the people. If the depression had only lasted six months we would never have had an item such as shoes. As it has last more than six months, gradually the reserves are depleted, and there are some new categories that arise that must be met out of the relief appropriations. Now gentlemen it comes down to one question; if you want to give relief, if you want to give the people sufficient to support themselves you cannot break down this resolution, this transfer, on the ground that there is a fellow in Pike County that I know, or that there is some fellow in Delaware County that I know. That is an instance of hearing one complaint repeated ten times. All those rural counties put together constitute not more than ten per cent of the relief load. The big relief load is in the urban section. The people in those communities are crippled because industry is at a stand still. There is no opportunity to supplement the relief that they receive. There is no employment they can get. So it is merely a question of your philosophy not a question of administration. In Mr. Witkin's argument there is only one suggestion that he advances which might justify the position he has taken: that this transfer should be diminished by $2,000,000.00. He made complaints about extravagance, he made complaints about items which should not be provided for by Pennsylvania. He cited one instance, the transient. I would like to ask the gentleman, why do you bring the transient item in here when today Pennsylvania is not paying one cent for transients. If the minority members of this House can show a plan, a specific plan, can show items which are now being provided, which should not be provided, if they can submit any specific recommendation as to where this could be cut, I am certain the Governor of this Commonwealth who has very reluctantly asked this House to pass a tax program that he know is necessary, would very gladly welcome such recommendation.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I merely want to answer the indirect question that was placed before me. Mr. Burke stated that he would like to ask me a question, then he did not ask the question, and therefore, I do not have the opportunity of answering it, but assuming that he were asking the question I say he is right. They don't call them transients any more; they give them a new name; they call them the local homeless, but they are still transients and they are still people that do not belong in Pennsylvania. They come through Pennsylvania and locally become homeless until they go to some other state, but they are here, they are still transients, so call hem by any name you want. I answer Mr. Burke by saying that the local homeless, alias transients, are still being cared for by the relief board.

Mr. Van SICKLE. Mr. Speaker in analyzing this discussion there are only three points involved. The first point is the point of guess work. If we are to take the word of the minority leader they want us to substitute their guess for relief for our guess for relief. I say to you, gentlemen, that with the advantage of the administration in dealing with this relief problem, they are in a better position to guess what the amount of relief should be than are the minority leaders. If we must make a guess, then I say to you, gentlemen, we should take the guess of people who are in a position to know.

One other point, two suggestions have been made for cutting down the expenditures in connection with relief. One was the question of cost. Mr. Burke has answered is reducing the cost. But the minority leader didn't tell you that prior to December of 1935, three-fourths of all that question. He has shown you that the administration funds expended for direct unemployment relief were funds from the federal works. He did not tell you that the federal government bore this expense, now did he tell you that the load has been increased. As an example, in twelve cities in 1933, in round figures, $44,000,000 was given in relief. Of this amount $1,000,000 came from private sources, and $74,000,000 from public funds. In 1935 $121,000,000 was the total relief expenditure. On that amount only $881,000.00 came from private sources, leaving $120,000,000 in round figures for public relief from public funds. In other words, the expenditures have increased and of necessity the administration costs have increased, but despite this necessity of increasing the administration costs, they have actually been decreased as Mr. Burke has called to your attention.

The only other suggestion made was in the matter of transients or whatever you want to call them. My friends, I don't care whether a baby was born in California, Ohio, or in Pennsylvania, whether it has lived in this state one hour, one month or one year, if that child needs food to keep it alive it is our duty to supply it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to amendments?

PRAYER

REV. IVAN H. BENEDICT, pastor of Blue Hill Baptist Church, Hartford, Conn., offered the following prayer:

Let us pray. Almighty God, to whom we owe our being, we pause to give thanks to You for the beauty of the day; for another opportunity of delight. May we indeed have wisdom; may we have the courage of exercising that wisdom on behalf of the affairs of our fellows. We thank Thee for that which has come into our own lives, health and strength. We thank Thee for the courage that has enabled us to carry on to this day. May we indeed, as we shall face these problems that are before us seek that higher righteousness and realize that there is a power in ourselves which in this world is making for truth and for righteousness, hinder it though we may in our ignorance or thoughtlessness.

Therefore, Oh God, grant to us a portion of wisdom and may we walk in the way of the great Friend of man who came that might, might have right. Amen.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House: During the Legislative Session of 1935, by authority of the Joint Resolution No. 110, there was appointed a Joint Committee consisting of three members of the Senate and three members of the House for the purpose in brief of investigating unemployment relief in Pennsylvania.

As Chairman of this Joint Committee I am herewith presenting a report of findings, supplemented by recommendations, signed by two members of the Senate and myself, as Chairman.

On repeated occasions, in view of the importance of presenting information gathered by our authorized agents to the Special Session, requiring haste that otherwise would not have been necessary I attempted to have meetings of the entire Committee for the purpose of laying all the facts before all of the members before incorporating them in a formal report. For one reason or another some of the members found it inconvenient to attend these sessions. In view of the fact that I was being constantly importuned for facts concerning the Committee's findings I found it necessary, in order that the report might be of real value to the Legislature at this time, to get the information all together and submit it as a whole to those members who had not regularly attended recent meetings. After full discussion with those committeemen I was able to contact, the recommendations which accompany the factual evidence in the body of the report were finally formulated, approved and signed by Senator Theodore Lane Bean, Senator Charles H. Ealy and myself as Chairman. The other members have not signed.

May I say that we have endeavored to eliminate from our findings any suspicion of political bias and have approached our problem in full sympathy with the purposes of unemployment relief and the joint interests of the unemployed and the tax-payers of Pennsylvania.

May I also say to the members that copies of this report will be available shortly in your post office boxes outside of this House.

The SPEAKER. The report of the Committee to investigate unemployment relief will be read by the Clerk.

The report was read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER. The report will be noted in the Journal and printed in the Appendix to the Legislative Journal.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The committee to investigate the sound amplification system of the House will meet immediately after this session at the rear of the House.

The SPEAKER. The Rules Committee will meet on Monday afternoon, May 8, at 4.00 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, in the Speaker's Office.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. JOHN A. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. JOHN A. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to file the following statement:

October 18, 1935.

W. P. Gallagher, Chief Clerk,
House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Mr. Gallagher:

I have just opened the last copies of the Legislative Journal mailed to me recently and have discovered that I was recorded as voting for House Bill 2711. I believe if you will examine your roll call sheet you will find that my vote was cast negatively.

My recollection is vivid in the matter because some constituents from Lemoyne came to my desk to ask me to recall House Bill 2653 from the desk of the Governor for the purpose of amendment. This motion to recall passed at about 11:30 and while I was at the desk of the compiling clerk and the parliamentarian arranging for the introduction of the amendments requested by the Lemoyne constituents House Bill 2711 was reached on the calendar. I then asked the clerk to record my vote "No".

I was not in my seat it is true and should probably be recorded as not voting, but since we were so close to the end of the session with only sufficient time to secure reconsideration of the Senate and House to the amendments to House Bill 2653 it was imperative that I secure the necessary action before the hour of adjournment of the legislative day of June 17. I hope you will consult your roll call and make the necessary correction in your journal records at the opening of the next session.

Very sincerely yours,
JOHN A. SMITH.

The SPEAKER. The statement with reference to the question of personal privilege will be printed in the Journal.

We thank Thee, our heavenly Father, for the benign memory of yesterday, when in our churches and homes we were privileged to observe Mothers' Day. How eloquent a word is mother! How potent an influence do the mothers of our land and the world exert upon the race! We would continue the observance of this sacred day in our brief devotions tonight. We would lay a tribute at the feet of mother, if she be living; and breathe a prayer that our lives may be worthy of her if she has left us to be with Thee.

Grant that the legislators here assembled may be and do that which will meet with the approval of their mothers and of Thee, the Father of all mankind. Amen.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. GELDER, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended the following resolution:

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO TRANSFER OF FUNDS FOR UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

In the House of Representatives, May 5, 1936.

Whereas, House Bill No. 14, authorizing the transfer from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund of amounts aggregating not more than five million five hundred thousand dollars ($5,500,000), for the purpose of providing funds for unemployment relief, and providing for the repayment thereof not later than May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, House Bill No. 15, authorizing the transfer from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund to the General Fund, between its effective date and June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, of amounts aggregrating not more than three million dollars ($3,000,000), for the purpose of providing funds for unemployment relief, and providing for the repayment thereof not later than May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, House Bill No. 17, appropriating these amounts, among others, in the sum of eleven million dollars ($11,000,000) to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, these bills are not possible of passage until they have been acted upon both by the House of Representatives and the Sente on three legislative days, and there is not yet available sufficient data upon which to intelligently act upon saiid legislation, and

Whereas, There is a deficit of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars of cash to meet the allocations of the State Emergency Relief Board for the remainder of the month of May, 1936; and

Whereas, the cost of administration of unemployment relief has enormously increased since the passage of the law providing for the creation of the State Emergency relief Board, out of all proportion to the additional numbers of unemployed upon the relief rolls, and likewise the cost of administering unemployment relief has increased from the sum of 55 cents per case in the month of May, 1933, to the sum of $4.04 per case in the month of February, 1936; and

Whereas, It is the sense of the General Assembly that the system of administering relief be changed so that relief shall be granted on the basis of need only and that the cost of administering relief shall be materilly reduced to the end that the overwhelming burden of taxation may be lifted from our citizens; and

Whereas, the number of administrative employes has increased from 2761 during the month of June, 1932, to 7734 during the month of February, 1936; and

Whereas, By the Act of May 26, 1933, Pamphlet Laws one thousand eighty-eight, the State Treasurer is authorized and directed from time to time, whenever the Governor ascertains the necessity therefor, to transfer, upon warrant by the Auditor General upon requisition of the Governor, funds from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund; and

Whereas, It is of vital importance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and to the unemployment relief situation, that this sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars be made avaliable immedately for unemployment relief purposes; now, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that if the Governor, the Auditor General and the State Treasurer shall in accordance with said act of May 26, 1933, Pamphlet Laws ten hundred eighty-eigth, transfer to the General Fund such sum of money from the Motor License Fund in order to make the same available for expenditure for unemployment relief by the State Emergency Relief Board, for the balance of the month of May, 1936, the General Assembly hereby pledges itself that it will enact appropriate legislation at this session of the General Assembly specifically appropriating the sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief, and to provide revenue by taxation or otherwise, to repay said transferred moneys to said special fund.

Resolved, That it is the sense of the General Assembly that appropriate legislation be enacted providing that the Senate shall elect a financial agent who shall not be a member of the Senate, and the House of Representatives shall elect a financial agent who shall not be a member of the House of Representatives, whose duty it shall be, individually or collectively, to demand and receive, from time to time, from the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board, for the use of the Senate and House of Representatives, an itemized account of all moneys expended from the sum authorized to be made available for expenditure in accordance with this resolution, the law enacted to carry the same into effect and any other law heretofore or hereafter appropriating moneys to the State Emergency Relief Board and expended subsequent to May 1, 1936; the agents so elected to be paid, from appropriations made to the State Emergency Relief Board, five hundred dollars ($500.00).

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I call for the reading of the original resolution.

The original resolution was read, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 5, 1936.

Whereas, House Bill No. 14, authorizing the transfer from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund of amounts aggregating not more than five million five hundred thousand dollars ($5,500,000), for the purpose of providing funds for unemployment relief, and providing for the repayment thereof not later than May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, House Bill No. 15, authorizing the transfer from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund to the General Fund, between its effective date and June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, of amounts aggregating not more than three million dollars ($3,000,000), for the purpose of providing funds for unemployment relief, and providing for the repayment thereof not later than May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, House Bill No. 17, appropriating these amounts, among others in the sum of eleven million dollars ($11,000,000) to the State Emergency Relief Board for employment relief purposes, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, these bills are not possible for passage until they have been acted upon by the House of Representatives and the Senate on three legislative days, and

Whereas, it is of vital importance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and to the unemployment relief situation, that these moneys be made available immediately for unemployment relief purposes, now, therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the fiscal officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund from the Motor License Fund, sums not exceeding five million five hundred thousand dollars ($5,500,000) and from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund, sums not exceeding three million dollars ($3,000,000), and the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass, without amendment, House Bills Nos. 14 and 15, so providing, validating the action of the Governor and the fiscal officers in making such transfers, and the General Assembly further pledges that it will further pass, without amendment, House Bill No. 17, appropriating said moneys, among others, to the State Emergency Relief Board, for unemployment relief purposes, and the General Assembly further pledges that it will do so without delay.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the amendment offered is inconsistent with the original resolution. Under Rule 18 the President has no right to receive it. I object to the reception of this amendment to the resolution.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, there is nothing before the Senate. This is a resolution reported from Committee, which, under the rules, must lie over for a day unless by unanimous consent or a suspension of the rules by a two-thirds vote of those present it is taken up for immediate consideration. Therefore, there is nothing before the Senate.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the resolution has been reported as amended. I object to the receipt of the resolution as amended. There is something before the Senate, and what is before the Senate at this time is an amendment which has been offered to the original resolution. Under Rule 18 the President has no right to receive it.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is of the opinion that the point of order raised by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, under Rule 18 is well taken; and that the amendment destroys the intent of the original resolution. The Chair therefore sustains the point of order.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I appeal from the decision of the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will reduce his appeal to writing, and present it to the Chair.

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF THE CHAIR

The appeal was read as follows:

May 11th, 1936.

Mr. PRESIDENT. I appeal from the decision of the Chair sustaining the point of order raised by Senator Shapiro with reference to concurrent resolution Serial No.

3 just reported by Senator Gelder from the Committee on Appropriations.

C. J. BUCKMAN
F. T. GELDER
JOHN J. McCLURE
JOHN W. HOWELL
G. WOODWARD

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. John G. Homsher) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The roll will be called on the appeal from decision of the Chair.

QUESTION OF INQUIRY

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, will state his question of inquiry.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, is a vote "No" a vote against the decision of the Chair, and a vote "Aye" a vote in favor of the decision of the Chair?

The PRESIDENT. The question is, "Will the Senate sustain the decision of the Chair?" Those who vote "Aye" will vote to sustain the decision; those who vote "No" will vote not to sustain the decision.

The yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—19

Baumer,	Law,	Rankin,	Rupp,
Cavalcante,	McCreesh,	Reed,	Ruth,
Frey,	McGinnis,	(Washington)	Shapiro,

Chapman,	Mallery,	Salus,	Ziesenheim,

Ealy,			Pres. Pro. Tem.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The PRESIDENT. The decision of the Chair is therefore not sustained.

The PRESIDENT. (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. Is there any objection to the unanimous consideration of the resolution?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection. Under the rules the resolution will lie over for a day.

MOTION TO PRINT RESOLUTION

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the resolution as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

PRAYER

Rev. W. J. CONRAD, Pastor of the Covenant Presbyterian Church of Harrisburg, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our everlasting Father, we invoke Thy guidance in this hour. May we cherish the memories of those who layed the foundations of our Commonwealth, and also may we cherish the ideals which guided them in making here for the generations who have followed by that which they regarded as obedience to the will of God. We ask that these Representatives of the Government of Pennsylvania, of our people throughout our State, may sense their responsibility not only to the constituencies which they represent but, above all, to Almighty God, the Ruler of men, the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords, and may we be guided in our deliberations and in the decisions which we make in this Chamber, in which we make the laws to guide our Commonwealth, by that which is the fear of the Lord, the beginning of wisdom, and may we have a real sense by which we ask Thee to inspire us, a sense of integrity, and righteousness and justice, and those virtues and ideals that shall enable us to be instruments in Thy hands, Oh, God, for that which shall mean the prosperity of Thy people throughout our State. In the name of Christ our Redeemer. Amen.

RESOLUTION

TRANSPORTATION OF PUPILS

Mr. HOLLAND offered a resolution and asked unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 11, 1936.

The cost of transportation of pupils to the school districts in Allegheny County is a matter of grave concern to its citizens; and it is believed that it is far greater than the circumstances require; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania is hereby requested to make an investigation, through its existing facilities, with the view of ascertaining whether, on the basis of valuation and income, or on any other basis, the street railway companies operating in Allegheny County may be required to issue tickets for school pupils only, at a rate not to exceed twenty-five cents (25c) per week.

The SPEAKER. This is not a privileged resolution and will be filled with the Clerk under the rules.

INFORMATION REQUESTED FROM FEDERAL RELIEF ADMINISTRATION

Mr. TURNER offered a resolution and asked that it be read for the information of the members of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 11, 1936.

Whereas, the preliminary report of Joint Legislative Committee to Investigate Public Relief in Pennsylvania, as filed by the Republican members thereof, set forth that employables transferred from direct relief to WPA projects received relief orders concurrent with the time they worked on WPA, because WPA were unable to issue pay checks, and at the request of WPA to the SERB the relief service was continued; and

Whereas, the said report further states that this duplication cost the Commonwealth an estimated sum of Ten Million ($10,000,000) Dollars; and

Whereas, it is reported that large numbers of WPA workers in the State are being dismissed and are being reinstated on relief rolls; and

Whereas, the President and Federal Relief Administrator advised the States during the year 1935 that the Federal Government would, through its various programs, give employment to all employables and that the States would have to take care of the unemployables;

Therefore be it resolved that the SERB be requested to communicate without delay with the Federal Relief Administration and request

(1) that the said Federal Relief Administration immediately pay to the SERB the sum of Ten Million ($10,000.000) Dollars representing the amount paid by the SERB to WPA workers as set forth above, said sum to be applied to the immediate relief requirements; and

(2) that the said Federal Relief Administration agree to pay to the SERBS the amount necessary to reimburse the State for any moneys which are paid for the relief of said discharged WPA workers; and

(3) that the SERB cause to be kept an accurate account of all moneys paid for relief to employables, and that statements thereof be submitted from time to time to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

And further be it resolved that the SERB forward a report showing the action taken to present aforesaid matters to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, and their replies and agreements in reference thereto.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUESTED TO MAKE STATEMENT

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement at this time, to be followed by a request for immediate consideration of the resolution

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner to make a statement?

Is there objection?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, if the statement of the gentleman from Delaware is to be followed by a request for immediate consideration, and since I will have to object to the immediate consideration of the resolution, I object to the statement at this time as being unnecessary. The statement can be made when the resolution comes out on the floor of the House for action.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from York unfamiliar with the fact that a request has been made for an appropriation of eleven million dollars to take care of unemployment relief for the balance of May and June?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I am familiar with the fact that a resolution has been introduced and passed by this House calling for the transfer of funds to the State Emergency Relief Board, in the sum of eleven million dollars.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from York familiar with the fact that the transfer of such funds, which are mainly Motor funds or gasoline tax funds, will seriously hamper the State Highway Department?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I am not, and my recent conversations with Mr. Warren Van Dyke indicate that the transfer of these funds will in no way hinder the funds of the Highway Department and more particularly so since provisions for the return of those funds will be made by the passage of tax legislation and new monies will be created immediately by the issuance of tax anticipation certificates.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I again renew my request for unanimous consent to make a statement, the statement being in explanation of my reason why I think this resolution ought to have immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to make a statement. Are there objections?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the statement will be followed by a request for immediate consideration of the resolution and since I shall object to immediate consideration of the resolution, I renew my objection to the statement.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House rule be suspended for the purpose of permitting the gentleman from Delaware to make a statement. If the gentleman from York subsequently desires to object to the immediate consideration of this resolution, in my judgment, that is another matter. I now move the suspension of the rule in order to give the gentleman from Delaware the opportunity of making a statement in connection with the resolution that has just been introduced.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I might say that if the gentleman from Delaware will withdraw his request for immediate consideration—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the point of order is that there has been a motion made to suspend a particular rule for the purpose of permitting the gentleman from Delaware to make a statement and the request of the gentleman from York that it carry a provision with it is not a part of the motion.

Therefore, the gentleman from York is out of order and I ask for a roll call upon my motion and a vote.

The SPEAKER. The point of order of the gentleman from Philadelphia is well taken, but the Chair wished to give the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, an opportunity to explain his position to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner. The question before the House is the suspension of rule 14 for the purpose of permitting the gentleman from Delaware to make a statement.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I might say that this side of the House has no objection to the gentleman from Delaware making the statement. We do object to the request on his part for immediate consideration of the resolution.

OBJECTION TO UNANIMOUS CONSENT WITHDRAWN

The SPEAKER. The objection of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, to the gentleman from Delaware making a statement is now withdrawn. Therefore, the suspension of Rule 14 is not now necessary.

STATEMENT BY MR. TURNER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I desire to thank the gentleman from York for withdrawing his objection. The Chairman of the Republican Steering Committee has asked that I thank him also for his maneuvering. He knows that he has my thanks at all times.

Seriously speaking, however, I do feel that this House should give immediate consideration to this resolution, as I can see no reason for any delay in sending it to committee, which can only be based upon the reason that it was felt that in sending to committee, it needed some study.

In the report that was filed by the Republican members of the Joint Legislative Committee investigating relief, the statement was made that when the WPA last year started its active program a great number of men were taken off the relief rolls to secure employment under the WPA, that because of the time period that elapsed between the starting of their work and the time when they could receive their checks, it was necessary for the SERB, or the Relief Board in Pennsylvania, to carry these people on relief and they did so at the request of the WPA. It has been estimated by the Committee—and I have heard figures that are higher than this, but I thought I would be conservative—it has been estimated by the Committee that the cost to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was ten million dollars for the money that was payed out in relief to those men on WPA between the time that they went on WPA and the time they got their checks.

Naturally, any business organization would have repaid to the State Emergency Relief Board the amount of money, that had been given them for relief during the time they were on WPA, because otherwise they would have been receiving double relief. It seems to me that in the emergency that is facing us in this State, where we do not have the funds at the present time to meet the balance of May and June, where even if we borrow them from the Motor Fund and other Funds we will have to repay them by taxation—it seems to me only fair that the Federal Emergency Relief should step in and repay to the State of Pennsylvania this sum estimated at ten million dollars, or if they thing that is too high, it seems to me it would be a very simple proproition to take a list of those men who had gone on WPA and yet received emergency relief from the State at the same time and compute the exact amount of money which the State had to put up. I have heard it said that the answer to that is that these go off the WPA, and if they do go off the WPA there will be a waiting period for them before they can go on relief, and yet I want to say to this House that when I raised that question a few weeks ago in committee, in consultation with the Relief authorities of Pennsylvania, that a great many people were afraid to take jobs for fear they would get off relief and wouldn't be able to get back on relief promptly, I was told that that whole condition had been eliminated and that it didn't exist anymore.

I undersand that in some instances it was three weeks between the time these people went on WPA and they got their relief checks, they got their WPA checks, and so the Commonwealth was carrying them over that period. I think that it could be easily and accurately computed and that it is only a fair proposition. I am amazed at my friends on the other side of the House that they should arise in this manner and put themselves in the position of having to defend it. It is not a partisan matter as I see it, it is not a matter that is subject to partisan politics, it is a plain business proposition from the standpoint of the State, and I have too much fondness and too much respect for some of my friends on the other side to want to see them get themselves in a position where they would have to attempt to defend something which in my opinion is indefensible.

The second thing I am asking the SERB to do is this: I have been advised by some of the members of this House from some of the other counties, and the records of the Emergency Relief Board Administration show that there have been added in the last week I think it was, about eleven hundred cases in Pennsylvanina, showing that the WPA is discharging men and that these men are coming back on the relief rolls of Pennsylvania. Now, in 1935, I think every member of this House recalls that the President of the United States and the Federal Relief Administrator said to the people of the United States, the Federal Government is going to take care of all the employables but that the states will have to take care of the unemployables. If a man has been employed on WPA and then is fired from WPA and comes back to the state seeking relief, the Federal Government has no right to expect Pennsylvania to bear that burden. I, therefore, feel that the SERB and our Emergency Relief Administration should see to it that an accurate check is made of the employables who are coming back on our emergency relief rolls or employables that exist on our relief rolls, and that if any of them are taken back and are given relief by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the Federal Government should step forward and reimburse the State. I am merely asking that this matter be called to the attention of the Federal authorities and that the State authorities keep an accurate account, so that we will know how much the Federal government owes us.

It seems to me that it is a simple business proposition, that it is not a subject for any partisan politics here on the floor of this House, and that it does not need to go to a committee for consideration. Anybody can understand what we are asking. We are merely asking the Federal government to come to Pennsylvania, keep its bargain, do what it said it would do and not burden Pennsylvania when it hasn't the money and is trying to raise what it can. What it does raise will have to be raised by taxation.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman how much he estimates the Federal government should pay back to the SERB for the payments made to people who had WPA jobs and who had not received their checks.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I think, if I understand that question right, that the SERB should reimburse the State of Pennsylvania for the amount of money that the State of Pennsylvania had to pay to those people on relief during the time they were waiting for their WPA checks. I do realize, and I presume this is what the skillful gentleman from Philadelphia is leading up to, that under the budget plan there is a difference at times between the amount that a man might receive on WPA and the amount that the State was paying under its budget plan and, therefore, there might be an adjustment necessary in that respect—I can not tell.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman apprised of the practice of the SERB to go after the people who have received duplicate payments from relief and from the WPA, and that they are now collecting fifty cents and a dollar from many of these people?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I have read in the report of what is termed the "Horst Committee" that there have been restitutions of some two hundred and forty thousand dollars of money improperly collected.

Mr. EROE. Mr. Speaker, I object to the statement that it was the report of the "Horst Committee." It was not the report of the "Horst Committee."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner?

Mr. BURKE. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if the sole source of his information is gotten from the so-called report of the "Horst Committee."

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would answer that by saying "No", that my sole source of information is not what I read in that report.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman what is his source of information, that there is a great sum due to the SERB from the Federal Government.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, part of that information, I can say, came from the State Treasurer, Charles A. Waters, a member of the Emergency Relief Board.

Mr. BURKE. And, Mr. Speaker, where did the rest of it come from?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I think that is a matter which I do not care to divulge at the moment.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, what information does the gentleman have which has come from the so-called "Horst Report"?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I have already stated, I think twice, that the information which I received,—and I will avoid that apparently prescribed word "Horst Committee," by saying that the information that I personally received is on page 97 of a report which was signed, as I said in my opening remarks, by the three Republican members of the joint Legislative Committee to investigate emergency relief.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, may I ask if the gentleman is familiar with the manner in which that committee functioned, and the procedure which was followed in making this report?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, of course, that is a broad statement to ask me whether I am familiar with the procedure. I know that the meetings ran over a long period. I do find in the report a great number of affidavits showing great wrongs in the handling of relief and in obtaining relief, and I saw statements of specific records. Just where the Horst Committee gathered together this particular information, I have no knowledge.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman notice in that report a statement that the budget deficiency is a grant just sufficient to maintain a person?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not recall reading that in that report. I read both the Horst Committee report and the Goodrich report, and it is a little difficult for me sometimes to remember which is which.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman again if in reading the so-called "Horst report" he came across a statement that the amount of the budget deficiency is just sufficient to sustain the people who are on relief.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not recall that I read that in the "Horst report."

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, but the gentleman did hear things which he believes are very derogatory to the members of the committee who did not sign this report.

Mr. TURNER. I did not get that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I did not hear the gentleman's answer.

Mr. TURNER. I say, Mr. Speaker, I did not get the question.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, I think if the two gentlemen would take the microphone, everybody here would know what is going on. At the present time it seems like a conversation between two individuals.

The SPEAKER. Will the two gentlemen please take the microphones so that they can be clearly understood by all the members of the House?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask that the resolution be again read for the information of the House, feeling assured that when my Democratic friends do hear the resolution read, they will stop their interrogation and withdraw their objection.

Mr. SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to have the resolution read again? Are there objections?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I object to a second reading of the resolution because I think it will be useless at this time.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of information.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, my question of information is that I am not thoroughly familiar with the contents of the resolution. I am now hearing interrogations upon that resolution, and in order that I may be fully apprised, as a member of this House, as to what the resolution contains, and that I may be fully informed as to the purport of the interrogations and the replies thereto, I ask the Speaker to direct the Clerk to read the resolution in order that I, as a member of the House, may have the necessary information upon which to form a proper judgment upon any subsequent vote which may take place upon the resolution.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, the Chair wishes to state that the resolution is not a matter of business before the House. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, asked unanimous consent to make a statement and this interrogation is following up that particular statement.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, there was a resolution introduced, and it is patent that the interrogation is upon that resolution. I take it, Mr. Speaker, that a member of the House has the inalienable right to know the subject matter both of the interrogation and of the statement. I very respectfully submit and very frankly admit that I do not know the full contents of that resolution, and all I am now requesting the Speaker of this House to do is to have it read, so that I may know the resolution that has been presented before this House. The interrogation is patently upon a resolution. The questions of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, and the answers thereto of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, are based upon a controversy that comes forth from a resolution that has been introduced.

I cannot see how any member of the House can possibly object to my asking that the resolution be read in order that I may know that concerning which there seems to be a great deal of time consumed, and I respectfully ask the Speaker to permit the House to rehear the resolution. I may say that in the ten years that I have been a member of this House I have never known of an objection being made to having anything read the second time for the information of the members. I am merely asking that the resolution be read for myself and the other members of the House who I do not believe have any knowledge as to the purport or importance of this resolution, and I renew my request to the Speaker of the House to permit the members of the House, as well as the visitors in the gallery, to know what is in that resolution upon which we are spending so much time.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I ask that a copy of the resolution be given to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkins, for his perusal.

The SPEAKER. Is there still objection to the reading of the resolution?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the clerk read the resolution in the first place in a loud and clear voice. He had the benefit of the microphone, so that any member of this House who was interested in the business of the House could hear the resolution. I believe that the request for the reading of the resolution is merely an attempt to spar for time, and at the same time an attempt to impress upon both the visitors and members of the House that this a a partisan matter, a political matter, and therefore I renew my objection to the reading of this resolution a second time.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, has suggested that a copy of the resolution be furnished me for my perusal. However, I take it that inasmuch as there are two hundred and eight members of the House, and that I don't constitute more than one member, that the entire membership should hear that resolution.

In view of the captious and technical objection raised by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, I now move to have Rule No. 84 suspended for the mere purpose of having the resolution read, not for its immediate consideration, but for the mere purpose of having it read so that the membership of this House may know just what is contained in this resolution, and concerning which the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, and my friend, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, are respectively interrogating and replying to the interrogation.

I ask for a roll call upon the question of the suspension of the rule, so that the resolution may be read for the information of myself, my Republican colleagues, and those on the Democratic side who would like to know what is contained in the resolution.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is the suspension of Rule No. 84 for the specific purpose of having this resolution read. It requires one hundred and five votes to pass this motion. A roll call having been asked for by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, and by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Blumberg, the roll will be called.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. Eberharter. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, tell me why he objects to the resolution being read. Prefacing my question with the remark to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, that although the resolution was read, I did not hear it, and I do not know its contents, nor have I seen the resolution, nor had I any knowledge concerning the resolution prior to its introduction.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, as I said when I renewed my objection, I do not believe that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, had for his purpose the obtaining of knowledge as what was in this particular resolution. I believe that his purpose in having this resolution read was merely to bring before the House a matter that had been already read, merely to waste the time of the members of the House. We have a good deal of important business to attend to this evening, and I do not believe that we will be serving the citizens of this State if we debate this resolution for a long period of time, and thus put off taking care of the relief question which is before us tonight.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, take my word that the motive attributed to me in asking that this resolution be read a second time is incorrect, and that I give the gentleman from Allegheny my word that I didn't hear the resolution and that I haven't the vaguest idea other than that it refers to ten million dollars, and I merely want it read for my own information, sincerely and honestly.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, I have no intention whatsoever of disputing his statement to the effect that he didn't have any knowledge of what was in the resolution. I believe he is honest in stating that he didn't know what was in the resolution, but, nevertheless, I do think that it is a waste of time to again read this resolution, especially in view of the fact that we have very important business to transact. We have to listen to the spokesmen of the unemployed, the hour is growing late now, and if it is just a matter of delay in listening to these speakers, I say we should not read this resolution over again, because under the rules, it should lie over in committee for one day to be printed.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, has asked to have the resolution read for his information. I do not know of anyone in this House who needs information more than he upon this particular subject. I think we ought to read it.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to reply to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, by saying that we on this side of the House have no particular place to go, we are not in a hurry, we will stay here until dawn if necessary, and we demand that the unemployed be given the right to speak before us, we are willing to have them speak before us, we are anxious to learn their problems, so that the endeavor upon the part of the gentleman from Allegheny to indicate that we are delaying the representatives of the unemployed to speak before us is an endeavor to cast muddy waters upon the scene. We will stay here, we are paid by the taxpayers to stay here, it is our duty and our obligation to listen to the unemployed, and I say to the gentleman from Allegheny———

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. TUMELTY. Is there a motion before the House?

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is the suspension of Rule 84 to permit the reading of this resolution.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, does that have anything to do with listening to the unemployed? Why is this being brought into the question? Why not stick to the question, dispose of it, and then we can listen to the unemployed.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I merely want to call the attention of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tumelty, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, to the fact that by this time we could have heard the resolution read a hundred time and would have been ready to hear the unemployed.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. BLUMBERG.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

REQUEST TO INTERROGATE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I defer my request for recognition until after the Senate has come in and we have finished hearing the unemployed.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to announce that the House and the Senate will go into a joint hearing for the purpose of hearing the speakers from the Workers Alliance of America. On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments:

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 9, line 1, by striking out the word "of" and insert in lieu thereof the word: "or"

Amend Sec. 1, page 9, line 29, by striking out the word "much" and insert in lieu thereof the word: "made"

Amend Sec. 1, page 15, line 22, by striking out the word "asignee" and insert in lieu thereof the word "assignee"

Amend Sec. 1, page 19, line 3, by striking out the word "originally" and insert in lieu thereof the word: "ordinarily"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments:

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 7, line 6, by inserting after the word "return" the following: "in duplicate, the original"

Amend Sec. 1, page 7, by inserting after line 21, the following paragraph: "The duplicate unsworn return shall be forwarded by the Department of Revenue to the county commissioners, Board of Revision of Taxes or board for the assessment and revision of taxes, as the case may be, of the county from which the return was made for its use and information."

Amend Sec. 1, page 22, line 18, by inserting after the word "act" the following: "and any information gained by the county commissioners, Board of Revision of Taxes or board for the assessment and revision of taxes as the result of duplicate returns received from the department"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to ask that these amendments be voted down for the reason that the addition of these amendments will complicate the enforcement of this act; it will cause a tremendous burden to be placed upon the Department of Revenue in the enforcement and collection of this tax. It appears that no good service will be rendered by the addition of the obligation on the Department of Revenue to furnish the individual counties with duplicate returns, and it will entail an unnecessary and large expense in regard to the gathering, the filing, and the mailing of these duplicate returns to the particular counties. It seems to me that this will complicate the act in its enforcement and will perhaps seriously interfere with the mechanics of the enforcement of this act, and I therefore ask the support of the members of this House in voting down these amendments.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the purpose of these amendments is quite simple. The purpose is to give the County Commissioners throughout the State some reliable information upon which they will be able to collect the four mill personal property tax in collecting the amount due to the County. Under the present law there are no teeth in the act, and the County Commissioners have no way of ascertaining the amount of personal property under their jurisdiction. Under the law as it is the County Commissioners can only get the amount of the personal property upon which the four mill tax is levied. All these amendments provide is that the Department of Revenue returns shall be in duplicate, and that the duplicate shall be sent to the County Commissioners of the counties in which they are made. This will require very little additional work on the part of the Department of Revenue. The amendments are purely non-political. I submitted them to the Department of Revenue before I offered them, and they met the approval of Mr. Evleth, Deputy Secretary of the Department of Revenue. The result will be that the people who are interested in the reduction of taxes in your own district can do a great deal toward aiding that reduction by helping the County Commissioners to collect the personal property tax due them. This amendment does not levy any new tax, but merely aids in the collection of the present tax. I respectfully submit that the amendment is non-political and deserves the support of both sides of the House.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to answer but one point raised by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham, with regard to the inability of the counties to properly enforce the present four mill tax. I would like to call their attention to the fact that the County Commissioners have been empowered in the various counties properly to enforce the Act, and if the County Commissioners in the particular counties wish to do so, they can so do. The purpose of this Act is to raise a fund and it is not to become the teeth for the enforcing of some other act which is to benefit the counties. This Act will in turn benefit the counties because it will raise funds for the purpose of relief in those particular counties. I say to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham, that the County Commissioners in our County of Allegheny have in the past few years demonstrated that this law with regard to the four mill tax for counties has teeth in it, and the amounts so levied and so collected have been increased there by the County Commissioners enforcing the Act.

The purpose of this Act is not to be confused with the the purpose of the County Act, and due to the fact that there have been reports made for a much longer period of time by the various counties, and due to the fact that this increase will be temporary for this particular year, I feel that it will conflict with the enforcement of the Act very seriously and I feel that it will hamper the Department of Revenue if we adopt the amendments offered by Mr. Wickersham. I therefore ask the members of the House to vote down those amendments.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HARKINS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know from the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, how under our present laws the County Commissioners are to reach the proper assessment of the tax payers' liability where he fails to make any return?

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would answer the gentleman's question by informing him of a matter which he probably does know, that the assessor in that particular county who is assessing the taxable value of the personal property of the particular person who is to be taxed, is empowered by the law to make an assessment of the property which the assessor feels or which the assessor has reason to believe is the amount owned by that individual.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

BILL LAID ON TABLE

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the bill as amended, with the amendments of the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham, be laid on the table.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The Speaker. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 3, line 27, by inserting after the word "effective" the following: "The further temporary emergency tax of one cent a gallon or fractional part thereof imposed by this clause of this section shall be payable by the distributor, but shall be borne by the last purchaser, and the payment by the distributor shall be deemed to have been for the account of such purchaser. However, the intent of this clause is to place the ultimate burden resulting from such further temporary emergency tax so far as possible on persons who use the public highways of the Commonwealth for operating motor vehicles thereon, on persons who operate motor boats on the waters of this Commonwealth or the boundaries thereof, and on persons who operate air craft over this Commonwealth; and to that end, any person who shall buy liquid fuels on which the further temporary emergency tax imposed by this clause of this section shall have been paid, and shall consume the same in any manner except in the operation of a motor vehicle upon or over the highways, or motor boats on waters, or air craft through the air of this Commonwealth, shall be entitled to a refund of the amount of such tax. All such claims for refund shall be made by affidavit in such form and containing such information and be presented within such time as the Board of Finance and Revenue, by rules and regulations, shall prescribe, and the claimant shall satisfy the board that he has borne the tax and that the liquid fuels have been consumed by him in a manner other than in the operation of a motor vehicle upon or over any of the highways, or a motor boat on the waters, or air craft through the air of this Commonwealth. The Board may require such further information or proof as it shall deem necessary. The action of the Board of Finance and Revenue in granting or refusing a refund shall be final. Any person making any false or fraudulent affidavit for the purpose of a refund of the tax shall be guilty of perjury."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I woud like to say that the purpose of these amendments is to protect the farmers, to exempt agriculture from any additional taxation. There are one hundred seventy thousand farmers in this State, and on an average, I would say, one hundred seventy thousand tractors—some don't have any tractors and others have half a dozen. It is easy enough for us to pay the additional tax of one cent on a tractor when we dump in five gallons of gasoline, whereas a tractor will use a hundred gallons. Both political parties during the last campaign promised to reduce the tax on the farmer. We haven't done that but we can at least not impose any additional taxes on them.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. WOOD and were as follows:

Extraordinary Session of 1936.

Vol. 19. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 12, 1936. No. 5.

SENATE

The Senate met at 12 o'clock noon.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. William E. Howard D. D., offered the following prayer:

How limitless is Thy wisdom, O Lord, and how willing Thou art to bestow it upon us. Yet often times we refuse to accept its bestowal, deeming the devices of man superior to the plans of God. Save them who are charged with the affairs of our State from falling into such error and quicken their spiritual eyes and ears so they may see Thee and hear Thy voice and Thy hand will lead them in the right way if they submit themselves to its clasp; Thou wilt whisper words of wise counsel unto them if they but bend to hear.

Grant O God that the members of this Senate in their deliberations may feel the touch of Thy hand and hear the sound of Thy voice and be led thereby. We thus pray in the name of Thy Son and our Saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, statements were made by the Governor, at the opening of this Special Session of the Legislature, which cannot be permitted to go unchallenged.

Those statements were addressed to us, but primarily they were meant for the general public. That is the Governor's privilege, and if he had been candid and accurate, there could be no valid objection. What I do object to is the evident pains he took to tell half-truths, for the obvious purpose of confusing and fooling the people of Pennsylvania.

Upon many occasions during the last several weeks, the Governor has publicly expressed the hope that these deliberations would be free of partisan politics. Even in the message with which he opened this session, he said (I quote): "Politics and political consideration must take a holiday in this emergency."

But he didn't mean it. He was neither candid nor sincere. For the Governor made that very same speech the instrumentality with which to try to "smear" the Republican majority in this chamber, in an effort to shift to us the responsibility for this special session and the added taxes which New Deal extravagance, inefficiency and failure have now made necessary.

Of course, it was a brand of political strategy with which Pennsylvania and the country at large have become quite familiar. It dates back to March 4, 1933, and has been worn to a frazzle. It has been the stock-in-trade of the New Deal—in Washington and in Harrisburg. We know it by heart. No matter what the changes rung upon it, it remains the same tune. Blame your blunders on others. To any and all opposition, attribute vicious motives. Only New Dealers are pure. They, and they alone, have a monopoly of all the virtues and humane instincts of the race. And those who dare to oppose their phony plans, or who stand in the way of the further taxes through which they may continue their wholesale squandering of the public money, are "tools of the vested interests," are "for property rights as against human rights," and are "heartlessly playing politics with the misery of the unemployed."

Well, Mr. President, the Governor of Pennsylvania isn't going to get away with it. The people of Pennsylvania are going to get the truth throughout this Special Session, whether the Governor likes it or not.

I know that I reflect the determination of every Republican member of this Legislature when I say that the needy of this Commonwealth are going to be provided for —and provided for adequately. But the day is past when the Earle Administration can spend millions of the public's money for the building up of a Guffey-Lawrence-Earle political machine, and call it unemployment relief.

The Republican members of this body are going to see to it that there is no chiselling of the unemployed. But they likewise are going to see to it that there is no further chiselling of the rest of the people of this State, who have to carry the relief load.

More than that, the Republican members of this Assembly are not going to permit themselves to be placed in a false light by misrepresentations which are prepared and disseminated for the principal purpose of hiding the truth. That's out, and it may as well be clearly understood right now.

Let's proceed now to some of the statements with which the Governor opened this session. Here is one (I quote):

> "As you are aware, my original request for an appropriation of $120,000,000 for relief during the biennium was reduced to $60,000,000. As a result of this action by your members, our relief appropriation is inadequate and will be exhausted one week from today. It is principally for that reason that this Special Session is now necessary."

Mr. President, I emphatically deny the truth of those latter statements. A spendthrift, whether an individual or an Administration, always can say that his funds are exhausted because he did not have more money with which to defer the date of bankruptcy. But an argument as ridiculous as that doesn't get far among people of common sense. It doesn't get to the facts. Of course, a spendthrift never relishes the realities, and so it was in this case. The Governor elected not to be candid. He stated a half-truth that was designed to create a wholly false impression; and I say that its deliberate purpose was to hoodwink the people of Pennsylvania.

The facts relating to the appropriation of $60,000,000 for Relief one year ago are easily stated. In setting them forth I shall speak from the record, and shall gladly give my authority in every instance. It hardly needs to be said, therefore, that these remarks have been prepared with great care. I stand by every fact and figure I am about to present; and when that presentation has been concluded, I challenge Governor Earle to make a satisfactory explanation of the existing situation—to this Legislature and to the people of Pennsylvania.

This General Assembly met in regular session last January. The $60,000,000 appropriation for Relief was made late in May. It was during that intervening period, therefore, that the study and debate concerning that appropriation occurred.

I desire to put into the record at this point the following facts of that 5-month period, as gleaned from pages 55 and 58 of the Third Annual Report of the State Emergency Relief Board, January, 1936:

(a) The monthly averages for Direct Relief were: 1,395,025 persons, at a cost of $12,731,054; which was at the rate of $9.13 per person.

(b) The monthly averages for Work Relief were: 317,670 persons, at a cost of $5,155,755; which was at the rate of $16.23 per person.

(c) The monthly averages for Direct Relief and Work Relief combined were: 1,712,695 persons, at a cost of $17,886,809; which was at the rate of $10.45 per person.

(d) The average monthly cost of administration was $1,533,920; which was at the rate of 90-cents per person.

(e) The total average monthly expenditures for the whole Relief activity (including an item averaging about $600,000 for special programs) was $20,116,508; which was at the rate of $11.75 per person.

We will come back to those figures a little later.

I now recall to your minds that early last year—early in our considerations of what Pennsylvania's Relief requirements were likely to be—President Roosevelt asked Congress to appropriate, for purposes wholly under his direction and control, the colossal sum of four billion eight hundred and eighty million dollars.

In support of his request, the President offered the following explanations and pledges:

1. He asserted that Direct Relief was destroying the morale of the nation and no longer could be tolerated.
2. He stated that the Relief roll of the nation represented 5,000,000 heads of families, of whom 3,500,000 were employables, the remaining 1,500,000 being unemployables.
3. He proposed to use $880,000,000 of the appropriation to maintain Federal aid to the States for Direct Relief until a Works Progress Administration could be set up and put in operation.

4. With the remaining 4 billions of the appropriation he pledged that every employable would be taken off Direct Relief and put to work under WPA before the end of 135—the unemployables becoming the responsibility of the respective States, as they had been prior to Federal Relief.

Not only did the President pledge Congress and the nation that every employable would be off Direct Relief and either in private employment or under WPA before the end of 1935, but his own pledge to the country was emphasized, repeated and reiterated by PWA Ickes, WPA Hopkins, and Federal Co-ordinator Walker.

The President's message to Congress, asking for the appropriation and explaining its purposes, was on January 4th; his radio address to the nation on that subject was on April 28th; and the Ickes-Hopkins-Walker radio symposium was on May 16th. But before this latter date, the law had been enacted and the unprecedented appropriation made.

I repeat that this appropriation of nearly five billions of dollars had been made available, and the President's pledge was a matter of record, before this Legislature enacted the $60,000,0090 Relief Bill of 1935.

These things are all beyond successful denial, and they constitute what I might call the first phase of this presentation.

Now, the President's estimate of the ratio of employables and unemployables constituting the Relief roll of the nation was 70% employables and 30% unemployables. I don't pretend to know where he got his figures, and it may be that this ratio is approximately accurate for the country as a whole. But I do know that at no time have the Relief rolls of Pennsylvania contained anything like 30% of unemployables. The employables on Relief in this State have been far in excess of 70% of the total number—and again I have authoritative support for my statements.

Among those who, unlike the Governor, have made it a point to learn and keep abreast of the pertinent facts concerning this very important problem, it is a matter of common knowledge that on page 26 of the Third Annual Report of the State Emergency Relief Board it is set forth (I quote):

> "By the end of 1935....the estimated total number of 'unemployable cases' still being supported from unemployment relief funds was less than 22,000."

And from page 42 (I quote):

> "That the problem of unemployable persons no longer bulks large in Pennsylvania's unemployment relief picture is evidenced by the fact that the number of cases having no member certified for Federal Works Program employment was reported, at the beginning of December, 1935, as being less than 22,000. A comprehensive survey of the problem was made in August, 1935. At that time a census of county relief rolls revealed 24,358 cases definitely classified as unemployable. These cases, comprising only 5.7 per cent of the total relief case load, were made up of 51,809 persons."

While Federal Administrator Hopkins did not make a final allotment of WPA jobs to Pennsylvania sufficient to take all of our employables from Direct Relief, as had been promised, he did make an allotment which, had it been carried out by Pennsylvania WPA, would have provided Works Progress employment for more than 80% of those who were on Direct and Work Relief during the first five months of 1935. Hopkins allotted 309,000 WPA jobs to this State. At this case average of 4½ which these jobs have taken off Relief, that number of jobs would have reduced the Direct Relief roll of 1,390,500, and would have reduced the total number on Relief from a monthly average of 1,712,695, to 322,195.

Early in the summer of 1935, in the course of an exuberant speech delivered in Wilkes-Barre, Eddie Jones, Administrator of WPA in Pennsylvania, gave public assurance that "we have the money and we have the projects with which to take 309,000 cases off Direct Relief."

Had this been done—as certainly everybody had a right to expect that it would be done—the story might be different. But we will come to that in a few moments.

What wish to present here, is the situation which confronted us, as the basis for estimating the appropriation needed for the Direct Relief requirements of the biennium.

We had, first, the fact that from the beginning of the biennium on June 1st, 1935, until December 1st, 1935, when we had been promised WPA would be in full operation, the State was to continue, on a Federal-State basis, to provide that 6-month period, the number on Direct Relief was to shrink rapidly from the then prevailing monthly average of 1,712,695, to a maximum of 322,000 by December 1st, when Federal aid for Direct Relief was to cease.

For the five months of 1935 preceding the enactment of the $60,000,000 Relief appropriation, the monthly average expenditure of State funds for that purpose was $2,496,153. For the sake of round figures, let's call at 2½ millions per month.

Contemplating the swift strinkage of Direct Relief rolls that was promised to take place during this 6-month period, together with the fact tha Congress had given the President the full amount for which he asked, in order to continue Federal aid to the States to December 1st when WPA was to be in full operation, we certainly had no valid reason to believe that during this steady deflation of the Direct Relief roll, the State's monthly expenditure would exceed the average then prevailing, or 2½ million dollars.

That meant a total of $15,000,000 for the first six months of the biennium.

We then had to consider the remaining 18 months, during which period, even if there were no improvement whatever in the field of private employment, we had been given to understand that the maximum monthly average on Direct Relief would not exceed 322,000.

The average monthly cost of Direct Relief, plus the administration of Direct and Work Relief, during the first five months of 1935, was $10.03 per person.

But I submit that with the advent of the Earle Administration, Relief in this Commonwealth was speedily converted into a political racket; and we all know that every factor of cost was being increased at a rate out of all reason.

Therefore say to this body and to the people of Pennsylvania—and I challenge the Governor to take issue with me on it—that the Republican majority in this Senate, mindful of meeting every requirement of the needy, but with a decent regard also for the people in all walks of life in this Commowealth who have to carry the Relief load, had a right to believe, and an obligation to demand, that Relief thenceforth should be carried on at an average cost not exceeding that for the calendar year 1934.

For that year, as shown in the Annual Report of S. E. R. B. already mentioned, the average monthly cost of Direct Relief, plus the administration of both Direct and Work Relief, plus the administration of both Direct and Work Relief, was $7 per person. Actually it was a trifle under that, but I use the round figure.

We had before us, then, the factors for the 18-month period. Mantaining a monthly average of not exceeding 322,000, at a cost of $7 per person, meant $2,254,000 per month, or approximately $40,575,000 for the 18-month period.

Adding together the $15,000,000 needed for the first 6 months, and the $40,575,000 required for the remaining 18 months, made a total of $55,575,000 needed for the biennium.

I hurl back at the Governor the blatant pretense by which he has tried to make the people of Pennsylvania believe that the exhaustion of $60,000,000 within a year, and the consequent necessity for this special session and more added taxation, are the fault of the Republican majority in this chamber. I say to him, and to the people of this State who have to pay for this Guffey-Lawrence-Earle spoils system, that if the President's pledge had been worth the credit given it, and if Relief and WPA in Pennsylvania were less than the scandalous rackets which the Federal and State New Deals have made them, the $60,000,000 Relief appropriation made a year ago not only would have been ample for the whole biennium, but would have been in excess of all honest requirements by from five to ten millions of dollars.

With those facts and statements I conclude the second phase of these remarks.

In spite of that record as I have set it forth so far—and I can assure you that the worst is yet to come!—the Governor now demands that we appropriate $70,991,000 more of the taxpayers' money for Relief; not to carry that activity through the balance of the biennium, but only for the 2½ months to January 31st, next. That represents Relief expenditures at the rate exceeding 8 1/3 millions per month.

In respect of that demand, the Governor said in his message (I quote):

> "You can reduce it only by causing great suffering to the unfortunate men, women and children on our Relief rolls, and the more you reduce it the more they will suffer. My Administration urgently recommends that you appropriate the full amount, and will gladly present any facts and figures you may desire to justify this estimate."

We can ignore the threat for the moment, because I am coming back to that later. What I want to emphasize and repeat at this point is the latter part of the quoted statement: "My Administration . . . will gladly present any facts and figures you may desire to justify this estimate."

Mr. President, I am mighty glad that the Governor made that clear and unqualified promise a matter of public record. It was a promise not only to us, but to the people of Pennsylvania, and hope he won't welsh. Without that offer by the Governor, we could have asked for such information, but without much hope of getting it. We can call for it now, with the demand that the Governor of Pennsylvania keep his public promise.

And it is my conviction that an absolute obligation rests upon us to make that demand. I believe that we would be indefensibly remiss in our responsibilities, and false to the taxpayers and needy alike in Pennsylvania, if we even attempted to proceed otherwise. For there are all-important facts of this situation now enveloped in complete mystery, concerning which we, and the public at large, are entitled to full enlightenment.

I would not assume to enumerate here all of the matters relating to this subject, concerning which the various members of this body may desire information and are fully entitled to have it. But I shall list a few of the subjects upon which I am sure that all of us want complete candor; and the relatively few that I mention may be taken as significant of many other phases, probably equally important, but not specifically set forth now.

Mr. President, it has been said repeatedly—and so far as I know never has been denied—that last Summer and Fall, during the early stages of WPA, that organization was for some unexplained reason not able to meet its payrolls, and that the State Emergency Relief Board paid the WPA workers throughout that period.

It is said, too—and again so far as I know has never been denied—that when the WPA funds began to flow, these WPA workers were paid their back wages just as though they had not been taken care of by S. E. R. B., and that S. E. R. B. never got back the sum it laid out.

That sum is said to have been in excess of $10,000,000. More than one-sixth of the entire Relief appropriation made by this Assembly one year ago, thus went out the window! Ten million dollars of the taxpayers' money which was gaily kissed goodbye!

I think one of the very urgent things we want to know from the Governor is what effort, if any, he has made to recover this money from his friend and political ally, Eddie Jones, and thus save the people of Pennsylvania $10,000,000.

The answer to that question is mighty important from a taxpayer standpoint. But it is equally important to those who have to depend upon Direct Relief. It was taken from the Direct Relief funds; and in the statement I just quoted, the Governor put himself on record to the effect that (I quote): "You can reduce it (the Relief fund) only by causing great suffering to the unfortunate men, women and children on our relief rolls, and the more you reduce it the more they will suffer."

It is worth noting that even under the present highly inflated costs of Direct Relief, that sum was sufficient to have maintained the entire Relief roll for about two months.

I call attention to the fact that time and again, when WPA was being put under way, we were assured that so speedily and plentifully was it going to supply work and thus take families off Direct Relief, that by July 1, 1936, the entire four billion would be expended.

That date is important in connection with the further fact that as of December 31, 1936, it was reported from Washington that $320,858,000 of WPA funds had been allotted to this State. Heaven only knows how much more has come to State Administrator Eddie Jones in the four and a half months since. But let's consider only the figure as of the end of 1935.

On May 7, 1936, according to an Associated Press dispatch, Administrator Jones announced that a total of $1,732,601 had been paid in WPA wages in this State since the program began.

I think a second mighty important thing we all want to know is why, only 54 days from the time when every dollar of WPA money was to have done its promised work of taking every employable off Direct Relief, only 25% of this State's allotment as of December 31st, last, had been put in circulation among those needing WPA work in this State.

We all know, of course, that Administrator Jones has complained bitterly that this is largely due to the astounding fact that the Relief Board constantly is raising its standards in order to bid against his efforts to have people leave Relief to take WPA jobs. Relief in Pennsylvania has provided soft berths for welfare workers upon a scale never before dreamed of, and all hands are doing everything possible to keep Relief at a peak and thus retain their jobs. In effect, if not actually, they are saying to the people on Relief: "Stay with us and you won't have to work. True, WPA pays more, but we are constantly raising our standards, and soon we will have you up to WPA. Stay on Relief."

The Governor seems to be with them. I think we should ask him to tell us all about that.

In my opinion, all of us want to know, too, just what the arguments are for carrying on Relief at a cost to the taxpayers that is now 57% more per person than the average for the calendar year 1934—just prior to Mr. Earle's coming into office. By his demand for $70,991,000 to carry Relief for only 8½ months, the Governor indicates a purpose of putting the whole activity upon a grander scale. It certainly is up to him, therefore, to tell us all about that. Every person in Pennsylvania who is helping to carry this Relief load will be deeply interested in his learned defense of a bigger and better dole.

Another thing I think we all want to know, is why Administrator Eddie Jones has upon his WPA rolls 22,542 jobholders who did not come from Relief. Fifty-four days before the dead-line set by Washington, he hasn't been able to get more than 25% of last December's allotment into operation, but within the sphere of his restricted and ineffective activities he has managed to give 22,542 jobs to people who were not on Relief.

At the cost ratio previously mentioned, 22,542 jobs would have removed 101,439 persons from the Direct Relief roll. And at the present cost of Relief, per person, that would mean a saving to the taxpayers of Pennsylvania amounting to $1,111,771 a month.

We certainly want the Governor to tell us all about that.

Mr. President, I don't think I need go further at this time. These facts confront us, and they cannot be sidestepped.

Ten million dollars figuratively tossed out the window! $1,111,771 a month being paid in Relief because non-relief people hold 22,542 WPA jobs!

WPA allotments only 25% used, with the result that Relief is carrying thousands of others who ought to have WPA jobs!

Relief costs, per person, 57% greater now than the average for the calendar year 1934, directly preceding the Earle Administration!

These things alone are enough to arouse the righteous indignation of every honest citizen in this Commonwealth. If ever there was a conspiracy to mace the people of a State, we have it here. I repeat that Relief and WPA as now operated have become scandalous rackets in this Commonwealth, and I believe that a majority in this chamber will agree with me when I say that the whole subject demands a complete ventilation.

The Governor has made his offer. We cannot do less than call upon him to make good.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, for the first time in my long career I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President. The construction of the Democratic Party. When Mr. Lawrence, who is the Secretary of the Commonwealth, issues a proclamation, you may remember that at the very end of the proclamation he says, "P. S. God Save the Commonwealth."

Years ago the Republican Party were saving the Commonwealth. Now it is the Democratic Party that is saving the Commonwealth, and, as far as we can see, they are saving nothing else. Last evening I received an official statement called, "The Staff of the Governor." This is just a side light. There are items including secretary, assistant secretary, personal secretary, clerks, stenographers and messengers, comprising the total full time staff. California had a total full time staff, for its Governor of 11; Illinois, 12; Maryland, 11; Massachusetts, 21; New Jersey, 15; Ohio, 10; New York, 22. Now, if you are all ready;—Pennsylvania, 51! That is a very interesting side light.

Now, to our thesis: The song we sing is , "Millions for relief, but not a cent for tribute." We all know what relief is. "Tribute" refers, in the language of Gilbert and Sullivan, to the Pirates of Pittsburgh. I was in the House the other day, trying to keep warm—out of the Senate—and I listened to the four lawyers, two Republican and two Democrats, discuss the $11,000,000 versus $9,500,000; and Mr. Witkin was very eloquent. I could not help feeling, however, that if the Governor had asked for $9,500.000 Mr. Witkin would have been just as eloquent in asking for $8,000,000.

The trouble was, and the trouble is, that this song of ours is A Song Without Words—by which I mean we haven't the facts; and while I rise to a question of personal privilege, I am directing my remarks to the amendment which has been offered, setting up these two legislative agents or auditors, so that we may know the facts. Of course, I understand that lawyers can be eloquent without all the facts, and that it is necessary to have a great many lawyers in the legislative body; but woe betide this State when all the lawmakers will be lawyers. It has been said, by some unkind critic, that the Republican Senate had acquired a distinguished criminal lawyer from Philadelphia to keep themselves out of jail.

Years ago—or, not so long ago—in the days when the goose was hanging high, everything in Harrisburg was very much pleasanter for Republicans than it is now. You know, it is not worth while being Senator if nobody knows it; and when I arrive now the taxi driver does not call me "Senator" but offers to show me the sights of Harrisburg; and in the hotel I go down to the dining room and go to find one of my favorite tables and find there entirely new faces—people I have never seen before—Guffey and Lawrence and Jones, people I have no acquaintance with. Then, when I come to the main entrance to the Capitol and look at those bronze doors, where the Republican statesmen of the past are immortalized, I shed a tear and say a brief prayer for those who have gone before, wishing that they might be with us. I refer to Simon Cameron and Matthew Stanley Quay and Boise Penrose. We are very badly in need of them. Then you remember as you come in at the main door there is a door to the left. I used to go in there occasionaly, but it is not the same place to me any more. The label on the door says, "Gentlemen's Reclining Room," and in the old days the guides—that is where the guides recline—got up, when I came in, and said, "Good Morning, Senator, Good Morning." And the attractive young woman in there said, "Good Morning, Senator," and gave me an up-to-date road map of Pennsylvania. And I used to leave my hat and coat there. Now I do not leave my hat and coat there. And when I come to the elevator the operator never says, "Good Morning, Senator," he takes me for a touris' from Punxsutawney. He says, "What floor? Do you want to go to the basement?" I say, "No; second floor."

Well, this morning I went in that gentlemen's reclining room, and I found a guide just organizing a party of high school girls and boys, to look at the Senate; and as I had not been able to get into the Senate before I joined this party of sightseers; I thought if they had a guide I would like to join them. So we came around through the post office and arrived here, and I listened to the guide; and he described these pictures—not accurately. He said, "That pictures represents William Penn meeting the Indians; and the lady on the coucl. is William Penn's second wife." Then he said, "If it becomes necessary at any time to realize on our assets here, remember that the clock is only brass, that all those railings there are covered with 18 karat gold leaf; and that you can remember for future use." And he said, "These electroliers are solid bronze covered with 18 karat gold leaf, and they each weigh two tons." I never knew that before. He then asked me to stand aside, —I was in the way of some young lady; so I came and sat down at my desk here.

Well, when I thought of those electroliers I began to feel a little worried; and then I was not long worried but somewhat reconciled when I discovered that one is directly over the desk of the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, and the other is very nearly over the desk of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro; and if they do fall I shall be sorry, but mingled with my grief will be the thought that instead of 21 Democrats there will be only 19.

Well, "Sweet are the uses of adversity," but I hope the Republican Party will not go sour; instead they ought to go sweet. I am not invited by the High Command, I can only pick up a few crumbs from the table; but those few crumbs look sour to me. I cannot get even the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, to call together his Committee to take some action; so I will linger and wait. But we are a very chastened party—I may say that Dame Fortune has taken the Republican Party across her knees and administered punishment upon its damask cheek.

I am now coming to the real speech; and I want to say a good word for Karl de Schweinitz, and I want to say a good word for our Governor. I have known Mr. de Schweinitz all my life; he is a real man, and we trust him and believe what he says. When I first came here, and looked up to the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman—which I still do—whenever we had the social workers before us Senator Buckman would say to me "Look at them. You can alway. tell they are short haired women and long haired men." And then I listened to what they talked about—and they have a remarkable vocabulary, these social workers. I am saying this because all this is what Mr. de Schweinitz is not, but the usual social workers will tell you about cooperation, coordination—they sit down and integrate a program, and when the program has been evaluated then comes the dangerous part, when they say, "We must now implement the program,"—which means they will ask you for a subscription.

Mr. de Schweinitz is not that kind of man. Our Governor did a very good job when he appointed Mr. de Schweinitz.

I like Mr. Johnson, too. He was a very good man, and told the truth. Perhaps that is one thing that was wrong. He told the truth in the Saturday Evening Post. Then Senator Guffey insisted that Mr. E. M. Jones—I don't know him well enough to call him "Eddie"—be appointed. Mr. Johnson had said that $10,000,000 was thrown away,—you may have read it in the Saturday Evening Post,—and that broke up the friendship, I fear, between the Governor and Mr. Johnson.

I have the highest regard for the Governor, and he may easily be called, "The Big Brother of the Poor and Needy." I am sure he was born in a log cabin,—and there will be a pilgrimage to that log cabin, somewhere near Philadelphia, out in the slum—well, in a forlorn district out on the Main Line, near Merion. In the future there will be a pilgrimage to this log cabin, and I suppose you will see there, on the outer wall, "God Bless our Home;" and on the inside, "Swat the Rich"—"Swat," I think; not "Soak"—"Swat the Rich." And on the other wall on the inside, "No Sales Tax,"—no need of a sales tax, because we give ourselves away!

Well, the amendment to the resolution is that there shall be two auditors, one from the House and one from the Senate; and while it is not good form for the Legislative Department to encroach on the Executive, when it comes to spending a million dollars a month for overhead for administrative costs I think it is high time for the Legislative body to assert itself and stand between the people and the advocates of this extravagant overhead.

These two men are not supposed to go into the field. I understand that Mr. de Schweinitz shall say whether they will pay rent or not. But the rich and privileged will be intelligent enough, I hope, to criticise the enormous overhead expense of this administration.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, it is very apparent that the Special Session will develop into a session something similar to the regular one. At the Regular Session we came down here every week and listened every Monday or Tuesday to a harangue on relief from the other side of the House, and it is quite apparent that the same program is going to be with this Special Session. To a stranger who is in this room today, it would seem from the speeches already heard that relief is a joke; all we have heard is sarcasm, scorn and ridicule. It is apparent that it is not realized by some people that there are 1,600,000 people in Pennsylvania that do not have regular employment today, and we hear the word "racket", "racket in relief." Well, if there is any racket in emergency relief in Pennsylvania, it is being done by Republicans. The two Emergency Directors we have had are Republicans, and I will say that 95 per cent of the Emergency Administration in Pennsylvania is Republican; Republican leaders, directors and the township set-up is running relief in Pennsylvania today.

Now, I do not say that this is wrong. I say that our Governor was extremely fair in handling relief. I say to you that he could have thrown politics in and could have insisted upon a Democratic Administration, but he did not. He appointed two Republicans as Directors of Relief in Pennsylvania. I do not think that there is a soul changed in the township set-up. I know that in Pittsburgh, in Mr. Hill's office there are 800 clerks and not a Democrat among them. Therefore, I say to you that our Governor has been extremely fair, and if it is a racket, if there is chiselling on relief, it is done by Republican administrators and not a Democratic Governor.

Now, of course, if he had put in Democrats under him on the payrolls, I know that this group would not have led the harangue that would have gone on.

Then we have heard that this thing is costing too much. Mr. President, you know that during the war we spent twenty billion dollars in this country, and then we sent two and a half billions to Hoover to feed starving Europeans; then we have had the International bankers in partnership with the Republican Party in the State Department foisting seventeen billion dollars worth of stocks and bonds on the American people. In other words, the American people, during that period, were milked out of forty billion dollars and then came the Hoover administration and the last we heard his administration he took six billion dollars and gave it to railroads and banks and lo and behold Roosevelt comes along and in his three years he spends only a little over seven billion dollars more than Hoover and you would think that this country was going to collapse. Think of it—fourteen billion dollars stolen or milked out of the people of the United States during the war and after the war then selling stocks and bonds in this country, and to think that in three years under Roosevelt we have spend only one billion more than Hoover spent in his administration but there is a vast difference in how it was spent. That was given to railroads and banks, not given to honest-to-God poor down trodden people in the United States, and hasn't it paid? Hasn't it paid? Why the income of the United States has gone up from forty to sixty-five billion dollars a year. I say it is a pretty good investment. If we spend only one, two or three billion a year on the poor whose souls have been burned out of their bodies, and if as a result of this the mills of industry start up—the mills I know in my own county are running full time, our stores were never more crowded, our streets were never more packed and I know that forty thousand WPA workers have had a little hope come back into their souls. I know that the United States has increased the income of all its people from forty to sixty-five billion dollars, and so, doesn't it pay? Doesn't it pay? Ah, you will say this Democratic administration is going to ruin us with taxes. You ought to go to Europe, to England for instance, and see how they tax them over there, but the crux of the thing is this that under the Republican rule of this country for twelve years before 1929 this country was stripped to the bone by high finance and by wrong government. Think of it! Ten thousand banks closed their doors, in fact fifteen thousand closed their doors or amalgamated with other banks. The mills had shut down, people were walking the street despair written on every man's face, all of them, despair, hopelessness everywhere, suicides, and Mr. Roosevelt took charge of the country when it was down in the depths, hope gone, and even the big fellows were down on their knees begging him to lift them up, and now, after he has lifted them up, after the dividends are rolling in and people employed, and those not employed taken care of, which is the duty of every government, I would be ashamed of my record here if I did not stand up and defend the Federal administration whose soul purpose has been to look after human beings, and I am going to defend the State government because I say to you that it is the first time in Pennsylvania in my time that we have had a Governor who had the courage to come out and tell the powers that be in this state that he for one is going to look after the poor down-trodden and the unemployed in the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I have a very important question to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward. I wonder if he would permit himself to be interrogated.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, seems to have the cold-blooded attitude of saying that if the chandeliers fell down on two Senators that the effect would be, we would have nineteen Democrats, which would help the Republicans, of course. My question to the Senator it, what would he think,—not being so cold-blooded—would be the effect on the people of Pennsylvania if instead of the chandeliers falling, some of the light would fall on the Republican Senators.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, my only reply is that we hope to move the electrolier directly over the Senator's desk in the future.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, Does not the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, think the same result could be better accomplished by moving the Republican Senators over to the light.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, it may be.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THE FUNCTIONING OF THE WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION IN PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. OWLETT offered the following resolution, which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, May 12, 1936.

Whereas, The Democratic Administration at Washington in establishing the Works Progress Administration promised the State of Pennsylvania, along with the other states, that all employables on the relief rolls at the time of the creation of said Administration would be given work relief; and

Whereas, The Works Progress Administration has been in operation in Pennsylvania for a considerable period of time; and

Whereas, There are still on the direct relief rolls in Pennsylvania upwards of one hundred and seventy thousand cases, a very large percentage of whom are employables; and

Whereas, The report of certain members of the Joint Legislative Committee Investigating Public Relief, has disclosed that the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania is functioning as an arm of the Guffey-Earle-Lawrence Democratic State Administration, and being used for the purpose of building up a political machine, rather than for the alleviation of unemployment; and

Whereas, The Governor of this Commonwealth has demanded that the Legislature impose an additional burden of seventy million dollars on our people to provide relief, largely for the employables, for the next nine months; and

Whereas, It is believed that an investigation of the Works Progress Administration as it is now functioning in Pennsylvania will disclose that the proper and economic administration thereof would provide for the most, if not all, of those now on the direct relief rolls, thus relieving the taxpayers of Pennsylvania from this additional burden which the Governor proposes to impose upon them; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate is hereby authorized to appoint a committee of five members of the Senate, whose duty it shall forthwith be to make a searching and impartial investigation of the organization, administration and functioning of the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania, to ascertain, (a) whether the same, if administered in a proper and economical manner, would relieve this Commonwealth from further taxation for unemployment relief or materially lessen the same, (b) in what respect, if any, the present administration is abusing the powers, prerogatives and privileges imposed in it, and (c) to investigate such other facts and circumstances as may be deemed necessary in order to enable the General Assembly to measure the extent of any revenue it should raise to provide for those employables which could not be provided for through a proper administration of the Works Progress Administration;

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer any such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents, as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person, and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee, or to produce any papers, books, records, or documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases;

Resolved, That said committee shall make a report to the Senate now in session as early as possible.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I move that the resolution be sent to the Judiciary General Committee.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I would like to present a resolution at this time. Yesterday there died at Washington a former Attorney General from Pennsylvania, A. Mitchell Palmer, and I offer this resolution and ask unanimous consent for its immediate adoption.

RESOLUTION ON THE DEATH OF THE HONORABLE A. MITCHELL PALMER

Mr. HUFFMAN offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

Whereas, Honorable A. Mitchell Palmer, former Attorney General of the United States, was yesterday claimed by death, and

Whereas, Mr. Palmer has had a long and distinguished record in his country's service, as member of Congress and Alien Property Custodian as well as Attorney General, and

Whereas, Mr. Palmer was in 1920 a formidable candidate for the Democratic nomination for the high office of President of the United States; was previously honored by his party with the nomination for United States Senator from the State of Pennsylvania, and served several times as a delegate to Democratic National Conventions, and

Whereas, Mr. Palmer this year was again chosen by a majority of electors in his party as a delegate at large to the Democratic National Convention of 1936, and

Whereas, Mr. Palmer throughout his career has been a distinguished son of our Commonwealth, now therefore

Be It Resolved, That the Senate extend to his bereaved widow and to his many friends and associates its sympathy, and formally express its sorrow upon the passing of Mr. Palmer, and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the widow of the late Mr. Palmer.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, nearly a year ago we came to the end of a General Session throughout whose whole course the very atmosphere of this Senate Chamber was charged with the bitterest quality of partisan stupidity. The majority of this Senate was so stupidly engrossed in the defense of the ill-gotten lucre of its hirelings and masters that many grave and necessary problems were left untouched.

The welfare of the fish, the squirrel, the bear, the bee, the dag and the skunk received careful consideration. The quality of manure and the mechanical proof that eggs are freshly laid, all received legislative attention and sanction. Blind Republican stupidity exerted itself in full upon these subjects, but refused to come to grips with the permanent problem of human relief. We are now embarked upon an Extraordinary Session called by His Excellency, the Governor, so that we might solve the problem of unemployment relief scuttled by the brutal and stupid Republican majority at that last General Session.

It is deplorable to note at so early a stage of this Extraordinary Session that that stupidity has suffered little abatement since the last General Session. If any change has taken place it is in the direction of greater Republican stupidity. This stupidity is magnified a hundred-fold by the studious efforts of my colleague from Dauphin County to stupidly confuse the subject of Direct Relief with that of Work Relief.

The proclamation calling this Extraordinary Session confines our deliberations to specific subjects, among which we find the one of Direct Relief, but not that of Work Relief. Nowhere in the proclamation do we find a subject dealing with W. P. A., Guffey, Lawrence or Earle. The subject of W. P. A. is purely a Federal problem and only stupidity of the vilest character can motivate one to confound it with Direct Relief, a problem admittedly a State problem, and one upon which lucidity of mind should direct the efforts of this Senate.

The fact is, Mr. President, that neither the Governor of this State, nor Senator Guffey, Secretary Lawrence or Administrator Jones, are in need of food, clothing or medicine. They have plenty. This is needed by the unemployed and needy of our State. Will that stupidity seek to confound this fact also?

Mr. President, it is amazing indeed that this Republican stupidity has overlooked that fact, unless the gentleman from Philadelphia has been assigned the duty to accomplish this purpose by his humorous absurdities.

Mr. President, if we are worthy men of reason, let us come to grips with the problems before us as such men and not like stupid asses or Republican hirelings.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, it is unfortunate that the distinguished Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, and the distinguished Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, are not students of history. The fact remains,—though I do not wish to charge either of them with insincerity; I believe they are sincere in what they are saying,—that the speeches they are making are the same speeches that have been made by political demagogues since the beginning of time.

In the Second Century before Christ Gaius Gracchus, a Tribune of the Roman State, and one who represented himself as being a sincere reformer, in order to gain the votes of the masses proposed a law called the Lex Frumentaria, whereby those who could not purchase grain at the full price were to be given the same at half price.

It was the beginning of the end for Rome. It resulted in the loss of all self-respect and self-initiative on the part of the Romans. The opponents of Gaius Gracchus outbid him for the favor of the populace, and one demagogue after another proposed amendments to this law until 80% of the populace of Rome were living at the public crib.

Now, the Republican Party of Pennsylvania intends to provide for everyone who is in real need. There is no one in this State who has starved: there is no one who will starve. The Republican Party of Pennsylvania intends to see that everyone who is in need is taken care of; but the people of this State understand that this colossal waste and extravagance cannot go on; and the more intelligent of the unemployed understand that also. Those who have come here are the least intelligent; they are led by parasites and damagogues, who are leading them for their own purposes.

The report which was submitted by Mr. Horst's Committee merely scratches the surface. If an investigation could be made which would disclose the real facts of relief in Pennsylvania, it would astound everybody. The waste is appalling.

Now, I am not charging the administrators of relief with graft, or with inefficiency—from their point of view; but the system is wrong, and I have been saying that for a couple of years here. Until we get rid of this system we can never get rid of this thing which has destroyed the morale of the people of this State. We must change this system and place it on a basis where we will not all be involved in the same common ruin.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, the very thing has occurred that all of should have hoped to avoid. For the last hour and fifteen minutes there have been charges and counter charges against one party and against the other. I think that we could better employ our time in discussing and studying and investigating the merits of the legislation that has been presented. There is serious work to be done here; there is a serious job for all of us. So let us discontinue this political discussion and employ our time in a better way, by taking up the serious matters that confront us. I sincerely hope that this will end all of the political discussion for this session.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NUMBER THREE, RELATIVE TO TRANSFER OF FUNDS

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I now call up for consideration by the Senate, House Resolution No. 3, which is printed and on the desks of the Senators.

The resolution was read as follows:

Amend House Concurrent Resolution Serial No. 3, House History of May 11, Page 19; Senate History, May 11, Page 15, Serial No. 200, to read as follows:

Whereas, House Bill No. 14, authorizing the transfer from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund of amounts aggregating not more than five million five hundred thousand dollars ($5,500,000), for the purpose of providing funds for unemployment relief, and providing for the repayment thereof not later than May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, House Bill No. 15, authorizing the transfer from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund to the General Fund, between its effective date and June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, of amounts aggregating not more than three million dollars ($3,000,000), for the purpose of providing funds for unemployment relief, and providing for the repayment thereof not later than May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, House Bill No. 17, appropriating these amounts, among others, in the sum of eleven million dollars (11,000,000), to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, these bills are not possible of passage until they have been acted upon both by the House of Representatives and the Senate on three legislative days and there is not yet available sufficient data upon which to intelligently act upon said legislation and

Whereas, There is a deficit of Three Million six hundred thirty thousand dollars ($3,630,000) of cash to meet the allocations of the State Emergency Relief Board for the remainder of the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas, the cost of administration of unemployment relief has enormously increased since the passage of the law providing for the creation of the State Emergency Relief Board out of all proportion to the additional numbers of unemployed upon the relief rolls and likewise the cost of administering unemployment relief has increased from the sum of fifty-five cents per case in the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three to the sum of four dollars four cents per case in the month of February one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, and

Whereas, It is the sense of the General Assembly that the system of administering relief be changed so that relief shall be granted on the basis of need only and that the cost of administering relief shall be materially reduced to the end that the overwhelming burden of taxation may be lifted from our citizens, and

Whereas, the number of administrative employes has increased from two thousand seven hundred sixty-one during the month of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-two to seven thousand seven hundred thirty-four during the month of February one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, and

Whereas, By the Act of May twenty-six one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (Pamphlet Laws one thousand eighty-eight) the State Treasurer is authorized and directed from time to time whenever the Governor ascertains the necessity therefor to transfer upon warrant by the Auditor General upon requisition of the Governor funds from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund, and

Whereas, it is of vital importance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and to the unemployment relief situation, that this sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars ($3,630,000) be made available immediately for unemployment relief purposes, now therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that if the Governor the Auditor General and the State Treasurer shall in accordance with said act of May twenty-six one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (Pamphlet Laws one thousand eighty-eight) transfer to the General Fund such sum of money from the Motor License Fund in order to make the same available for expenditure for unemployment relief by the State Emergency Relief Board for the balance of the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-six the General Assembly hereby pledges itself that it will enact appropriate legislation at this session of the General Assembly specifically appropriating the sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars ($3,630,000) to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief and to provide revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay said transferred moneys to said special fund

Resolved, That it is the sense of the General Assembly that appropriate legislation be enacted providing that the Senate shall elect a financial agent who shall not be a member of the Senate and the House of Representatives shall elect a financial agent who shall not be a member of the House of Representatives whose duty it shall be individually or collectively to demand and receive from time to time from the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board for the use of the Senate and House of Representatives an itemized account of all moneys expended from the sum authorized to be made available for expenditure in accordance with this resolution the law enacted to carry the same into effect and any other law heretofore or hereafter appropriating moneys to the State Emergency Relief Board and expended subsequent to May one one thousand nine hundred thirty-six the agents so elected to be paid from appropriations made to the State Emergency Relief Board.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, before offering amendments to this resolution, I should like to interrogate the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I ask the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, whether it is not true that when this resolution was acted upon in the Appropriations Committee last night, the resolution as adopted by the Committee provided for the payment of one thousand dollars per month to two financial agents.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, that may be.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to know when the change occurred then, if the resolution was in the form that I suggested when the Committee acted upon it. I would like to know when and by whose authority the change is made.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I have no knowledge of that.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I call that to the attention of the Senate, and therefore offer the following amendment, which, in effect, would be to strike out everything that is in this resolution except the appropriation and the moral pledge to adopt the resolution which will transfer three million six hundred and thirty thousand dollars.

The amendments were read as follows:

Srike out on page 2, lines 18 to 29 inclusive. Strike out on page 3, lines 1 to 16 inclusive. Strike out on page 4, lines 26 to 29 inclusive. Strike out on page 5, lines 1 to 14 inclusive.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in view of the fact that it would be difficult for the Senators to understand just what these amendments would do to the resolution, I should like to have the consent of the Senate to state the situation if they should adopt them.

The adoption of the amendments would mean that this Senate pledges itself morally to appropriate $3,630,000 by proper legislation to the State Emergency Relief Board for the balance of May. That eliminates from this resolution all the declarations of policy and all statements of fact, to which some of us, if any of us, do not wish to give our consent by vote in favor of the resolution as it now stands. It would simply mean that we pledge ourselves to appropriate $3,630,000. We can have a separate resolution to take care of the other matters in this resolution.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and Mr. CAVALCANTE.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I call for a verification of the rule before announcing the vote.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

YEAS—23

Baumer,	Law,	Rankin,	Rupp,
Cavalcante,	McCreesh,	Reed,	Ruth,
Frey,	McGinnis,	(Washington)	Shapiro,
Harris,	Miller,	Rice,	Sones,
Huffman,	Prince,	Roberts,	Thompson,
Kahle,	Pytko,	Rodgers,	(Centre)
Lanius,

NAYS—25

Aron,	Ealy,	McClure,	Staudenmeier,
Batchelor,	Gelder,	Owlett,	Thompson,
Bean,	Graff,	Pierson,	(Westmoreland)
Bennett,	Harvey,	Reed,	Trainer,
Buckman,	Homsher,	(Dauphin)	Woodward,
Chapman,	Howell,	Salus,	Ziesenheim,
Coyne,	Mallery,	Scott,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I think it is fairly conceded that we all are interested, or should be interested, in providing a decent form of direct relief. While I think this resolution, in its present form, is trashy, and has a great many other things in it that are not going to assist us, I think the fundamental purpose of the resolution, and the fundamental contents of the resolution outweigh the trashy elements of it, which I have heard this morning were placed in there by subterfuge.

When I say that the fundamental elements of the resolution are right and proper, I mean this: We have been debating here, or we have been making gestures at debating as to the handling of the relief problem and I am glad to see that there occurs in this resolution a ground upon which we can all agree as Senators, and I am glad to see that in the meritorious part of this resolution the Appropriations Committee, controlled, of course, by the other side of the House, has finally come around to our viewpoint on this relief problem. If we examine into the contents of the resolution we find two very important things. We find in the first place a desire on the part of our Republican colleagues to shorten this whole controversy. The original resolution, as it went into the Committee, provided for this temporary expedient with respect to relief until July 1st. Of course we all knew what that would mean. If this temporary transfer was made until July 1st we could pretty nearly count on this Senate marking time in the meanwhile to see how that money was spent, but I am glad to see that we are all of the mind now that this whole problem could be settled by the 31st of May and permanent legislation adopted to carry us until the next regular session convenes, in 1937. I say that that is a very important part of this resolution, that by passing this resolution this House commits itself to get down to work in the next two weeks and work six days a week, if it is necessary to do so, and to get our permanent legislation in shape by that time to settle this problem, and not drag out this session, with its quarrelsomeness, interminably, and I want to congratulate the members of the Appropriations Committee, be they Democrats or be they Republicans, in coming around to the viewpoint where they can say by the adoption of this resolution in its present form, that in the next two weeks we can dispose of this controversy, because we can dispose of it if we get down to business. I am glad to see that my colleagues recognize that fact.

Mr. President, in the second place, I speak in favor of this resolution, even as it is now constituted, because I am glad to see that the Appropriations Committee has at last recognized what the policy should be according to their recommendation as to the amount of direct relief, that it is necessary for us to appropriate on a monthly basis. If we examine into this figure of $3,630,000 we find that this figure, together with the balance of money that is available at the present time for the expenditure of direct relief until the 31st of May, it brings us right up to the figure that has been recommended by the Governor, and I am heartily in favor of the spirit of cooperation that has been displayed by the Republican side of this House in the action of the Appropriations Committee in finally coming to the point where they agree with us that that is the necessary figure for monthly appropriations for direct relief.

Mr. President, I say again that I believe that the adoption of this resolution—and I am quite sure that my colleagues on the Republican side of this House mean, in reporting this resolution in its present shape, out of the Appropriations Committee, that they intend at last to settle down to work and dispose of this question in the next two weeks, by their concession in this resolution along the lines of the policy recommended by the Governor and recommended by the Relief Director, Dr. de Schweinitz, and I say, in view of these facts, in spite of some of the trashy elements of this resolution, I propose to vote for it.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I can hardly allow to go unchallenged the statement of my colleague, who has just finished speaking, that in the passage of this resolution the Republican members of the Senate are recognizing that the figures of the relief dirctor are correct.

The Republican members of the Legislature have tried to be too fair to take away from the director of relief the amount of money that he has said, in general, was the amount he needed until he had a chance at least to appear before the Appropriations Committee and explain why he needs it. That is one reason that the appropriation is for the current month and not for a longer period. I think that the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will agree with me that the so-called Harmony Committee that worked here for six weeks prior to this Special Session was unable to talk down under the broad general figures that the Relief Director gave, saying that he needed the $70,500,000.00.

That was one reason why the Special Committee was not able to agree on any amount, that it would recommend to this Legislature, that should be passed by the Special Session. That is a problem that still confuses us. We still must determine whether or not $70,500,000.00, which I believe now has been raised to $70,800,000.00, is needed, or whether some smaller amount is needed. It is high time, it seems to me, that we should get away from the idea that we are simply to take whatever report is handed to us—take it blindfolded.

The Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will agree with me also, I am sure—and so, I feel, will the Senator from Washington County, Mr. Reed, who is on the Committee, together with the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, and myself—that when we went in to the Board which is charged with the work of directing the Director of Relief, we found a condition that amazed us. We found that that Board, itself, has very little knowledge as to what is going on in relief,—such knowledge as the stockholders of any corporation would expect their directors to have. So, apparently it is up to the members of the Legislature, in this Special Session, to find out just what the conditions are.

We are told that relief has increased from $17.00 a case to $34.00 a case. We are told that the cost of administration has increased from 55 cents, in 1933, to over $4.00 in 1935. And yet we were told by the Directors of the State Emergency Relief Board that they had not investigated in an effort to determine whether or not the standards of 1936 are correct, or the standards of 1932.

Now, I want to say for the Republican members of this Senate—and I think I can speak also for the Democratic members of the Senate—that the members of that Harmony Committee were a unit in the report that they signed; that we are ready to give to the people of Pennsylvania who are deserving, all the relief that is necessary to keep them from suffering; but I feel that the Republican members, as my good friend from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, said, are in the position that the Ambassador from the United States to France was in when he said, "millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute."

We do want to take care of those who need relief. We do not, however, want the burden to be increased by including those who otherwise could get along without it; because just as soon as we put that burden on the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania we are placing ourselves in such a position that eventually all relief must break down. We are going to gradually force those people who are close to the line, over the line—first, because they will think, in accordance with the natural trend of human nature, that the grass is a little greener on the other side; and, secondly, because those who are taxed so heavily will themselves become submerged.

This is a serious problem with which we are faced at the present time, because the welfare of the people of Pennsylvania is at stake. Members of the Senate, I want to say to you, and I also want to say to the people on relief, that the welfare of these people on relief is at stake,—because every dollar taken by the people who are not deserving of relief is a dollar which cannot be contributed to those who really need it. And I cannot allow to pass unchallenged the statement that if we pass this resolution here today we are setting our stamp of approval on the figures that have come to us; because if in six weeks of honest, hard work we were not able to break down those figures and find out if we should give them the stamp of approval of that Harmony Committee, I am very sure that in the casual glance we have had of them here, the short time we have had to study them, we, the Republican members—and I feel quite sure that the gentlemen on my left have had no better opportunity to break those figures down—cannot in a moment determine whether or not the sum of $70,500,000.00, is needed, or a greater or less amount.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, whether a chandelier falls on me or not, to reduce the number of Democratic or Republican members of the Senate, interests me very little. What interests me in this proposition is the fact that it is a very difficult proposition to deal with, that it should be purely non-political, and that statement made concerning the picture should be based upon facts and not upon a wish, which is father to the thought. I have no objection to voting for $3,630,000, instead of $11,000,000, if that is the sense of the majority, because eventually the trouble will have to be faced. The only effect of this piecemeal proposition will be that we will not be able again to calmly and wisely solve the problem, because this is the 11th of May, there are only eighteen actual days left, and probably only six legislative days left, if we Senators follow our usual custom of running home on the third day and leaving the problem take care of itself for the other three days, and, therefore, it seems to me that it is foolish to try to handle this piecemeal. However, if that is the desire of the majority, rather than have this thing go over to the House and not pass there and reach another deadlock, I am willing to say "I told you so" afterwards, and let those who suffer by it accept the responsibility. I do not think that any Senator, in view of the admissions and contentions that are made here, that there has not been sufficient time to ascertain the facts should be asked to commit himself in voting upon a resolution as to how much money should be transferred to statements that are drawn up based upon the belief or desire of anyone individual in this room, and I say that this resolution if it is serious and sincere, should have nothing more in it than a pledge on the part of this body to enact legislation which will furnish the money and nothing more. Its insincerity is shown when it goes farther than that by the fact that it begins in its preamble with the statement, as an excuse for authorizing only $3,630,000: "Whereas, these bills are not possible of passage until they have been acted upon both by the House of Representatives and the Senate on three legislative days, and there is not yet available sufficient data upon which to intelligently act upon said legislation."

And after making that declaration it proceeds to absolutely state these matters as fact, to which I am asked by my vote to give consent: "Whereas, the cost of administration of unemployment relief has enormously increased since the passage of the law providing for the creation of the State Emergency Relief Board out of all proportion to the additional numbers of unemployed upon the relief rolls, and likewise the cost of administering relief has increased from the sum of 55 cents per case in the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three to the sum of $4.04 per case in the month of February, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six.

Now, I am asked to give my consent and approval to that in the face of the fact that there was appointed a non-political committee headed by Herbert F. Goodrich, as Chairman, who is the Dean of the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania, a man of integrity, and joined in by men whose names are familiar in all walks of life, who say in their report, on page 32, "When, however, it is recalled that the cost of administration for unemployment relief is only slightly more than 10 per cent. of the total amount expended; that the maximum cost of administration of mothers' assistance is no more, and the cost of administration of other forms of assistance considerably less (six per cent. for old age assistance), it is obvious that no considerable immediate saving can be anticipated through a present reduction of so small a fraction of the total expenditures. Indeed, it is by no means certain that an increase in administrative expenditures for investigation and follow-up service, proportionately to the total appropriation in all fields of assistance, might not actually produce increased saving in the amount of money required for direct assistance of individuals," and I say it is cheaper to accept three applications for relief than it is to turn down three of them. In other words, this report proves conclusively to me that it costs more to investigate and turn down three out of four applications than it does to approve four without investigation. In view of the fact, and in view of the fact that this Committee also say, on page 11 of its preamble: "The size of the relief and assistance grants to individuals and families cannot be lowered without imposing intolerable hardships upon the recipients, lowering their vitality and reducing their capacity to re-establish self-support . In fact the grants should be raised if possible."

In view of this statement from men, twenty-five or thirty of them, who make it their business to look at this thing in a purely non-partisan way, I am unwilling to give my approval to a statement of one indidivual incorporated in the resolution, which should deal with the amount appropriated.

I want to go further and say, that it is not true that there has not been time to investigate. Everyone knows that since the date this Session was talked about, sometime early in April, a Committee was appointed, supposed to be non-partisan, to find out, and they did have opportunity to investigate and they would have found out even from the books which have been submitted to us, and which can be found out, so that he who runs may read, that to have spent in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania $252,000,000 in 1935 for relief; $183,000,000 of that money was contributed by the Federal Government, and only $56,000,000 were contributed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. A number of promises were made early in April of 1935, or rather in February of 1935, that we would contribute $5,000,000 a month if the Federal Government would supply the balance. From January 1935, to May 31, 1935, out of $103,000,000 that was spent for relief in Pennsylvania, $87,000,000 was sent in by the Federal Government, and we only spent, instead of $5,000,000 on an average, the sum of $3,000,000 a month in those months, and that money has never been paid back to the Government, and if you want further facts about what is necessary, I might suggest to my friends that I have a letter here from Dr. de Schweiitz, which states that the May budget of the State Emergency Relief Board was $6,971,000, which was approved at a meeting of the State Emergency Relief Board on April 22, 1936,—a Board upon which Mr. Waters sits—at the time these matters are taken up. And now, my friend, the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, says, sarcastically, I am sure, that he is glad that on this question this side of the House has come around to their way of thinking. They had to because they say in their preamble they do not know whether this $690,000 is due for May or not, in spite of the fact that they had the approval of one of the fiscal officers of this State,—a Republican, I presume, as early as April 22nd. And I say the sincerity of this resolution can be attacked by the phrase in which my friend and colleague, the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, called it trash, and I call unnecessary, because they engender feelings that should not be aroused in dealing with subjects of this kind.

I should not be asked to give my approval to the subject matter of this resolution, to vote on something that can be taken up in another resolution; and if my friends wanted to be fair and honest, and bring about this situation, they could have presented a resolution such as they have here, properly worded, not misstating the facts, and I would have been the first one to vote for it; but I will not and cannot vote for a resolution of this kind, which is supposed to, and should, only deal with the amount involved.

Inconsistent as it is upon its face,—misstating the facts as it does, by proof that I have submitted to you, when I am asked to vote upon a matter of this kind,—for this reason, as long as my voice holds out, I shall speak against such resolution and vote against it.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, those on this side of the chamber are placed in a very difficult situation. We cannot wait any longer for this money. It is true that it is unfair to place a minority in a position where they have to vote for resolution that is offensive. This is distinctly offensive and ought not to have been submitted to the Senate. On the other hand we are forced in a position to support it because as I said the money is necessary immediately, but we do want to say on our side of the House that we have been placed in a trap here, the majority knowing that we will have to vote for this amendment or be branded as having voted against them, the unemployed. If the language had been tamed down, or if some of these statements had been left out we could have gone along very well with the reduced amount. However, the majority here know very well that they will not have any more information on this subject on the first of June than we have now. They admit we cannot get the facts, we all admit it. It is too big a subject to know all about it, and we will not know any more in two weeks hence. Again I say we will vote for this resolution on this side under protest because of the language contained in it, and for the reason that we would support any appropriation that we can get through at this time for these people.

And the question recurring

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. FREY and Mr. HUFFMAN and were as follows, viz:

Shapiro,

So the question was dtermined in the affirmative.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I rise to the question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, the Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, spoke a few moments ago referring to the bi-partisan committee which deliberated here for several weeks largely on this question of relief. If there was one matter that the bi-partisan committee was able to agree upon whole-heartedly, it was the inability of the Legislature at a Special Session to change or alter the mechanics of the administration of direct relief. We were all in accord in this committee that whatever the problems of the mechanics of the administration might be, that those problems in their adjustment could only be the proper subject for discussion or modification at a General Session. We probably inquired into all of the problems surrounding the question of direct relief about as thoroughly as they have ever been inquired into by any group of legislators. We had before us Dr. de Schweinitz and his assistants any number of times, and any questions which any of the members of the committee felt were necessary to propound to the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board, or his staff, were propounded and answered from their viewpoint; and in addition to this, we had before us a preview of the Horst quasi report which appeared last week. We heard their angle of the relief problem, and after listening to all this, I say the one thing upon which we could all agree was the fact that we could do nothing satisfactorily at the Special Session which would at the present time modify the mechanics of the administration.

Mr. President, in view of these facts, I ask unanimous consent of the Senate to offer the following resolution:

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO PREPARING A PLAN OF PERMANENT ADMINISTRATION OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre) offered the following resolution, which was twice read:

In the Senate, May 12, 1936.

Whereas, a centralized administration of relief is unsuited in some respects to a protracted program of dealing with the consequences of unemployment

Whereas, the present constituted agencies for the care of the indigent throughout the Commonwealth are inadequate at the present time to assume the burden of the distribution of funds provided for unemployment relief, and

Whereas, private industry is failing to keep re-employment abreast of industrial and commercial recovery, and

Whereas, it appears to be the duty of the Commonwealth for some period in the future to provide against the social consequences of unemployment

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint three Senators and the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint three members of the House of Representatives to serve as a committee whose duty it shall be to prepare a plan of permanent administration of unemployment relief, which plan shall co-ordinate the activities of the Commonwealth and its municipal subdivisions, and to draft legislation which incorporates such plan, or plans and to report the same to the regular session of the Legislature in 1937.

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoena may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the Courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall willfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.

Resolved, That the Senate and the House of Representatives will appropriate the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5000.00) to pay the expenses of the Committee in prosecuting its study of such legislation, the summoning of witnesses, postage, secretarial and clerical hire, the attendance of members at meetings and other expenses.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39 which requires concurrent resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection. The resolution is referred to the Committee on State Government.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MALLERY, from the Committee on Judiciary General reported as committed, the following resolution, which was laid on the table:

In the Senate, May 12, 1936.

Whereas, The Democratic Administration at Washington in establishing the Works Progress Administration promised the State of Pennsylvania, along with the other states, that all employables on the relief rolls at the time of the creation of said Administration would be given work relief; and

Whereas, the Works Progress Administration has been in operation in Pennsylvania for a considerable period of time; and

Whereas, There are still on the direct relief rolls in Pennsylvania upwards of one hundred and seventy thousand cases, a very large percentage of whom are employables; and

Whereas, The report of certain members of the Joint Legislative Committee Investigating Public Relief, has disclosed that the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania is functioning as an arm of the Guffey-Earle-Lawrence Democratic State Administration, and being used for the purpose of building up a political machine rather than for the alleviation of unemployment; and

Whereas, The Governor of this Commonwealth has demanded that the Legislature impose an additional burden of seventy million dollars on our people to provide relief, largely for the employables, for the next nine months; and

Whereas, it is believed that an investigation of the Works Progress Administration as it is now functioning in Pennsylvania will disclose that the proper and economic administration thereof would provide for the most, if not all, of those now on the direct relief rolls, thus relieving the taxpayers of Pennsylvania from this additional burden which the Governor proposes to impose upon them; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate is hereby authorized to appoint a committee of five members of the Senate, whose duty it shall forthwith be to make a searching and impartial investigation of the organization, administration and functioning of the Works Progress Administrtion in Pennsylvania, to ascertain, (a) whether the same, if administered in a proper and economical manner, would relieve this Commonwealth from further taxation for unemployment relief or materially lessen the same, (b) in what respect, if any, the present administration is abusing the powers, prerogatives and privileges imposed in it, and (c) to investigate such other facts and circumstances as may be deemed necessary in order to enable the General Assembly to measure the extent of any revenue it should raise to provide for those unemployables which could not be provided for through a proper administration of the Works Progress Administration;

Resolved, That the said Committee shall have power to issues subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer and such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents, as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person, and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee, or to produce any papers, books, records, or documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases;

Resolved, That said committee shall make a report to the Senate now in session as early as possible.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move the resolution be printed for the information of the Senate.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTION FAVORING AN AMENDMENT TO THE APPROPRIATION BILL COVERING ALLOCATION OF WPA FUNDS

Mr. ZIESENHEIM. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. ZIESENHEIM offered the following resolution which was twice read and referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

In the Senate, May 12, 1936.

Whereas, There is a bill in Congress which carries an appropriation of $1,500,000,000 for continuation of WPA; and

Whereas, Under the present system of WPA several hundred million dollars of this appropriation will be used for administrative and overhead costs, thereby reducing the funds available for the workers who really need assistance; and

Whereas, There is overwhelming evidence that politics, and not relief, is the dominant factor in the WPA administration; and

Whereas, If the best interests of the general public shall be served, politics, excessive administrative costs, and waste and delays must be eliminated; and

Whereas, The locally elected officials of the various political subdivisions of the country, by virtue of their knowledge of local conditions, are in a better position to sponsor and administer works projects to provide employment for the citizens of their districts than any centralized Federal authority; and

Whereas, By eliminating the unnecessary administrative costs, and making all of the appropriation available for the unemployed, the present un-American labor rates and conditions could be eliminated, and a fair wage based upon the prevailing rate in each community for similar work could be paid; and

Whereas An amendment to the bill to provide that the WPA fund be allocated on a per capita basis to each political subdivision to be administered and expended by the proper local officials would eliminate delay, unnecessary overhead costs, and provide a greater number of jobs; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania urges the President of the United States and Representatives in Congress to support an amendment to the $1,500,000,000 appropriation bill; to provide that the WPA funds be allocated to each political subdivisions on a per capita basis to be used by the proper officials thereof to finance and administer work projects in their respective districts, to provide jobs for their citizens at the prevailing local labor rate; and that the allocaton to each political subdivision shall be at least ten dollars per capita; and that a further allocation of at least one dollar per capita be made to the various counties for work and direct relief; and to provide that the county commissioners shall by resolution appropriate at least fifty per cent. of the county allocation to the various poor districts for direct relief for citizens unable to work because of age or disability; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States, Senators and Representatives in Congress.

RESOLUTION FAVORING ADJOURNMENT OF TAX SALES DURING THE MONTHS OF MAY AND JUNE

Mr. RANKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. RANKIN offered the following resolution which was twice read and considered:

In the Senate, May 12, 1936.

Whereas, The authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and other municipalities throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are advertising or about to advertise tax sales, and have declined the requests of taxpayers to further postpone said tax sales until legislation can be enacted by the General Assembly for the relief of delinquent taxpayers; and

Whereas, The Allied Boards of Trade of Allegheny County, composed of forty-eight constituent community organizations, the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League, Pennsylvania Tax Justice League, and Pennsylvania Property Owners Association and similar organizations throughout the Commonwealth are in favor of the continuation of any such tax sales so as to enable the Legislature now in Special Session to enact appropriate legislation; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly hereby directs the attention of the public authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and the public authorities of other municipalities throughout the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the fact that, pursuant to the Governor's call, bills are now before the General Assembly authorizing the abatement of penalties and interest on municipal and other local taxes permitting the payment of such delinquent taxes by installments and therefore urges the public authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and all other municipalities in the Commonwealth to adjourn any tax sale which, under existing law, such authorities have authorized to be held during the months of May and June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, until legislation may be enacted relative to the abatement of tax penalties and interest.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forthwith transmitted by the Chief Clerk of this Senate to the mayor and to the city council of the City of Pittsburgh.

Mr. RANKIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39 which requires concurrent resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question?

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HOUSE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence bills of the House of Representatives as follows:

House Bill No. 3 (Senate Bill No. 18), entitled:

An Act abolishing the office of collector of delinquent county taxes where the same now exists in counties of the second class; providing for the collection of such taxes by the county treasurers; and providing for their compensation.

Which was committed to the Committee on County Government.

House Bill No. 15 (Senate Bill No. 19), entitled:

An Act transferring money from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund to the General Fund; and providing for the subsequent return from the General Fund of the transferred money.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

House Bill No. 21 (Senate Bill No. 20), entitled:

An Act imposing a temporary license tax for the privilege of operating, maintaining or controlling within this Commonwealth a store or stores or herein defined; prescribing the method and manner of collecting such tax and its disposition, and providing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Finance.

HOUSE NON-CONCURS IN CERTAIN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 3

He also returned to the Senate House Resolution No. 3, as amended by the Senate, with the information that the House has concurred in certain amendments made by the Senate as follows:

1. The 3rd "whereas" clause found on page 2, which reads as follows: "Whereas, there is a deficit of three million six hundred and thirty thousand dollars of cash to meet the allocations of the State Emergency Relief Board for the remainder of he month of May, 1936.

2. In the amendment to the last "whereas" clause, found on page 3, to wit: "This sum of three million six hundred and thirty thousand dollars."

3. To a strike-out of the resolution commencing with line 1, on page 3, and ending with the end of line 9 on page 4.

4. To the resolution commencing with line 10 on page 4, and ending with the end of line 25 on page 4.

And has non-concurred in all other amendments made by the Senate.

SENATE RECEDES FROM CERTAIN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 3

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I take it that the question before the Senate is not to agree to any amendments, but either to recede from the amendments made by the Senate, or to insist upon those amendments made by the Senate, that is, the amendments non-concurred in by the House. The amendments that the House already concurred in are not before the Senate for consideration at this time.

Mr. President, in this connection I desire to direct the attention of the Senate to the fact that this is a House resolution, introduced in the House of Representatives and passed by that body, sent over here to the Senate, and by us amended and passed almost unanimously. Even the Democratic membership were magnanimous enough to vote for this resolution in the form in which it passed the Senate by reason of the fact that it contained relief for human suffering and human misery. However, when the resolution was messaged back to the House for their concurrence in our Senate amendments, the House was so captious and so proud of its Democratic majority that they did not look upon this situation as the members of the Senate did, but by cracking the whip up and down the aisles of their Democratic membership, they saw fit to non-concur in certain of these amendments. Realizing as I do the importance of the carrying on of the work of relief in this State, as a member of the majority party of this Senate, I am now about to make a motion that the Senate recede from the amendments made in the Senate and non-concurred in by the House.

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to read a bill in place at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HUFFMAN read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 21, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county, city (except city of the first class), borough, town, township, school district (except school district of the first class), and poor district taxes; and prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period.

Which was committed to the Committee on County Government.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, in view of the fact that there are no bills of importance before the Senate, and that the revenue bills must necessarily arise in the House and be passed by that body before they can be considered by the Senate, there is really no point in the Senate remaining in session any further this week.

I therefore move that this Senate do now adjourn until next Monday evening, at 9:00 o'clock.

Mr. BAUMER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 6:32 P. M. until Monday, May 18, 1936, at 9:00 P. M.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, May 12, 1936

The House met at 12:00 o'clock noon.

The SPEAKER (Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend FINLEY KEECH, Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Harrisburg, offered the following prayer:

Our Father, we thank Thee for the way in which Thy hand has guided our nation through these years that are gone. We thank Thee for the consciousness on the part of our people to this Divine leadership.

We pray today that his hand may be felt again in this place, that our own personal idealism may not be sacrificed upon the altar of public good, but that we may be ever conscious of the God Who hath given us light, who hath sent us out as a people with a purpose in the world, and Who is mindful today of each thing that we do in this House, in our own personal living in this nation and throughout the world.

May this consciousness guide, we pray Thee, Father, each member here, and lead us into that rich joy of a deeper and finer association with Thee. May the things that are done this day by these Representatives of this great Commonwealth have Thy Divine benediction. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. TURNER. RESOLUTION No. 4

Whereas, the preliminary report of Joint Legislative Committee to Investigate Public Relief in Pennsylvania, as filed by the Republican members thereof, set forth that employables transferred from direct relief to WPA projects received relief orders concurrent with the time they worked on WPA, because WPA were unable to issue pay checks, and at the request of WPA to the SERB the relief service was continued; and

Whereas, the said report further states that this duplication cost the Commonwealth an estimated sum of Ten Million ($10,000,000) Dollars; and

Whereas, it is reported that large numbers of WPA workers in the State are being dismissed and are being reinstated on relief rolls; and

Whereas, the President and Federal Relief Administrator advised the States during the year 1935 that the Federal Government would, through its various programs, give employment to all employables and that the States would have to take care of the unemployables;

Therefore, Be It Resolved that the SERB be requested to communicate without delay with the Federal Relief Administration and request

(1) that the said Federal Relief Administration immediately pay to the SERB the sum of Ten Million ($10,000,000) Dollars representing the amount paid by the SERB to WPA workers as set forth above, said sum to be applied to the immediate relief requirements; and

(2) that the said Federal Relief Administration agree to pay to the SERB the amount necessary to reimburse the State for any moneys which are paid for the relief of said discharged WPA workers; and

(3) that the SERB cause to be kept an accurate account of all moneys paid for relief to employables, and that statements thereof be summitted from time to time to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

And Further Be It Resolved that the SERB forward a report showing the action taken to present aforesaid matters to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, and their replies and agreements in reference thereto.

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

By Mr. HOLLAND. (Concurrent) Resolution No. 5

In the House of Representatives, May 11, 1936.

Rsolved (If the Senate concur), That the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania is hereby requested to make an investigation, through its existing facilities, with the view of ascertaining whether, on the basis of valuation and income, or on any other basis, the street railway companies operating in Allegheny County may be required to issue tickets for school pupils only, at a rate not to exceed twenty-five cents (25 cents) per week.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. RESOLUTION No. 6.

In the House of Representatives, May 12, 1936.

Whereas, The Supreme Court has held that it is the duty of the Commonwealth to care for unemployed persons who are without means of support, but no such duty exists with respect to those which have such means and who are not eligible for poor relief; and

Whereas, It appears that many married women are employed in the administration of unemployment relief who are not in need of employment, and yet are paid from moneys appropriated for unemployment relief; and

Whereas, The true purposes of the appropriation for unemployment relief will be accomplished by employing in administrative work those competent persons who are in need of employment and relief aid, and who can appreciate the necessities and select the cases entitled to aid; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the House of Representatives that all married women employed by the State Emergency Relief Board, who are not in need of employment, be replaced by the employment of competent persons, residents of this Commonwealth, who are without employment and are in need of work.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board by the Chief Clerk of this House.

Whereas, The Allied Board of Trade of Allegheny County, composed of forty-eight constituent community organizations, the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League, Pennsylvania Tax Justice League, and Pennsylvania Property Owners Association throughout the Commonwealth are in favor of the continuation of any such tax sales so as to enable the Legislature now in Special Session to enact appropriate legislation; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly hereby directs the attention of the public authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and the public authorities of other municipalities throughout the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the fact that, pursuant to the Governor's call, bills are now before the General Assembly authorizing the abatement of penalties and interest on municipal and other local taxes permitting the payment of such delinquent taxes by installments and therefore urges the public authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and all other municipalities in the Commonwealth to adjourn any tax sale which, under existing law, such authorities have authorized to be held during the months of May and June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, until legislation may be enacted relative to the abatement of tax penalties and interest.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forthwith transmitted by the Chief Clerk of this House to the mayor and to the city council of the City of Pittsburgh.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

Whereas There is a deficit of Three Million six hundred thirty thousand dollars (3,630,000) of cash to meet the allocations of the State Emergency Relief Board for the remainder of the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas the cost of administration of unemployment relief has enormously increased since the passage of the law providing for the creation of the State Emergency Relief Board out of all proportion to the additional numbers of unemployed upon the relief rolls and likewise the cost of administering unemployment relief has increased from the sum of fifty-five cents per case in the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three to the sum of four dollars four cents per case in the month of February one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas It is the sense of the General Assembly that the system of administering relief be changed so that relief shall be granted on the basis of need only and that the cost of administring relief shall be materially reduced to the end that the overwhelming burden of taxation may be lifted from our citizens and

Whereas the number of administrative employes has increased from two thousand seven hundred sixty-one during the month of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-two to seven thousand seven hundred thirty-four during the month of February one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas By the Act of May twenty-six one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (Pamphlet Laws one thousand eighty-eight) the State Treasurer is authorized and directed from time to time whenever the Governor ascertains the necessity therefor to transfer upon warrant by the Auditor General upon requisition of the Governor funds from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund.

Amend page 3 by striking out in the third line of the third "Whereas" clause after the word "that" the words [these moneys] and inserting the words this sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars ($3,630,000) be made

Resolved (if the Senate concur) that if the Governor the Auditor General and the State Treasurer shall in accordance with said act of May twenty-six one thousand nine hundred thirty-three Pamphlet Laws one thousand eighty-eight transfer to the General Fund such sum of money from the Motor License Fund in order to make the same available for expenditure for unemployment relief by the State Emergency Relief Board for the balance of the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-six the General Assembly hereby pledges itself that it will enact appropriate legislation at this session of the General Assembly specifically appropriating the sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars ($3,630,000) to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief and to provide revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay said transferred moneys to said special fund

Resolved That it is the sense of the General Assembly that appropriate legislation be enacted providing that the Senate shall elect a financial agent who shall not be a member of the Senate and the House of Representatives shall elect a financial agent who shall not be a member of the House of Representatives whose duty it shall be individually or collectively to demand and receive from time to time from the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board for the use of the Senate and House of Representatives an itemized account of all moneys expended from the sum authorized to be made available for expenditure in accordance with this resolution the law enacted to carry the same into effect and any other law heretofore or hereafter appropriating moneys to the State Emergency Relief Board and expended subsequent to May one one thousand nine hundred thirty-six the agents so elected to be paid from appropriations made to the State Emergency Relief Board.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. COHEN. I move that on House Concurrent Resolution No. 3, Printer's No. 20, the House do concur in the folowing amendments made by the Senate, to wit:

(1) The third Whereas clause, found on page 2, which reads as follows:

"Whereas, There is a deficit of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars ($3,630,000) of cash to meet the allocations of the State Emergency Relief Board for the remainder of the month of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six; and"

(2) In the amendment to the last Whereas clause, on page 3, to wit:

[these moneys] this sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars ($3,630,000)

(3) To the strike-out of the Resolution commencing with line 1, on page 3, and ending with the end of line 9 on page 4.

(4) To the Resolution commencing with line 10 on page 4, and ending with the end of line 25 on page 4.

And that the House do non-concur in all other amendments made by the Senate.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to state that the question will be divided. The question will be put first on concurrence in certain amendments just read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion to concur in certain amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, as I understand, we are now voting upon that portion of the motion made by the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, which reads as follows:

1. The third whereas clause found on page 2 which reads as follows: "Whereas there is a deficit of Three Million six hundred thirty thousand dollars ($3,630,000) of cash to meet the allocations of the State Emergency Relief Board for the remainder of the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and"

2. In the amendment to the last whereas clause on page 3, to wit, "(these moneys) this sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars" and then the same in figures.

3. To strike out that portion of the resolution commencing with line 1, on page 3 and ending with line 9 on page 4. The resolution commencing on line 10 on page 4 and ending with line 29 on page 4; that the motion of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, is to concur in these amendments made by the Senate, and that is what we are now about to take the vote upon and only that part of the motion; am I correct, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to concur in certain amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask my Republican colleagues to vote in favor of this motion, and in order that you may thoroughly understand it, this motion amends the eleven million dollar figure of the House resolution and is reducing that figure to three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars, but I want you to bear in mind that in the reduction of that figure they have also reduced the time, so that we are not providing an emergency transfer up to the first of July, 1936, as originally proposed in the House resolution, but we are merely providing for an emergency relief transfer of funds up until the thirty-first day of May, 1936—the first of June, 1936.

The figure of three million six hundred and thirty thousand dollars is the actual figure that the State Emergency Relief Board is short, because the allocation for the month of May, I believe, roughly was six million nine hundred seventy-one thousand two hundred and ten and some odd dollars, and that the amount of money in the treasury was three million four hundred thousand some odd dollars and some odd cents, leaving a deficit of three million six hundred and thirty thousand dollars. So, by approving this amendment made by the Senate, we are providing actually for the deficit, for the allocation needed in the month of May and we are not committing ourselves to any proposition as to any amount that may be required for the month of June. It is the feeling, I take it, of this House that we will be able to solve that situation prior to the thirty-first day of May, 1936, and I know that it is the hope and desire of all of us that we may be able so to do.

I urge the members to vote "aye" on the motion made by the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen. And for once we agree.

On the question recurring?

Will the House agree to the motion to concur in certain amendments made by the Senate?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion to non-concur in all other amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, advise the House his reason for his motion of non-concurrence in these various amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the request of the gentleman from Philadelphia for information as to the reasons for non-concurrence affecting six paragraphs in the resolution:

Number 1 is in the second whereas clause, which we do not wish to concur in, "and there is not yet available sufficient data upon which to intelligently act upon said legislation," because in the next whereas clause we specifically agree that the sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars is required to take care of the relief requirements for the month of May. I am sure that neither the gentleman from Philadelphia nor any other member of this House wishes to concur in a paradox. We surely do not wish to concur, on the one hand, in admitting that the figures are not available upon which to determine the amount of money required for relief, and on the other hand, definitely to allege that that sum of money amounts to three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars.

The second paragraph, upon which there is non-concurrence, is the fourth whereas clause on page 2, which has been read to you by the Clerk. It indicates that the cost of administration of unemployment relief has enormously increased since the passage of the bill providing for the creation of the State Emergency Relief Board. It does not indicate that that increase increased proportionately with the number of cases to which the State Emergency Relief Board was administering relief. It does not indicate that since this administration the cost of administering relief has fallen. It does not indicate, as the gentleman from Philadelphia indicated to you on a prior occasion when this same discussion was before the House, that the increase from 1933 until January of 1935 was an increase that was occasioned under a Republican administration.

The third paragraph upon which there is a motion of non-concurrence goes to the last whereas clause on page 2, "Whereas it is the sense of the General Assembly that the system of administering relief be changed." How can we, as a deliberative body, confronted with the serious proposition of the administration of relief, by resolution indicate that the system of administering unemployment relief should be changed? What plan has been offered? What change has been suggested? What proposition has been given to us for consideration, which will supplant the present system of administering State relief? Should this House or this Assembly bind itself to change the system of administering State relief and then find out, after deliberation, that there is no better method than the one that is now employed by the State Emergency Relief Board? Should we bind the members of this General Assembly to go into unbeaten paths, into dark alleys, in order to find a method of administering State relief about which we know nothing? The immediate necessity is the raising of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars to care for relief for the balance of the month of May. Why should this House with a gun pointed at its head be required in order to get three million six hundred and thirty thousand dollars to subscribe to a method of administering relief about which we know nothing?

The next objection is on page 3, the first whereas clause, It is objection number four. That clause indicates "whereas the number of administrative employes has increased" from a certain number in June, 1932 to a certain number in February, 1936. It does not tell you how much it has decreased since February, 1936. It does not indicate to the membership that there has been a curtailment of the number of employes under the State Emergency Relief Board of approximately seven to eight hundred. It does not tell you that with a decrease in the case load there has been a decrease in the administrative load.

The fifth objection is really of no affect. It merely states what is already the enacted law of this Commonwealth, and if the gentleman from Philadelphia desires us to concur in this second whereas clause on page 3, I feel sure that that can be done. It is of no importance whatever. It binds the House to no policy and indicates in the resolution clause nothing more than is therein contained.

The sixth objection, is contained on page 4, the last clause on page 4. We ask non-concurrence on that portion of the resolution because this House again does not want to be put into the paradoxical situation that the gentleman from Philadelphia seems to desire to place the House in by this clause. How can we in one instance—how can the Republican minority in one instance complain about the increase in the cost of administration of the State Emergency Relief Board and on the other hand ask that two positions be created? All the information, all the statistics, all the knowledge of the State Emergency Relief Board are available to the members of this House and to the members of the Senate.

That figure of three million six hundred thousand at which we have arrived was not concocted in a smoke-filled back room of a hotel. That figure was arrived at as a result of due deliberation on the part of the two Republican members of the State Emergency Relief Board. That figure, in order to make up the relief requirements of the Commonwealth to the end of May, was the figure that was suggested by the State Auditor General and the State Treasurer, both Republicans. At that meeting there sat but one Democrat, the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. They had at that time available all of the figures of the State Emergency Relief Board upon which they could ascertain the relief requirements for the month of May and it was with the Republican majority of two to one that the figure of three million six hundred thousand dollars was arrived at. That figure and all figures of the State Emergency Relief Board are available to the Republican Auditor General, the Republican State Treasurer, and to every member of this House and the Senate.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, my friend in taking up his first objective was erroneous in his argument at the very inception.

He pointed out that in the first whereas clause we referred to the words "and there is not yet available sufficient data upon which to intelligently act upon said legislation," and then said we were in a paradox because in the very next whereas clause we state that there is a deficit of a particular amount, to wit, three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars. Were that all in the resolution, his argument would be right, but my friend forgets or apparently has not read or paid any heed to the words in the whereas clause immediately preceding that, wherein it refers to eleven million dollars. In other words, it says "whereas House Bill Number seventeen appropriating these amounts among others in the sum of eleven million dollars." So that the words "and there is not yet available sufficient data upon which to intelligently act upon said legislation" clearly and definitely refer to the fact that there are no figures upon which we can intelligently act upon the eleven million dollars and not upon the three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars. It is a rather technical argument, but the gentleman is very wrong in that particular matter.

The next argument that he puts forth is an endeavor—I will not accuse him of beclouding the issue or endeavoring so to do, but he seems to read the wording of the whereas clause differently although it is written in plain English. The cost increase set forth in this clause is not based upon the increased number of cases and the fact that there are more or less cases does not govern the second whereas clause he is seeking to strike out. The specific words used are that "the cost of administering unemployment relief has increased from the sum of fifty-five cents per case (per case, if you please) in the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three to the sum of four dollars four cents per case." So this argument that the cost of administering relief has increased because the cases have increased is not ridiculous and most fallacious, because he rests his case on that whereas clause. He does not dispute the facts and by not disputing them I take it that he admits them, and if his admission is that the cost per case has increased from fifty-five cents to four dollars and four cents per case, then that whereas clause should certainly not be stricken out, and I might just say to you, I don't know whether round figures mean much to you or not, but do you know that based on the present cost of administering relief, it costs the taxpayers of Pennsylvania thirty thousand dollars per day to administer relief. Nine hundred thousand dollars per month divided by thirty in plain arithmetic is thirty thousand dollars per day to administer relief. We contend on this side that a large portion of that thirty thousand dollars ought to go to feed the hungry and the needy, concerning whom my Democratic friends properly make much ado. If you divide thirty thousand by twenty-four, you will find that it costs twelve hundred and fifty dollars an hour, so that when you go to sleep and you take eight hours of sleep, by the time you wake up in the morning the Commonwealth has spent ten thousand dollars for the cost of administering relief. We claim that that is too much and we want it reduced. So the whereas clause on page 2 ought certainly not be stricken out, because it conforms to your figures, and I think we are grateful to the Democratic administration for having reduced this particular cost, because in April of 1936, instead of nine hundred thousand dollars, it is frankly admitted that it was one million seven hundred thousand and some odd dollars, and instead of being thirty thousand dollars a day during those days preceding September of 1935, it amounted to seventy-five thousand dollars or very close to that amount per day, with a corresponding increase per hour and per minute, as you will find by reducing the figure down to those periods.

The third objection deals with the whereas clause on the top of page 3. cannot in the farthest recess of my mind see how the Democratic Party can object to this suggestion. All we want to do under this whereas clause is to see to it that "the system of administering relief be changed so that relief shall be granted on the basis of need only." We want it changed so that the system of relief shall be on the basis of need only. You do one two things. You either admit that it is now based upon the basis of need only and Heaven knows if it is not based upon a system of need only, then you are doing something so radically wrong, improper and incorrect that you ought to change it even faster than the fastest airplane. Or you say that if you don't have it upon need only, that you don't want it upon need only, then you practically admit that the question of politics enters into this matter of administering relief, which we have charged. If you admit that and you are frank and open about it, more power to you for admitting it; less power to you for being compelled to admit it. But all we say to you is that our change is for need only, and then you object to the fact that we say that the cost of administering relief shall be materially reduced, but you argue that you have reduced it, you argue that you find yourselves now in a position where you can reduce it. Well, if you are reducing it, then why do you object to our saying that we ought to reduce it. If you are not reducing it, then you are admitting that the cost of administering relief ought to be as high as it is and you rebut your own argument by saying that you are reducing it.

Now my friend pays a great deal of time and attention to praising the Republican members of the Emergency Relief Board. I thank him for the praise and I believe it is well merited. He has told this House that he has the utmost, sublime confidence in the intelligence, in the integrity, and in the figures submitted by the Republican members of that Emergency Relief Board. That is a high compliment in these days of political argument for a member of one party to pay to another, and I ask the gentleman from York and I ask my Democratic coleagues to take the word of their leader and to continue to have absolute confidence in the integrity, in the intelligence, in the honesty and in the figures of the Republican members of that relief board, I call your attention to the little pamphlet issued under the title "A Message for Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen" written by our State Treasurer, Charles A. Waters, to whom my good friend refers and who definitely and concretely tells you that the figure and proper figure for the proper administration of relief, so that the people can't starve in Pennsylvania—and we don't want them to starve—should be forty-three million five hundred thousand dollars. Perhaps my friend will say "Well, this time the Republican is wrong. He was right every other time." Well, just suppose for the sake of argument that he is wrong, you at least admit that his figures are responsible and then you at least admit that there is a dispute between honest people upon the State Emergency Relief Board as to what the right figure is, so that you can go away back to the first whereas clause and you will repudiate your friend's argument when you want to strike out "there is not yet available sufficient data upon which to intelligently act upon said legislation."

Now, we come to the last. I am going to skip the fact that you have increased the number of employes five thousand between June, 1932 and 1936, and I hope you won't deny that in 1935 and '36 there was a Democratic governer and the increase took place to the most gigantic figures per month of expenditure during his administration, that it reached the all-time peak. Nobody can dispute that, but I am now coming down to the last and the last hurts me the worst. Here is a Senate and a House that pass upon legislation appropriating moneys for unemployment relief and, mind you, we have the effrontery, the Senate has the audacity to say we ought to know what is going on. The gentleman from York says "You can find out what is going on. Walk over there and they will give it to you. What are you kicking about? What are you raising a fuss about? If you don't know what's going on, you or any member of the House can find out what is going on." Well, we have had an awful hard time and we haven't found out yet what is going on in the WPA. But let us assume you are right, for the sake of argument. If you are right, what objection have you to permitting the people that appropriate the money, the people that levy the taxes, to have a representative who shall have the right not to vote, not to interfere with the administration of relief, but who shall merely have the right to sit in and get the facts.

I heard Justice Maxey deliver an oration to a bar association. It was one of the most interesting, eloquent and able orations I have ever heard, and speaking as a Judge, he said the most important thing in every life and in all things is to get the facts.

All we want is for the Senate, which undoubtedly will elect a Republican and the House which undoubtedly elect a Democrat, to put two separate persons in as their respective financial agents. To do what? "Whose duty shall it be to receive from time to time from the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board for the use of the Senate and House of Representatives an itemized account of all moneys expended" etc. and so forth. I would like to hear a good logical reason why that's objectionable.

That covers the amendments in which you do not want to concur. Let us be practical. Let us get down to brass tacks. You argue that the hungry will go hungry unless we appropriate immediately the money necessary to continue relief, that the funds are exhausted and that the unemployed in Pennsylvania will starve unless by Thursday of this week we transfer to the State Emergency Relief Board these funds. Are any of these whereas clauses so objectionable? Is party politics so great and so important that my Democratic friends curtail and endeavor to delay, endeavor to hinder, endeavor to prevent a transfer of funds that will enable the unemployed, the needy, the hungry and the destitute tonight to know that there is no deadlock in this Legislature but that on Thursday they will be fed. If you men are sincere in your statements, if you want to feed them, if you are not endeavoring to play politics with human misery, then I contend that the amendments acted upon and incorporated herein by the Senate are not objectionable enough to have you put this Legislature into a deadlock. Cast aside, even for a short space of time, your endeavor to make political capital out of that human misery and vote to defeat this motion so that the funds will be transferred and the rest of the legislation will come up in its turn and be enacted upon.

My attention has been called to just one other fact and, that is, my friend from York says that no other method of administering relief has been offered or introduced. That is true, perhaps. I don't know whether any Republican has so done or not, but one of your Democrats apparently thinks it is being administered the wrong way and acting, perhaps boldly and audaciously, one of my colleagues, one of the Representatives, John A. Smith of Cumberland County, I believe, introduced House Bill No. 37. I take it that the gentleman from York either was not familiar with that bill or does not want to pay any attention to it, but in that bill there is a provision for returning the unemployment relief situation back to the counties. Now, I don't stress that particularly, but I do say that apparently even on your side you are not entirely in accordance with one another on how the administration of relief should be conducted, and I appeal to the membership of this House, and although I usually believe that speeches don't make votes I do say that if you have followed this argument if you have read (you don't have to follow the argument)—if you have read the amendments, you will vote this motion down, and the poor and the needy and the destitute, of whom you speak with tears and concerning whom you play politics daily, will get their money and there will be no delay in this Legislature.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I want to point out a paradox in this resolution which the gentleman from Philadelphia can not evade no matter what type of specious reasoning he may employ; that is on the same line that he pointed out, namely, "and there is not yet available sufficient data upon which to intelligently act upon said legislation." That line obviously refers to the appropriation on transfer bill of eleven million dollars. Now the passage of the transfer bill involves a knowledge of the working operations of the relief system. If there is not sufficient data to pass upon the advisability of transferring eleven million dollars, then there is not sufficient data to raise objection to the present method of administering relief and there is not justification for urging a lowering or an increase in the administrative costs.

I wish to skip over to the last whereas clause on page 2, wherein the gentleman points out that the Democratic side of the House must be opposed to supplying relief only on the basis of need. We have no opposition to that line, but the gentleman in the Senate who wrote this resolution made the mistake of incorporating two ideas in one whereas clause, and we are opposed to the second point in that whereas clause, namely, "that the cost of administering relief shall be materially reduced" and so on, because the gentleman in the Senate admits in this resolution there is not sufficient intelligent data for them to pass on the transfer bill.

On the next whereas clause, it is absolutely asinine to cite that there has been an increase in the number of employees in the administrative side of relief. We all know that the relief system grew by leaps and bounds, and merely to say that there has been an increase proves the necessity for such an increase, because the funds that were expended became larger and the needs of the people became greater.

I wish to refer back to the paragraph in which they set forth the rising cost of administration per case per month. They state in there that the cost has risen from fifty-five cents per person or per case per month in 1932 to four dollars and four cents in March of 1935. When the gentleman argues that we should go along with this resolution he is assuming that those figures are correct, and that question when he puts it to us "why don't you go along with us because the costs have increased?" is just the same as a question that I might propound to the gentleman by asking him "Do you still beat your wife?" No matter how he answers the question, he still incriminates himself. I say that Mr. Witkin does not understand how those figures are computed in there. I say that the source of the information which supplied these figures is inaccurate; it is unsound, and I am willing to show on the floor of this House that those figures are not correct.

As to the last "resolved" clause, the gentleman reaches great heights of indignation that this House would not approve the appointing of a representative of the House and a representative of the Senate to study this question. I do not think that the minority side of this House are very short on information since I have heard one gentleman quote figures from the State Treasurer who is a member of the Board. He seems to get figures from him in a few minutes, so I think you are well represented, you have a member of the Relief Board who is very friendly, who cooperates with you, and you can get any kind of figures you want—there is no trouble getting them. But I do object to this House appointing a representative, or rather the Senate appointing a Republican and the House appointing a Democrat because it puts those two persons in an official status and they may file a report in which the Republican member may be influenced by his political bias, and that report would get more publicity than an impartial study of those figures.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to non-concur in all other amendments made by the Senate?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. WICKERSHAM and were as follows:

It was agreed to.

On the question.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not see the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, in the room, but Mr. Cohen advises me that although this bill provides for eleven million dollars, that it is the intention to pass this bill so that it be amended in the Senate to read three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars in accordance with the resolution that was passed. If that is a correct statement of the Democratic majority in this House, and if subsequenly they will concur with the amendments made by the Senate reducing the amount from eleven million dollars to three million six hundred thousand dollars—I think I correctly quote the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, and would like to ask if that is correct.

Mr. COHEN. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. With that assurance, Mr. Speaker, I ask the membership of the House to vote in favor of House Bill No. 17 as it will be amended and subsequently to vote for the amendment to three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars.

Whereas, House Bill No. 14, authorizing the transfer from the Motor License Fund to the General Fund of amounts aggregating not more than five million five hundred thousand dollars ($5,500,000), for the purpose of providing funds for unemployment relief, and providing for the repayment thereof not later than May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, House Bill No. 15, authorizing the transfer from the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund to the General Fund, between its effective date and June thirtieth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, of amounts aggregating not more than three million dollars ($3,000,000), for the purpose of providing funds for unemployment relief, and providing for the repayment thereof not later than May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, House Bill No. 17, appropriating these amounts among others, in the sum of eleven million dollars (11,000,000), to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes, is in the Committee on Appropriations of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, the number of administrative employes has increased from two thousand seven hundred sixty-one during the month of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-two to seven thousand seven hundred thirty-four during the month of February one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, and

[Resolved (if the Senate concur) that the General Assembly hereby authorize the Governor and the fiscal officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund from the Motor License Fund sums not exceeding five million five hundred thousand dollars ($5,500,000) and from the Liquid Fuels tax Fund sums not exceeding three million dollars ($3,000,000) and the General Assembly hereby pledges that it will pass without amendment House Bills Numbers fourteen and fifteen so providing validating the action of the Governor and the fiscal officers in making such transfers and the General Assembly further pledges that it will further pass without amendment House Bill Number seventeen appropriating said moneys among others to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes and the General Assembly further pledges that it will do so without delay]

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that if the Governor the Auditor General and the State Treasurer shall in accordance with said act of May twenty-six one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (Pamphlet Laws one thousand eighty-eight) transfer to the General Fund such sum of money from the Motor License Fund in order to make the same available for expenditure for unemployment relief by the State Emergency Relief Board for the balance of the month of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-six the General Assembly hereby pledges itself that it will enact appropriate legislation at this session of the General Assembly specifically appropriating the sum of three million six hundred thirty thousand dollars ($3,630,000) to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief and to provide revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay said transferred moneys to said special fund

Resolved, That it is the sense of the General Assembly that appropriate legislation be enacted providing that the Senate shall elect a financial agent who shall not be a member of the Senate and the House of Representatives shall elect a financial agent who shall not be a member of the House of Representatives whose duty it shall be individually or collectively to demand and receive from time to time from the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board for the use of the Senate and House of Representatives an itemized account of all moneys expended from the sum authorized to be made available for expenditure in accordance with this resolution the law enacted to carry the same into effect and any other law heretofore or hereafter appropriating moneys to the State Emergency Relief Board and expended subsequent to May one one thousand nine hundred thirty-six the agents so elected to be paid from appropriations made to the State Emergency Relief Board.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. CHERVENAK, from the Committee on Labor, reported as committed, House Bill No. 55, entitled:

An Act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry, and its existing and newly created agencies; requiring employers to pay certain contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons; providing procedure and administrative details for the determination, payment, and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation; providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies; creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer; and prescribing penalties.

Mr. GEORGE E. DOWNEY, from the Committee on Judiciary Local, reported as committed, House Resolution No. 8.

RESOLUTION No. 1

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 1, Printer's No. 33.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

Whereas, The recent floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere brought loss of life and resulted in damage to public and private property, running into millions of dollars; and

Whereas, The adequate flood control measures are urgently needed, and cannot be wholly financed by the states and their local subdivisions; and

Whereas, Such problems are in many cases not local, but of an interstate character; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That a joint legislative committee be created, composed of two Members of the Senate appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and three Members of the House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker of the House, whose duty it shall be to personally urge upon the President and Congress of the United States the necessity of the immediate adoption of adequate Federal flood control measures, designed to eliminate future floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere;

Resolved, That said committee shall make report to the General Assembly during its session convening May fourth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. H. S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. H. S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, just what does this resolution say.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, this resolution is intended for nothing more than its moral effect by having this Assembly go on record in urging Congress to enact the present omnibus flood control bill, when Congress by its action now is intending to pickle this for the next year. There are civic bodies in the City of Pittsburgh, the County of Allegheny, and throughout the entire Commonwealth who are urging action now, and there are delegations leaving Pittsburgh this coming Monday. All that this resolution does is to ask Congress to take action now.

Mr. H. S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, May I inquire of the gentleman if it is necessary to have a committee appointed to urge upon the President and the Congress of the United States the necessity for the immediate adoption of adequate Federal flood control measures?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, the reason we have asked for the appointment of a joint committee is because I do not think the Legislature, which comprises both House and Senate should take action on its own volition without the concurrence of the Senate. That is the necessity of having a committee of both House and Senate.

Mr. ZAPPALA. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, permit himself to be interrogated ?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ZAPPALA. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, realize that there was an administration measure introduced last night that covers this field very well?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I, together with the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, introduced five administration measures covering in part a flood control program, that we should coordinate with the Federal Government in carrying out the provisions of the present omnibus flood control bill.

Mr. ZAPPALA. Does the gentleman realize, Mr. Speaker, that the Government has appropriated more than fifty million dollars, and that we have introduced a bill for that purpose?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, we have introduced a bill, but the Federal Congress has not passed their omnibus flood control bill.

Mr. ZAPPALA. May I ask, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman does not think it possibly would be better that he withdraw the resolution and let the bill go through?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, the two have no connection with each other. In other words, if the Congress fails to enact the present flood control bill, all the legislation we introduce will be invalid and of no effect.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, for the information of the members of this House whether or not it is contemplated that this committee should make a journey to Washington in order to encourage the proposition set forth in his resolution?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I think the resolution is very simple. It might be agreed between the members of the House and Senate to go to Washington and urge your Senators and the Congressmen from the various districts to urge upon the President the passage of the present omnibus flood control bill.

Mr. HARKINS. May I ask, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman means personally?

Mr. WEISS. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to be informed by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, whether or not there is such a trip in contemplation, and whether or not the word personally in this resolution on Page 1 would mean that the expenses of this trip would be borne by the members personally or not?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, we expect the members of this committee to pay their own expenses.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, if he does not consider that it would be proper to so stipulate in the resolution?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, is selected on the committee, I will be glad to advance the expenses to take him along.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to thank the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, for his kindness.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER declared the nays appear to have it, whereupon, a division was called for, eighty-two members voting in the affirmative and twenty-four in the negative the question was determined in the affirmative, and the resolution was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Ways and Means to meet in Room 324, during the session of the House.

Mr. EROE asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Municipal Corporations to meet in the Anteroom during the session of the House.

RESOLUTION

Mr. BLUMBERG offered a resolution and asked unanimous consent for it to be read for the information of the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent for the immediate reading of the resolution for the information of the House? Are there objections?

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted. The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules.

By Mr. JOHN E. BROWN.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 10.

In the House of Representatives, May 13, 1936.

Whereas, Certain persons are employed in administrative work by the State Emergency Relief Board who are the beneficiaries of pensions or retirement allowances; and

Whereas, The purpose of the appropriations for unemployment relief is to provide aid for those residents of the Commonwealth who are without means of support; therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the House of Representatives that no person who is the beneficiary of a pension or retirement allowance sufficient to provide reasonable support should be employed by the State Emergency Relief Board, and that where such pensions or retirement allowances are deemed inadequate, that the amount received from such sources be deducted from the compensation of any person employed by the State Emergency Relief Board.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the State Emergency Relief Board by the Chief Clerk of this House.

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary Local.

By Mr. GILLETTE.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 11.

In the House of Representatives, May 13, 1936.

Whereas, There is a bill in Congress which carries an appropriation of $1,500,000,000 for continuation of WPA; and

Whereas, Under the present system of WPA several hundred million dollars of this appropriation will be used for administrative and overhead costs, thereby reducing the funds available for the workers who really need assistance; and

Whereas, There is overwhelming evidence that politics, and not relief, is the dominant factor in the WPA administration; and

Whereas, If the best interests of the general public shall be served, politics, excessive administrative costs, and waste and delays must be eliminated; and

Whereas, The locally elected officials of the various political subdivisions of the country, by virtue of their knowledge of local conditions, are in a better position to sponsor and administer works projects to provide employment for the citizens of their districts than any centralized Federal authority; and

Whereas, By eliminating the unnecessary administrative costs, and making all of the appropriation available for the unemployed, the present un-American labor rates and conditions could be eliminated, and a fair wage based upon the prevailing rate in each community for similar work could be paid; and

Whereas, An amendment to the bill to provide that the WPA fund be allocated on a per capita basis to each political subdivision to be administered and expended by the proper local officials would elminate delay, unnecessary administrative overhead costs, and provide a greater number of jobs; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania urges the President of the United States and Representatives in Congress to support an amendment to the $1,500,000,000 appropriation bill; to provide that the WPA funds be allocated to each political subdivision on a per capita basis, to be used by the proper officials thereof to finance and administer work projects in their respective districts, to provide jobs for their citizens at the prevailing local labor rate; and that the allocaton to each political subdivision shall be at least ten dollars per capita; and that a further allocation of at least one dollar per capita be made to the various counties for work and direct relief; and to provide that the county commissioners shall by resolution appropriate at least fifty per cent. of the county allocation to the various poor districts for direct relief for citizens unable to work because of age or disability; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States, Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

By Mr. BLUMBERG. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 12.

In the House of Representatives, May 13, 1936.

Whereas, The most important and crucial problem before this Extraordinary Session of 1936 is that of relief for the unemployed, the destitute and needy, and

Whereas, It is the sense of the General Assembly that the maximum amount of relief possible under present circumstances should be afforded to this unfortunate class of our citizenship, and

Whereas, Under the terms of the agreement entered into by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the United States Government in 1935, the Federal Government agreed to provide by work projects for all employables in the aforementioned class of citizenship and the State Government was to provide by direct relief for all unemployables, and

Whereas, The State Government has been compelled from the time of said agreement to the present to continue to provide for the employables among the needy by means of direct relief grants, despite the said agreement, and

Whereas, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is maintaining a large administrative agency operating under the State Emergency Relief Board for the distribution of direct relief at a present administrative cost of approximately $12,000,000 per year, and

Whereas, It has been impossible to determine the cost of administration of WPA projects in Pennsylvania, although it has been reported that same exceeds many times the high cost of administration of direct relief by the State Emergency Relief Board, and

Whereas, Allegations have been made and charges have appeared in the public press of the Commonwealth to the effect that the administration of WPA projects in Pennsylvania has been entirely political, that persons not entitled to relief and whose sole qualification is political activity have been given lucrative administrative positions and white collar jobs; that preferences exist to the detriment fo those in need of relief for the benefit of the political parasite, and that vast sums of money which should properly go to the unemployed, the destitute and the needy of this Commonwealth are being diverted to those not in need of relief who receive the political plums of WPA, and

Whereas, A direct relationship exists between the sum to be appropriated by the Commonwealth for direct relief and the number of persons properly employed on WPA projects, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania request the State Administrator of WPA projects, Edward N. Jones, furnish to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania not later than May 19, 1936, the following information:

1. The total cost of administration of WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, for the period beginning January 1, 1935 and ending May 1, 1936.

2. The number of administrative positions in WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, and the salaries of same.

3. The names and addresses of those holding administrative positions in WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, and the respective salaries.

4. The number, by counties, of those working on WPA projects in Pennsylvania not taken from the relief rolls of the State and the percentage of same to the gross number of employables on WPA projects in Pennsylvania.

5. The names and addresses, by counties, of those not taken from direct relief rolls of the State of Pennsylvania holding positions of County Administrator, supervisors, superintendents, secretaries, foremen, assistant foremen, time keepers and disbursing officers on WPA projects in the State and the respective salary of each.

6. The total amount allotted and spent on WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, for the period beginning January 1, 1935 and ending May 1, 1936.

Referred to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTION No. 3

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, May 13, 1936.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Concurrent Resolution No. 3, pledging the General Assembly, under certain conditions, to enact appropriate legislation at this session appropriating $3,630,000 to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief etc.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

STATEMENT BY MR. HOOPES

Mr. HOOPES asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker, we have been here nearly two weeks, we have heard plenty of long statements. I do not propose to take much of your time when you are anxious to get home, but I have a few things I would like to say.

I am in favor of promptly providing adequate relief for the unemployed, and I am perfectly willing, yes glad, to stay here as many weeks and as many days per week as may be necessary to do that, but the prospects of staying around here all summer boondoggling is not at all pleasing, in fact, it is thoroughly disgusting.

We are completing the second week of this session, and I think I am correct in stating that all we have actually done so far is to promise to give relief for eighteen days; in other words we passed a resolution,—we haven't yet passed the legislation. Our sessions have consistently been anywhere from a half hour to three hours late in assembling. Most of our time has been taken up in recesses taken to permit one or the other or both of the majority parties to hold caucuses.

The Senate adjourned on Tuesday; we are still here because the majority caucus decided yesterday it would be a nice political gesture for the House to stay in session until Thursday when the Senate had adjourned on Tuesday. If you are so anxious to advance the calendar which I understand is the argument as to why we are staying here, why don't you take up the bills on final passage postponed? They could have been passed yesterday,—some of them could have been passed Tuesday.

The important bills are not on the calendar this morning because some of them had not been brought in in time to be filed. I understand some of them have been brought into the House within the last few minutes.

If we had fewer caucuses and less political football while we were in session we could have gotten a whole lot further than we have. I think it is time we understood each other. Everyone knew this special session was coming long before it was called. It seems to me that at least the majority and the administration could have gotten together so as to know what they wanted to do, so that we could at least have put something through this House and gotten somewhere. Instead of that we are simply sitting around here waiting for the majority group to decide what it wants to do.

If this House is going to be kept in session for political reasons to build up campaign material for one party or another in the Presidential campaign, I propose to insist that at least a quorum of the members stay here with us. You have held up the session this morning for three-quarters of an hour in an endeavor to get a quorum. You may possibly have a quorum but it is very close, and there is no reason why we should have all these delays all the time. I think it is time that we have a showdown and an understanding one way or the other, and see if we cannot hold our meetings on time and get something done.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I suggest the absence of a quorum, and I move a call of the House.

POLL OF HOUSE

The SPEAKER. The Sergeant-at-Arms will close the doors and permit no one to enter except members.

The Clerk will proceed with the poll of the House and report the result to the Chair.

The Clerk polled the House.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk reports one hundred nineteen members present. The House will proceed with its regular business.

CALL FOR ROLL CALL

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the call of the House be made by roll call. I believe that is the way it should be done under the rules of the House.

The SPEAKER. The only time a roll call is necessary is when a roll call has been asked for. A roll call was not asked for and the House was polled by the clerks.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to file with the Clerk and have entered on the record, a few brief, but very pertinent, statements with respect to unemployment relief, taken from the work on Economics, by Arthur Hadley, one time President of Yale University.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none, and the statements will be entered in the Journal.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

POOR RELIEF IN ENGLAND

and other observations taken from the work on ECONOMICS

By Arthur Hadley, one time President of Yale University

"The history of poor-relief in England divides itself into four periods. In the first period, lasting till 1600, the state confined its efforts to the suppression of pauperism leaving the care of the incapable and unfortunate to other agencies. The Reformation made some of these agencies inoperative; and during the second period, inaugurated by the Act of Elizabeth (1601) the parish authorities were charged with the duty of relieving the destitute. Every effort was made to prevent such relief from being abused. The tendency of the poor to migrate to parishes where they received the best treatment was met by the acts of settlement, which were framed to prevent people with precarious means of livelihood from changing their legal residence. The laxity of certain justices who ordered relief to be granted on inadequate grounds, was met by the imposition of the workhouse test (1713). Parishes were encouraged to build workhouses and to make residence in such workhouses a condition of relief. Pauperism was made as unpleasant as possible in order to reduce the burdens of the ratepayer. But in the latter part of the eighteenth century a different spirit began to prevail. The old practice was felt to be unnecessarily hard on the poor. The use of the workhouse as a test was abolished. It was made a place of support for the incapable. No one was to be sent to a workhouse if he could maintain himself elsewhere. By "Gilbert's Act" (1782) the guardians of the poor were charged with the duty of helping them thus to maintain themselves; in other words, of finding work for everyone who applied for it. Until they succeeded in finding work for him, the applicant was to be supported in his own home at public expense. The effect of this law on the prosperity of the English agricultural districts was terrible. It relieved any man who chose to avail himself of its provisions from the responsibility of seeking work. It gave the overseers more to do than they could possibly accomplish. They could not find employment for all who applied. They were compelled to support these applicants and their families in reasonable comfort. The burden of this support came indirectly on the industrious laborers. The condition of the man who lived on charity was in many districts made better than that of the man who supported himself by honest labor. Conspicuously was this the case with persons who had large families. The parish allowance for each child was so great as to constitute a premium on the increase of numbers. In certain districts the operation of the law not only crippled industry, but had most disasterous effects on public morality; practically abolishing female chastity among those classes to whom the ample parish allowance for the support of children constituted a temptation to vice. So great were these evils that in the year 1834 Pariament was compelled to reestablish the workhouse test. By this change the burden of pauperism, which had increased with such rapidity that it threatened to cripple English agricultural prosperity, was gradually lightened; but the southern and western countries of England have not yet recovered, either materially or morally, from the evils which were entailed upon by fifty years of liberal policy in the matter of poor-relief.

"In the interest of those who are willing and able to work it is absolutely indispensable to reduce the burden of pauperism to a minimum. Any other policy not only puts unnecessary taxes upon the industrious, but tends to increase the number of paupers and diminish the number of those who are charged with the labor of supporting them."

WORK RELIEF

"There is a specious argument in favor of public works for the relief of those who are temporarily unemployed. People say that such work would have been done, sooner or later, in any event; that the unemployed must be helped in some shape or other; that even if those who are set to work upon these things do not earn the full amount of their wages, the little they may accomplish is better than nothing, as otherwise they would have to be wholly supported at public expense. They also add that employment on useful work of this kind preserves the self-respect of the laborer which the direct giving of charity tends to destroy. But this view of the matter is a somewhat dangerous one . There is reason to fear that public works arranged with this motive and object in view do more harm than good. In the first place, most public works cannot be constructed in the winter season, when destitution is greatest and the need of temporary relief most pressing. In the next place, the amount accomplished by laborers who are set to do such work without special training is greatly overestimated by those who have not had experience. It seems a simple matter to build a sewer, but it requires an amount of training for which the man who is given such work as a temporary means of relief has had neither the time nor the opportunity. In the third place, the seeming advantage from the construction of these works causes too many operations of the kind to be undertaken, and diverts to these operations a certain number of laborers who would gradually have found profitable and useful employment in lines for which they were more fitted. The net loss to the tax-payer from this large amount of ill directed labor is greater than that which would have resulted from the bestowal of a smaller amount of direct charity to the persons, who, by investigation and by the work test, had been found worthy to receive it. Finally, the preservation of self-respect to the laborer by this process is more apparent than real. If it is known that public works are being constructed for which laborers are employed on something better than a commercial basis, the pressure of these positions makes them an object of political wire-pulling. It is a false notion of self-respect which leads the man who can take money out of the public by chicanery to rate himself higher and be rated higher by society than the one who truthfully confesses to himself and others the real ground on which property is diverted to his support."

CAPITAL AND LABOR

"The disparity in the accumulations of different men is likely to become more marked as the amount of wealth in any community grows larger. There is always a number of people who stand at the zero point in the matter of accumulation. Some men drink and get rid of it almost as speedily. Some without either gambling or drinking are so shiftless that they refuse to work as long as they have a dollar in their pockets. Some, again, are unfortunate, through no fault of their own, and fall into the fate of the shiftless unless relieved by charity. If property were evenly divided to-day, there would soon be some men who had none and others who had a great deal. The successful gambler and the saloon keeper will benefit by the losses of their victims; the industrious or fortunate man will find himself gradually drawing ahead of the shiftless or unfortunate. The more capital there is in the community the greater these differences are sure to become. With the increasing wealth of modern nations there has inevitably been an increasing disparity between the accumulations of those who have most and of those who have least.

"But this does not always represent a difference in income. The income of the man who has saved nothing may be larger than that of the man who has saved a hundred or a thousand dollars a year. Nor does it represent a difference in enjoyment. The enjoyment of different classes and different individuals in the community is measured by their expenditure, not by their accumulations. The most careful calculations show, that side by side with the increase of accumulations and partly as its direct consequence, the proportion of enjoyment which goes to labor is becoming larger, and the proportion which accrues to capital relatively smaller. Just as increased numbers of laborers mean increased competition for employment, forcing the position of the laboring classes downward, so increased accumulations of capital mean increased competition for the servies of the laborers, forcing the relative income of the capitalists downward and that of the laborers upward. It is in large measure because of the enormous investments of capital and the resulting keeness of competition among employers, that the proportion of the public income going to the laborers has steadily increased."

GEORGE H. EARLE.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THE FUNCTIONING OF THE WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATION IN PENNSYLVANIA

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I call up for consideration Senate Resolution No. 1, Printer's No. 1.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, May 12, 1936.

Whereas, The Democratic Administration at Washington in establishing the Works Progress Administration promised the State of Pennsylvania, along with the other states, that all employables on the relief rolls at the time of the creation of said Administration would be given work relief; and

Whereas, The Works Progress Administration has been in operation in Pennsylvania for a considerable period of time; and

Whereas, There are still on the direct relief rolls in Pennsylvania upwards of one hundred and seventy thousand cases, a very large percentage of whom are employables; and

Whereas, The report of certain members of the Joint Legislative Committee Investigating Public Relief, has disclosed that the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania is functioning as an arm of the Guffey-Earle-Lawrence Democratic State Administration, and being used for the purpose of building up a political machine, rather than for the alleviation of unemployment; and

Whereas, The Governor of this Commonwealth has demanded that the Legislature impose an additional burden of seventy million dollars on our people to provide relief, largely for the employables, for the next nine months; and

Whereas, It is believed that an investigation of the Works Progress Administration as it is now functioning in Pennsylvania will disclose that the proper and economic administration thereof would provide for the most, if not all, of those now on the direct relief rolls, thus relieving the taxpayers of Pennsylvania from this additional burden which the Governor proposes to impose upon them; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate is hereby authorized to appoint a committee of five members of the Senate, whose duty it shall forthwith be to make a searching and impartial investigation of the organization, administration and functioning of the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania, to ascertain, (a) whether the same, if administered in a proper and economical manner, would relieve this Commonwealth from further taxation for unemployment relief or materially lessen the same, (b) in what respect, if any, the present administration is abusing the powers, prerogatives and privileges imposed in it, and (c) to investigate such other facts and circumstances as may be deemed necessary in order to enable the General Assembly to measure the extent of any revenue it should raise to provide for those employables which could not be provided for through a proper administration of the Works Progress Administration;

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer any such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents, as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person, and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee, or to produce any papers, books, records, or documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases;

Resolved, That said committee shall make a report to the Senate now in session as early as possible.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the resolution just called up for consideration by the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, is out of order for the reason, First, that it authorizes the appointment of a committee to make a search and investigation into the organization and functions of an agency over which this Senate has no jurisdiction. Second, the resolution violates the Executive Proclamation convoking this Special Session. And, third, the resolution violates Article III, Section 25 of the Constitution of this Commonwealth.

The PRESIDENT. On the first two points raised by the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, the Chair will sustain both points. As to the third point, the Chair is not familiar with the legal matters involved in the resolution.

APPEAL FROM THE DECISION OF THE CHAIR

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I desire to appeal from the ruling of the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, appeals from the decision of the Chair.

The appeal from the decision of the Chair was read as follows:

"Mr. President. We appeal from the decision of the Chair in sustaining the first two points of order raised by Senator Cavalcante with reference to Senate Resolution No. 1.

"C. J. BUCKMAN
"G. MASON OWLETT
"F. T. FELDER
"G. WOODWARD
"CHAS. H. EALY"

The PRESIDENT. The President Pro Tempore of the Senate will take the Chair while this appeal is being disposed of.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. John G. Homsher) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The question is upon the appeal from the decision of the Chair. The Senators who vote "Aye" will vote to sustain the Chair; Senators who vote "No" will vote not to sustain the decision of the Chair.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. LAW and Mr. CAVALCANTE and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—20

Baumer,	Law,	Reed,	Ruth,
Cavalcante,	McCreesh,	(Washington)	Shapiro,
Frey,	McGinnis,	Rice,	Sones,
Huffman,	Miller,	Roberts,	Thompson,
Kahle,	Pytko,	Rupp,	(Centre)
Lanius,	Rankin,

NAYS—26

Aron,	Graff,	Pierson,	Staudenmeier,
Batchelor,	Harris,	Prince,	Thompson,

Buckman,	Howell,	(Dauphin)	Woodward,
Chapman,	Mallery,	Salus,	Ziesenheim,
Coyne,	McClure,	Scott,	Homsher,
Ealy,	Owlett,	Sordoni,	Pres. Pro. Tem.
Gelder,

So the question was determined in the negative.

The PRESIDENT. The decision of the Chair is therefore not sustained.

The PRESIDENT. (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is now before the Senate.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I move to amend the Senate Resolution No. 1, as follows:

Insert after the last "Whereas" clause, at Line 15, on Page 2, the following:-

"Whereas, the League of Nations has completely failed to function as an organization of International Government in the recent crisis between Italy and Ethiopia, and Whereas, by the reason of the said failure of the League of Nations to function, the peace and orderly government of the world has been gravely disturbed, with threat of serious difficulty and interference, with the economic, social and political structure of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

In Line 18, on page2, being Line 3 of the "Resolved" clause, insert after the word "Senate", the following:-

"All of whom shall be Republicans."

And, insert, after the word "Administration," on page 3, the following:-

"And, also, to make a searching and impartial investigation of the organization, administration, and functioning of the League of Nations, to ascertain:—

(a) Whether same, if administered in a proper and proper economic manner, would relieve this Commonwealth from all taxation for any purposes whatsoever;

(b) In what respect the present administration is abusing its powers, perogatives, and privileges;

(c) To investigate anything else which the said Committee may deem advisable to investigate."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, inasmuch as this proposed amendment would change the purpose of the original resolution, it is out of order.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order raised by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is well taken. The Chair rules that the amendment proposed would destroy whatever purpose and intent are contained in the original resolution,—if any.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to make a few remarks on this resolution. I feel that at this very moment, throughout this Commonwealth and the entire United States, there seems to be a very keen enthusiasm in the hearts of the Republican Party as to the preservation of the Constitution and tenets proclaimed therein. At this time I call to the attention of the Republican membership of this Senate that the passage of this resolution would violate Article III, Section 25 of the Constitution but I think that we ought to consider this resolution seriously, and that we ought to spend a little time upon the provisions of the Constitution here tonight, and see that the Constitution is not violated.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, last week a resolution was offered in this Senate dealing with the transfer of a certain number of dollars from one fund to another. An amendment was offered to the resolution,—to the recital clauses of the resolution—stating facts for which there was little, if any, justification. I moved that that resolution be not received—that the amendment be not received, rather,—on the ground that it was in contradiction to the original resolution, and would violate the intents and purposes of the resolution. The Chair sustained my point of order by a ruling that it was well taken. The Senate appealed from the decision of the Chair, and the decision of the Chair was not sustained.

Tonight a similar situation arises,—a resolution, offered last Tuesday, was called up for consideration by the Senator from Tioga. The purpose of that resolution appears to be an investigation of one subject matter, and the amendment that was offered has to do with another subject matter. I object to it on the ground that it should not be received, because it would change the purpose of the original resolution. The Chair sustained a point of order made by the Senator from Fayette, Mr.Cavalcante, which was to the same effect as my objection to the amendment; and the Senate appealed from the ruling of the Chair, and the Chair's decision was not sustained.

I wish to state my reasons, now, for objecting to the original resolution. Obviously, those of us who know anything about the law, must understand that we have no control over Federal governmental functions. The sole intent and purpose of this resolution is to investigate the Work Progress Administration, which is an arm of the Federal Government; and the conclusion is that the Committee shall make a report to the Senate, which is now in session, as soon as possible.

Now, this Session is limited specifically to certain purposes, mentioned in the Call. Its designation of any subject must be within the scope of the Call. It is obvious the relief question cannot be solved by an investigation of the Works Progress Administration. I think the framers of this resolution must know that even if they want to hide behind the fact, or the allegation they claim, that if they find out that the Federal Government, through the Works Progress Administration, is not employing as many people as it should—as it should or as it promised, and if the Federal Government insisted on keeping to its present course, there is nothing for us to do other than proceed in our present purpose, which is to see how much—or, as it now seems to be the aim, how little money shall be given for relief, and how we are to raise it.

If this Committee came back and reported—and everybody believed that report—that if the Federal Government employed another 10,000 or 110,000, putting them on the payroll of the Works Progress Administration,—if it did that the need for relief in Pennsylvania would be less than is claimed for it by those who know something about it,—I say, if that report were received, and believed, I would very facetiously ask, "So what!"

I therefore claim that this resolution certainly cannot have the purpose which appears on its face, but some other, ulterior motive. It is silly to waste time on this question. We are called here to decide how we are to raise money for relief,—we don't care whether $90,000,000 is necessarry or it is finally determined that $43,000,000, or $40,0000,000, is necessary,—the thing we are to decide and engage ourselves with primarily, without wasting time is, how much is really necessary, and where will we get it: not this question on this type of a resolution.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this resolution, the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, very gladly.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, will the sponsor of this resolution, the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, kindly direct me to the page in the so-called Horst Report wherein it discloses that the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania, as the Senator charges, is functioning as an arm of the Guffey-Earle-Lawrence Democratic State Administration.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I do not have on my desk or in my desk a copy of the Horst Report.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I have one here that the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, may use.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I think it is unnecessary to argue the question; it is unnecessary to point out the entire number of instances, that have been brought to the attention of this Senate and the people of Pennsylvania, of the political activities of the W. P. A. in every county in Pennsylvania; and I know of no exceptions. The Works Progress Administration is used as an arm of the Guffey-Earle-Lawrence machine, to build up a political machine in Pennsylvania; and everybody in the State knows it. It is said that ten per cent of the employees do not have to be taken from the relief rolls of the State,—they are appointed by the local Democratic County Chairman. Letters from the Democratic leaders to the Works Progress heads recommending employees have been published in the papers all through this State, and it is a matter of common knowledge; and there are any number of instances brought to the attention of the Senate of Pennsylvania, in this Horst Report, of the political activities of the Works Progress Administration. I am sure if the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, has read that report, he himself knows where those instances are contained therein.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I have heard the sermonizing that the Senator from Tioga County, Mr. Owlett, on this matter before, I have just placed in his hands a copy of the Horst Report, and I would like to repeat my interrogation, since he has charged this in his resolution, and ask that he point out the pages in this Horst Report wherein he states these charges occur.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I think I have answered the Senator's question sufficiently, without more time. I cannot turn to the exact pages of this report, which cannot turn to the exact pages of this report, which contains some 161 pages, on which the references in connection with the W. P. A. employment occurred; but I repeat that if the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, reads over that 161 page report, he will find any number of instances where the letters and evidences appear of the political activities of the Works Progress Administration.

Mr. President, I want to say further that we are told by the President, over the radio, Mr. Ickes and by dictator Hopkins, and by all the rest of the representatives of the Administration in Washington, that the Works Progress Administration would take care of all the employables in Pennsylvania. And what is the result? Instead of having the Works Progress Administration administered by the State Emergency Relief Board, which knew something about who the unemployed were,—because it was headed by Mr. Robert Johnson, who refused to play politics—they set up a separate administration headed by Mr. E. N. Jones, for the very purpose of making a political organization; and then, the result has been that the investigators of the direct relief in Pennsylvania, who have been faced with the loss of their jobs because of the transfer of people from the direct relief over to the works relief, have gone out and been offered almost a medal if they will get some more people on relief, to keep this up.

Now, when this Administration comes into this Senate and asks us to appropriate, from the people of Pennsylvania, $70,000,000,—to be taken out of taxes—to run this machine of their's for the next seven months, we are entitled to know why it is that the Works Progress Administration has not taken care of these unemployed, and why is it that we have to appropriate $70,000,000, when we were told that they were going to take care of it all by Federal funds.

There is not a man in this Senate that does not know, himself, that if the Works Progress Administration was not being run as it is, as a political machine, we would not have this unemployment problem at all before us. And this is the purpose of this resolution,—to find out, if we can; to throw the light of publicity on the activities of this political machine that has been created for the purpose of continuing this rule in Pennsylvania, that we have had an example of thus far.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I still insist that the Senator from Tioga County, Mr. Owlett, is dodging my interrogation; and I would like to ask the Senator from Tioga County whether he has read this Horst Report.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I am glad to state to the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, that I have read about half of it, and I found so much evidence thus far of rottenness in the direct relief and the Works Progress Administration I did not consider it necessary to read the rest of it.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I wish to ask the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, further, this question: If he has read so much, why can he not point out these evidences of which he speaks,—point them out here on the flood of the Senate?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I think I have answered that question.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I would just like to read a letter that came on my desk this evening,—at random; I do not know the author of this letter, the letter just happened to be among my mail this evening, and I would just like to read it in connection with the remarks of the Senator fromTioga County. It read as follows:

"Grampian, Pa., May 14, 1936.

Dear Senator:

I hear over the radio and in the Tory Press that W. P. A. is full of politics. I am a W. P. A. worker. Have been for six months under John Y. Rafferty of Grampian, Pa. Half of our men are Republicans, and not at any time has he or the foreman said one word to any of the men in any way about politics, or shown any partiality toward either side. I am a Democrat and I am proud of it. Yes, to be an EARLE Democrat, as he is the working man's friend, and we believe you are about 1,000 per cent better than H. B. Scott, and the Tory Senate in Harrisburg are playing their last game. You will go back to Harrisburg, I am sure, so will Roosevelt go to Washington. America has wakened up. I appreciate what you have done so far, and any time you need any little bit of help, let me know.

"Yours respectfully

"H. S. RICHARDS."

I think that, from a man employed on a W. P. A. project, answers the rather trite sermonizing of the Senator from Tioga County.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I think the members of this Senate are very glad to know of one person that has not been approached on the W. P. A.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, we have got a resolution here; it has to do with something ridiculous on the face of it. Here we are asked to investigate the actions of an agency of the Federal Government. When I proposed the amendments, it was not that I expected that they were in order; I was satisfied that they were not; but I thought perhaps, in view of the action of the membership last week in a somewhat similar case, they might decide to hold that they were in order, and do something about it, because if we have the power to investigate any alleged failures of W. P. A., we perhaps also have the power, and duty, to investigate the alleged failures of the League of Nations. It seems to me, when we investigate something of the Federal government, we are going beyond our power and duty and—but we are reducing our position here, as representatives of the people of Pennsylvania, to a position of absurdity.

There are a lot of inconsistencies,—for instance, the inconsistency between the action of last week and the action of this week, and the inconsistency generally, on the right, which I noticed in the recent remarks of the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, so that one would question whether the Senator from Tioga was supporting the direct relief set-up and opposing the W. P. A. He said first that W. P. A. was not employing men, and then he turns around and says the W. P. A. was employing men and that was putting the people who were administering direct relief out of work, and they were trying to bolster up direct relief.

Now, let us attend to our own business, and attend to it right.

I would like to see this resolution voted down. Let us attend to our own business, the business of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and let Washington attend to its business. The people elect men to go to Washington, and elect others to come here; and I do not think that any of the representatives here should be trying to tell Washington what to do, nor do I believe in the representatives in Washington trying to dictate a course of conduct for us.

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I desire to state that I intend to vote for this resolution, because, in my opinion, no more important resolution can come before this body. For the present moment I am unwilling to vote for any taxes, because I do not know whether any taxes are needed; and the key to the whole situation is in this W. P. A. set-up. If President Roosevelt had kept his promise to absorb the employables on relief, we would have needed no Special Session of the Legislature of Pennsylvania.

But in answer to my friend, the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, who seems to be unaware of the fact that there is politics in the W. P. A., I simply seek to call his attention to the fact that this situation seems to be known beyond State lines. I just want to quote from the Wall Street Journal of April 23, 1936,—from an article entitled "A Test of Sincerity" by Frank R. Kent: "The facts brought out concerning Mr. Edward N. Jones, State W. P. A. Administrator, are of a kind that can hardly be ignored. Evidence is presented to show that Mr. Jones is up to his neck in machine politics, that he makes his appointments purely on a political basis, that he permits political propaganda to be put in the pay envelopes of W. P. A. envelopes, that he is one of the men behind WE, THE PEOPLE, a publication designed exclusively for political porposes and which W. P. A. workers are pressed to support. But, if none of this were true,—if Mr. Jones were wholly aloof from machine politics,—if he were indeed a devotee of the merit system, still the number of people he put on the W. P. A. pay roll would seem a stunning total. It is reported by Mr. Paul Ward of the Baltimore Sun, after a thorough investigation, that Mr. Jones has on his payroll 270,251 persons. This is 26,000 more than the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the world's largest corporation has in the whole of North America."

In view of charges of that kind, circulated throughout the nation, I should think that Mr. Jones would welcome the opportunity to come before a committee of the Senate and defend himself from these widespread charges that are being circulated. Certainly this Senate cannot vote intelligently on what the needs for relief in Pennsylvania are going to be months from now until we have accurate only way I know that we can get it is through passing information as to the activities of the W. P. A.; and the a resolution of this kind, and I hope the resolution will be adopted.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, permit himself to be interrogated upon his remarks?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, certainly.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, what has the Senator from Dauphin, and his colleagues of this Senate, done to assist the President and his administration to make a success of the W. P. A., in order to accomplish the purposes which the Senator from Dauphin said the W. P. A. was to accomplish?

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, in answer to the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, I do not know that the Senate of Pennsylvania has had any opportunity. The whole W. P. A. set-up occurred after we adjourned the regular session. We are perfectly willing to cooperate, but how on earth can we cooperate if you are going to vote against a resolution that gives us a chance to investigate?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, consider this resolution a resolution in aid of the purposes intended by the President, or is the resolution put forth for the purpose of criticising and condemning and finding fault?

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I have no intention of condemning the purposes of the W. P. A., but according to information which I have received, it may or may not be true, I question whether it is fulfilling its purpose, and I am unwilling to cast any vote to put taxes on the people of Pennsylvania when I do not know whether or not it is necessary to do so. The only way we can find out is to have this investigation.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, with pleasure.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, does the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, prefer to take the word of the Wall Street Journal in preference to the word of the citizens of Pennsylvania?

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I will answer the question of the Senator from Centre by saying that I do not take the word of the Wall Street Journal, I am simply giving evidences of the widespread quotations which are going all over the country, and I would think that my friend, the Senator from Centre, would like to have the matter investigated and have Mr. Jones given an opportunity to prove that those statements are not true.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, does the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, agree with the statement of the Wall Street Journal that there has been a "stunning total,'" as the Wall Street Journal puts it, of people employed in the State of Pennsylvania by the W. P. A.

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I will answer the Senator from Centre by saying that the quotation was not from the editorial policy of the Wall Street Journal, but from Mr. Frank R. Kent, who, I believe, is a Democrat.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, does not the Senator from Dauphin believe that the statements of Frank R. Kent, voiced in the Wall Street Journal, apparently approved by their editorial staff, is in direct contradiction of the statements contained in the Owlett resolution, namely, that there have not been sufficient people put to work by the W. P. A. in Pennsylvania.

Mr. REED (Dauphin). Mr. President, I am very glad to answer the Senator from Centre by saying that I do not see the contradiction. I gave a good many figures last Tuesday to show that there were a great many people who are on W. P. A. who never were on relief, and I think that those questions can only be answered by an investigation. I hope that Mr. Jones can clear himself, and we want to see that he has a very good opportunity to come before that Committee to do it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am concerned with the politics of the W. P. A. at the present moment, but I am much concerned about the wording of this resolution. I am concerned about whether or not this resolution can first solve the problem or help to solve it; and secondly whether it is effectual, whether it can be done. I notice in the resolution on page two, one of the purposes is to investigate "in what respect, if any, the present administration is abusing the powers, prerogatives and privileges imposed upon it." That seems to be rather a wide investigation of governmental activities, which have nothing to do with the purpose of the resolution. I then notice in the resolution the provision that "the said Committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer questions."

I assume that everyone here, even the sponsor of the resolution, will admit that without that power the purpose cannot be served. I am greatly concerned with what the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, has said, that he will not vote for any taxes until he finds out just what part W. P. A. can play in the relief of the taxation that may be necessary. Therefore, if we are going to investigate or appoint a Committee who will have no power to act, we will simply be delaying the time when the Senator from Dauphin will be able to vote on these questions. For that reason I would like to interrogate the Senator from Tioga Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, state whether or not the power to subpoena given by this resolution will be effective against any government official?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I believe it will be.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the Senator from Tioga believe that the State of Pennsylvania itself, or through its agencies, has the power to subpoena any officer or employe of the Federal Government to compel him to bring books and records which deal with Federal matters, before a Committee of the Senate?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I believe that this Committee, if appointed by this Senate, will have the power to subpoena before it Mr. E. N. Jones and the other employes of the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania, and I believe that they will have that power because of the fact that upon the proper administration of the W. P . A. depends the amount of money that we must take from the taxpayers of Pennsylvania to care for direct relief, because insofar as the Works Progress Administration functions properly, just to that extent is Pennsylvania and her taxpayers relieved from that much tax, and just so far as the Works Progress Administration is improperly administered just so far as it is run as a political machine, just so far as they make appointments on the basis of whether a man is a ward leader, or a precinct leader, instead of on the basis of merit, just to that extent it requires more money from the taxpayers of Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, I cannot believe, in answer to the interrogation, that Mr. E. N. Jones, or anybody else in this administration, who profess such a great interest in our people, are unwilling to come before a Committee of this Senate and lay the facts before us, so we will have them. If these charges are true, the people are entitled to know, and if they are not true, as my colleague from Dauphin has well stated, they ought to welcome the opportunity of proving the lack of truth.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I still feel that I should have an answer to my question. I am not interested in whether or not a man must have the confirmation or approval of the ward leaders to get a job.

That is nothing new to me, I have been in politics twenty-five years. I have listened to Republicans telling Democrats what to do, and Democrats telling Republicans what to do, it is nothing new. There always was and there always will be politics in appointments. I am not concerned about the direct relief in politics, because I read from the report signed by Senators; "The administration and distribution of direct relief have been relatively free from politics due in a large measure to the high character of the men chosen as executive directors of the S. E. R. B. The two men referred to are Mr. Johnson and Mr. de Schweinitz. I am not concerned with the fact that this is an effort to find out something which will enable us to determine how much money is necessary for direct relief in Pennsylvania. I repeat my question to the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, by asking it in this form: Is it not true that Mr. Jones is an employed officer of the Federal Government, appointed by the Federal Government?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to reply to that and interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I will be glad to.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, is it not true that Mr. E. N. Jones was designated by Mr. Joseph F. Guffey, United States Senator from Pennsylvania, as the head of the Works Progress Administration in Pennsylvania?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I have never had any conversation with the gentleman, so I could not say, and, therefore, would not undertake to say, what he did or did not do, but you know, however, that even in the Republican times, the Senators not only suggested who should be appointed to Federal offices, but also to the office of the Judiciary of the United States.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to ask further if it is not a fact that Mr. Joseph F. Guffey is one important factor in the Democratic Administration in Pennsylvania?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I was under the impression that the Republicans did not think he was of any importance at all.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to ask further if it is not a fact that this Administration has asked the Legislature of Pennsylvania to levy upon the people of our State some $80,000,000 of new taxes, 70% of which is to go for the relief of the unemployed, and that at the same time have been operating the same organization asking for lower taxes, and I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, if it is not a fact that the same organization has been conducting the affairs of the Works Progress Administration through Mr. E. N. Jones.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in answer to that—of course, I hope the Senator from Tioga will not sit down until he has answered my question—I am answering his to help him answer mine. According to the reports I have been reading from, this SERB has been functioning independently and to the satisfaction of the people, except instead of having nine per cent overhead, they should have a six per cent overhead. A further answer to that question, is that it has not only been said by the Governor of this State, but also by an impartial Committee an investigation has been made which satisfies me, until other facts to the contrary are produced that there will be at least $75,000,000 needed to carry through the work of the Relief Board until the end of January, 1937. I have also heard from Republicans that there will be $43,000,000 needed, provided that the Federal Government gives $30,000,000, but that does not answer my question, which is, is Mr. Jones an appointed officer of the Federal Government, or of the State?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is much closer to the Democratic Administration than I am. I have very few contacts with that Administration.

I do want to call the Senator's attention, however, to one further matter, at the risk of taking a little more time on this. It has been charged by my various colleagues on the left that the WPA administers solely Federal money. I think everyone in this room knows that the WPA spends no Federal money for anything but labor, the materials all furnished by the sponsors of projects.

I have before me a communication from my colleague, Dr. Woodward, of Philadelphia, he calls attention to the fact right now is a WPA project, known as Project No. 11-4997, in Fairmount Park. That project is spending—there is being spent on that project by WPA—$3085.95, contributed by the City of Philadelphia, and that is being spent by the Works Progress Administration. It happens in this case, that through the generosity of Dr. Woodward, who has contributed to the City of Philadelphia, as he is interested in this Fairmount Park Project, the money—and the City is, in turn, contributing that amount to this project; but the fact remains that under those facts here is the WPA spending a Pennsylvanian's money along with the Federal money on this project.

Now, I say, members of this Senate, that we have a right, and it is our duty as Senators, when we are called upon to appropriate money and levy taxes, to investigate as to how this money is to be spent, the money of our own people here in Pennsylvania, and that is the purpose of this resolution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I still insist, I am entitled as a member of this Senate to have the sponsor of this resolution, for myself as well as for the other Senators, an answer to my question, whether or not he believes, as a lawyer, in view of the constitutional provision that no State can pass any law, nor can in any wise interfere with governmental functions, whether he will state as a lawyer, that this Senate has any rights and powers over the officers and employes of the Federal Government, such as will enable them to issue subpoenas and get information which they say is necessary for the purpose of answering the questions before the Senate.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I thought I made my answer clear. I believe that the Senate of Pennsylvania has the right to create an investigating committee and subpoena employes of the WPA before it and demand the production of books and papers, because upon the administration of that project depends the amount of money that we must have from the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am satisfied to have the Senator from Tioga on record with that answer.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. LAW. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, state whether he proposes a recess of the Session of this Senate for any period of time to permit this Committee to function and obtain the necessary information on which to base the taxes?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, of course, a recess is granted by the whole Senate and that would be a matter for the Senate to pass upon. So far as I am concerned, I would feel that it would be our duty to commence functioning immediately. Does that answer the Senator's question?

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Tioga, whether he proposes then to hold meetings of this Committee during the session of the Senate and to have the Senate remain in session during the entire lengthy investigation?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I repeat again that is a matter for the Senate to determine and not I.

MOTION TO LAY ON THE TABLE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I now move that this resolution be laid on the table until the Senator from Tioga finds out whether Mr. Jones is a Federal or State employee.

The PRESIDENT. The motion has not been seconded.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I do not think I should sit here and withhold any information from the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson. He asked the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Reed, if he would prefer to take the word of the Wall Street Journal in preference to that of a citizen from Pennsylvania. Probably the Senator from Centre County will take my word that within the last two or three months a foreman working for the WPA took between eighteen and twenty-five men to our registration bureau in our county seat in a group and insisted that they change their registration to the Democratic Party from the Republican Party. If the gentleman would like to have any further proof, I could introduce him to people in our county who have reliable information and will be glad to confirm what I have told him. This is not the only instance of the kind which has happened in our county, I believe it has happened a number of times.

When the Republican group of this Senate endeavors to seek information concerning the amount of relief necessary, an effort is always made by our Democratic friends to make a joke out of the resolution. This was very forcibly brought to the attention of the Senate tonight when the Senator from Mercer, Mr. Law, attempted to amend the resolution offered by the Senator from Tioga. The Republicans of this body are seriously minded. We must have information before we can arrive at the amount of money necessary to relieve distress in our State. This resolution is only an effort to do that and nothing more. There must be something else in the minds of our Democratic friends here tonight when they so strenuously opposed this resolution, which is only for information. Later in the Session, no doubt, if this resolution passes, we will know why we have this opposition tonight.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I know from the remarks of the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, that the W. P. A. foreman referred to in Delaware County was not accused of exercising any undue influence over the twenty-five men he took to the polls, or to the registrar, when they changed their politics. Even if that had occurred, I am quite sure that the Senator from Delaware County will agree with me that that W. P. A. foreman had had a different kind of precedent in exercising his political activities in Delaware County than he would have had in most counties in Pennsylvania.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I am opposing this resolution because I do not think it is offered in good faith. I am glad, however, to realize that our good Republican friends who have lived in machine politics all their lives are now seeing the light and become abhorred at anything that smacks at politics. Most of them have lived under Penrose, but there was no machine politics under dear old Penrose, I am sure, and yet now, when the people of the United States have elected the President, Congress and the Senate Democratic, and they have passed laws, and because they are not liked by some of our reformed Republicans of the "old guard" leaders in Pennsylvania, they are up in arms. I feel that our Federal Government has been very fair with Pennsylvania in the Emergency Relief in Pennsylvania. It has benefited under this Democratic administration in the Nation and State, and it was amusing here tonight to hear Senator Owlett saying that the Emergency Relief is being managed all right by Republicans—and there was a hint—and I think he said so in so many words, that if the W. P. A. in Pennsylvania was turned over to Pinchot Republicans, and if they were handling the Emergency Relief, it would be all right, perfectly all right; but as a matter of fact the people of the United States have voted the Republicans out in the United States and in Pennsylvania, and I think that our Governor has been extremely fair in allotting money furnished by a Democratic Congress, Senate and President to this State to be administered by Republicans, I know Penrose would never have done that—and the W. P. A. Act provides that ten per cent. of the administrators and the supervisors do not have to be taken off relief, and it is perfectly fair and honorable that our Administration should have the right to pick a few men to administer the W. P. A. in Pennsylvania. I cannot see anything wrong in it. The Republican Party has done it all its life, and when they were in power they never gave a Democrat a job. They saw to it that every man on the payroll was a good Republican. Do you know that in our State Administration today in Pennsylvania, although there is a Democratic Governor in Pennsylvania, and so far as the Governor is concerned, the appointive power, and yet today, under the Democratic rule, half the men on our payrolls in Pennsylvania today are Republicans, yes, I would say half. So that we have this condition: In the Emergency Relief in Pennsylvania today we have a State Government manned by Republicans, at least to a half. Now, you certainly ought to be fair enough to leave a few administrative positions for the Democratic Party, and I say to you that the people are satisfied with just what the Democratic Party is doing in the State and Nation. The registrations show it and the primaries show it in every State of this Union, so when we are pleasing the people so thoroughly, why not go on as we are doing, and instead of beclouding the issue by a resolution that we know is not intended to seek any sort of information.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, The Senator has spoken of Penrose and machine politics, etc. Does the Senator consider W. P. A. workers a political appointment?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, not at all, if they are taken off the relief rolls, and I want to say to you that I firmly believe that it is perfectly fair, it is managed in a perfectly honest manner, and there is nobody taken off the relief rolls except in a fair, impartial and non-political manner.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. THOMPSON (Centre). Mr. President, does the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, by contributing in excess of the sum of three thousand dollars towards a W. P. A. project, mean thereby to put the stamp of approval upon the Works Progress Administration?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, in my neighborhood I have no criticism to offer about the W. P. A. operation. It is not contributed as a matter of criticism.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, if he considers this money that the W. P. A. is spending is Mr. Roosevelt's money (Democratic) money, or whether ten per cent. does not come from Pennsylvania?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, Oh, no; I am very glad to admit that the money is not the Senator's money nor the President's, it is just a plain ordinary man's money. Of course, I will admit that the Democrats in power have milked a lot more money out of the "powers that be," and for that reason there is a lot more to spend.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator if it is not a fact that he held a position in Allegheny County under a Republican Administration.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, yes, I was Assistant County Solicitor of Allegheny County, but in those days they elected a Democratic Commissioner and two Republican Commissioners, and they were so eager to get in that they fell out, and one of the Republican Commissioners became a Democrat and went along with our Democratic Commissioner, and out of five or six candidates for Solicitor, they picked one Democratic Solicitor and I happened to be the lucky one.

Mr. KAHLE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. KAHLE. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator why does this resolution call for an investigation of W. P. A. only? Why does it not also ask for an investigation of the Relief Board?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I am sure that the Republican members of this Senate would be glad to vote for such a resolution also, if the Senator desires to introduce one. This resolution has to do with the W. P. A.; it has nothing to do with the S. E. R. B. I for one would be glad to vote for an investigation of the S. E. R. B. too.

Mr. KAHLE. Mr. President, the reason I asked this question is this: that the Relief Board that is in power today in Clarion County is composed of eleven Republicans and one Democrat. Now, we Democrats have abided by that in Clarion County and have not caused a great deal of disturbance. We are willing to go along and we have not asked for changes and so on, and are glad to go along, and here it seems the Senators are satisfied with a set-up of that kind, the set-up when Pinchot was in power, when he was Governor, and today they want to investigate the W. P. A. only, and I am going to vote against it for the reason that it does not investigate both.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and Mr. REED (Dauphin) and were as follows, viz:

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. REED (Washington). Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to read a bill in place at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section one, article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO ENACT LEGISLATION PROHIBITING EMPLOYES FROM ENGAGING IN POLITICS.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. ARON offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate, May 18, 1936.

Whereas, Many allegations are being made in the press that Federal employes are actively engaging in politics through political clubs, by canvassing and soliciting voters, and by acting as watchers at the polls; and

Whereas, All persons employed by the Works Progress Administration are Federal employes who have been given work because they are without means of support, and should not be required to surrender their political freedom in order to secure this type of work; and

Whereas, The Honorable John B. Kelly, Secretary of Revenue of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is quoted, by the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin of April 29, 1936, in commenting on the victory of Congressman Michael Stack in his fight for renomination, as having said:

"Added to this, he got 1200 WPA jobs for his people in the last two months. We didn't know he was going to free lance it until he had a good start on us."

Whereas, This reputed statement implies that these 1200 WPA workers were used for political purposes; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania respectfully memorializes Congress of the United States to enact legislation, as soon as may be, prohibiting Federal employes, who are working on United States relief projects, from engaging in politics or being used for political purposes, and prohibiting them from being members of political clubs or from canvassing or soliciting voters or acting as watchers at election polls;

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Senate and to the House of Representatives of the United States by the Chief Clerk of the Senate.

Mr. ARON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39 which requires concurrent resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. ROBERTS. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objections.

The Resolution is referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

AUTHORIZING THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE RELIEF

Mr. REED (Washington). Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. REED offered the following resolution which was twice read:

Whereas, it is a matter of general knowledge that there are many worthy men, women and children in Pennsylvania, through necessity, on relief in this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, a Special Session of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been called for the purpose of providing needed funds for the care of these unfortunate men, women and children now on relief in Pennsylvania, and

Whereas, in compliance with the call of the Governor for such Special Session, the members of this Senate have now been in session for upwards of three weeks without giving the people of Pennsylvania any noticeable constructive results; and

Whereas, it appears that it will be for the interest and welfare of all the people of Pennsylvania, that prompt and efficient action be taken to complete the purposes of the call of the Governor;

Now, therefore, be it Resolved; that in order to promptly effectuate the purposes of the call of the Governor so that the worthy unfortunate men, women and children, shall be provided for, without being subjected to any further political bickering whatever, the President of this Senate at once appoint a committee of five members thereof, three of whom shall be Republicans and two of whom shall be Democrats, which committee shall at once consider the subject of relief and determine the minimum amount required to finance relief in Pennsylvania for the period ending January 31, 1937, and upon arriving at the sum required to outline and suggest a program of taxation to provide such necessary funds, under its program, and thereafter immediately report its findings to this Senate.

Mr. REED (Washington). Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39 which requires concurrent resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. ZIESENHEIM. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

The Resolution is referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, May 18, 1936

The House met at 9:00 P. M.
The SPEAKER (Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Reverend P. F. McGee, Rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Harrisburg, Pa., offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, bless this session and these representatives of the people here assembled. Give them wisdom in their deliberations, that they may act according to enlightened reasoning. Give them understanding, that they may see and act for the common good of all. In their interpretation and enactment of law may they always be guided by the Supreme Law of Thy Commandment which assures justice and peace and happiness to all who dwell within the confines of this great Commonwealth. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Thursday, May 14, 1936.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Thursday, May 14. 1936.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further reading be dispensed with and the Journal be approved.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to oppose this motion. I realize that it is a very unusual procedure but it is certainly not more unusual that the procedure that we had in this House last Thursday, and I rise at this time upon this motion to discuss what happened in this House, because in my opinion the Journal does not truly represent what did happen, and the proper time to discuss it is when we have before us a motion to approve the Journal.

The Journal shows on page 164 that I rose and asked permission to make a statement, was granted that consent, and made the statement. It then shows on page 165 at the conclusion of my remarks that I stated: "Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I suggest the absence of a quorum, and I move a call of the House." I repeat those last words that I read from the printed Journal,—" "And I move a call of the House."

I not only suggested the absence of a quorum, but I moved that a call be made. The Speaker then directed the Clerk to make a poll without calling the roll, and the Clerk announced that there was a certain number in excess of a quorum present. I then rose to make the point that we were entitled to a roll call on a call of the House. The words that I used, Mr. Speaker, as shown by the Journal, are: "Mr. Speaker, I ask that the call of the House be made by roll call." Then the Speaker ruled that I was too late in asking for the roll call.

The point which I wish to make is it was not necessary for me to ask for a roll call after I had moved that a call of the House be made.

In support of that I want to call the attention of the House to the House rules and the decisions thereon.

House Rule No. 11 provides as follows:

"If, at any time during the session of the House, a question shall be raised by a member as to the presence of a quorum, and it shall be shown that a quorum is not present it shall be the duty of the Speaker to announce the result of the roll call and note the absentees, after which the absentees shall be again called."

The rest of the rule is not pertinent for the purposes I have in mind at this time. It has been suggested by those who support the ruling of the Speaker that because it was not shown that a quorum was not present, it was not the duty of the Speaker to announce the result of the roll call and note the absentees, but I would like to inquire how you are going to announce the result of a roll call if there wasn't any roll call, how are you going to note the absentees if there wasn't any roll call.

The rule does not say that if it shall not be shown that a quorum is not present that then the roll shall be called and the result of the roll call announced, but it promptly says that the result of the roll call shall be announced. You could not announce what we did not have. So, I submit that on that showing alone it would be sufficient to justify the point which I made.

But further, in support of that, I call attention that if this rule is not clear on the question of how the call is to be made that in the preceding rule dealing with the question of a quorum, it says that the roll of the members shall be called by the Clerk.

I also call the attention of the members to the decisions of the House, as reported in the official publication "Rules and Decisions on Points of Order," page 72, Decision No. 60: "The Speaker decided that when a call of the House is made, and a quorum appears to be present, it is the duty of the Speaker to order the vote to be again taken. The House sustained the decision." I ask you how you can again take the vote if you haven't called the roll.

Taking Decision No. 61, "Under a question of information concerning members not answering to a call of the House when present in the House, the point of order was raised that when a session of the House was called and a member is present when the roll is called to ascertain the presence of a quorum, that gentleman should be reported whether he votes or not."

Both of those decisions clearly indicate that the intent of the rule was that the roll shall be called, and I submit that the term, "Call of the House" means that you call all the names of the members of the House and give them a chance to answer it.

But I am willing to support this argument still further. Rule 89 of this House reads:

"The rules of parliamentary practice comprised in Jefferson's Manual shall govern the House in all cases to which they are applicable, and in which they are not inconsistent with the standing rules of the House."

There is certainly nothing in the standing rules of the House which says that the roll shall not be called when a call of the House is asked for.

I believe that I am justified in stating that Jefferson's Manual would cover the matter when the rule is in point. If you will turn to Jefferson's Manual, in the official publication put out by Congress, Section VII, Paragraph 304, page 121, we find "On the call of the House, each person rises up as he is called, and answereth; the absentees are then only noted, but no excuse to be made till the House be fully called over. Then the absentees are called a second time, and if still absent, excuses are to be heard."

Mr. Speaker, I submit that that rule is clear and unmistakable, that a call of the House means that the members' names shall be called and the members given an opportunity to answer, and that was not done. In addition, I not only suggested the absence of a quorum, I not only asked that a call of the House be made,—I made a motion,—I believe under Rule 11 it was not necessary for me to make a motion—and if the Speaker had proceeded to direct that a call of the House be made in the manner in which the rules clearly indicate, namely by roll call, it would not have been necessary to put the motion, but if he was not going to do that he certainly was bound to recognize the motion and submit it to the membership of the House. It was the duty of the Speaker first to direct that the call be made, and if he failed to do that, to put the question on the motion.

I again refer to Jefferson's Manual, Section 3, Paragraph 297, page 117, wherein it states: "It is a breach of order for the Speaker to refuse to put a question which is in order."

I submit that the question was in order and that it was a breach of procedure not to put the question as it was made. But, Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, that is only the beginning of what happened here last Thursday. When I rose and asked in a respectful voice to be recognized by the Chair, in a voice which I believe was heard by the Speaker,—I do not believe that the Speaker will stand up to-night and contend that he did not hear me, although the majority floor leader several times suggested that that would be a possible explanation of why I was not recognized, but I doubt seriously if the Speaker will take that position because I think that the members of the House who were here will all agree that my voice was loud enough to be heard, as I not only addressed myself from my desk but I walked to the microphone and used that in an effort to make sure that I would be heard. I stated that I was rising to a point of order. Now, I submit for the Speaker to refuse to recognize me on a point of order was indeed a very serious breach of parliamentary procedure, because if that is the rule, why then, there is no way whatever to protect the rights of members, and, through them, the rights of their constituents. Each and every member of this House is entitled to be heard when he rises to address the Chair, unless someone else is addressing the House at the same time, and then it is the duty of the Speaker to decide which one is entitled to recognition. But I submit that for some moments after I asked for recognition, no one else did.

Again I refer to Jefferson's Manual, Paragraph 348, page 144, which provides as follows: "When a member stands up to speak, no question is to be put, but he is to be heard unless the House overrules him."

To be sure, the majority have a right to take parliamentary steps to suppress a nuisance, and if the majority of this House decided that the person who is now addressing them constituted a nuisance and deserved to be suppressed, there are parliamentary methods to doing it. But, there is a difference between doing it by parliamentary methods, and by using a steam roller, and refusing to recognize a member who rises to make a point of order. Instead of recognizing me they proceeded to go right straight through the first reading calendar. I want to call to the attention of the members of the House that I wanted to raise not only one but several points of order. The first point of order was one which I have already stated, namely that a call of the House must be by a roll call. There is no authority in the rules for a count by the Clerk. If that point or order had been recognized, under Decision 160, again referring to the official decisions of this House, I had a right to discuss that point of order and to state my reason for it.

Decision 160 reads:

"A point of order having been raised that amendments to a bill were unconstitutional and was being debated when another point of order was raised that the gentleman is debating the point of order which he has raised and therefore is out of order until the Chair has given his decision. The Speaker decided the point of order not well taken as a gentleman has a right to give his reasons for raising a point of order and refer to authorities."

I was denied recognition to state the point of order. So, of course, I had no opportunity to state my reasons in support of it.

A further point of order which I certainly would have raised on the question of first reading bills was that the bills were not on the desks of the members. I ask you, members of the House, how are we to know that the bills are printed if they are not on our desks, and recognition is refused to a member to raise a point of order that they are not on the desks and that they are not printed. This is a very definite violation of the rules of this House. House Rule No. 35 definitely provides for this situation. It reads: "No bill shall be considered unless referred to a committee, returned therefrom and printed for the use of the members, as required by the Constitution."

Article 3, Section 2 of our Constitution, which after all, I believe is the supreme law of this Commonwealth, very definitely provides that no bills shall be considered, unless referred to a committee, returned therefrom, and printed for the use of the members. They make answer that they were printed, but I ask you, members of the House, how are we going to know that they are printed if they are not before us and the members are denied recognition to raise a point of order,—how are we to find out. If that procedure is to be permitted, I submit that there is nothing to stop the majority of this House from riding rough shod over all the rights of the minority, and proceeding to force bills contrary to the Constitution, contrary to the laws of the Commonwealth, and contrary to the rules of this House. The only protection that the members of this House have is having a point of order raised and properly answered by the Speaker. If we are denied that right, there is nothing to stop the majority from riding rough shod over all the rights of the members.

I could have raised another point of order, one which is never used, but which I believe to be perfectly sound. There are no practical reasons why in most cases by unanimous consent it is not carried out, but when a question of the violation of the rights of members is involved, I submit that the Constitution clearly provides that the bill shall be read at length. The bills were not so read and I was denied the right to raise a point of order, and that question is a violation of the rights of the members of this House. If we permit such procedure to go unchallenged then we are inviting the majority to ignore the rights of the minority. I believe, at least I have understood, that the majority of this House have a great deal of respect for Thomas Jefferson. In fact, he is referred to as the patron saint of the Democratic party. Thomas Jefferson wrote a publication known as Jefferson's Manual.

It was prepared by him for his own guidance as President of the United States Senate during his term as Vice-President, and it is so good that it is still recognized as the standard authority on parliamentary procedure, and is recognized in Rule 89 of this House as the guide to be followed in matters not covered by our rules.

I want to read Section one of this work. Mr. Jefferson starts out by quoting from Mr. Onslow, whom he refers to as the ablest among the speakers of the House of Commons. He "used to say, 'it was a maxim that he had often heard when he was a young man, from old and experienced members, that nothing tended more to throw power into the hands of administration, and those who acted with the majority of the House of Commons, than a neglect of, or departure from, the rules of proceeding; that these forms, as instituted by our ancestors, operated as a check and control on the actions of the majority, and that they were, in many instances, a shelter and protection to the minority, against the attempts of power.'"

That is the end of the quotation from Mr. Onslow. I continue with Mr. Jefferson's words, and I appeal to the Democratic members of the House to pay close attention to what their patron saint has to say: "So far the maxim is certainly true, and is founded in good sense, that as it is always in the power of the majority, by their numbers, to stop any improper measures proposed on the part of their opponents, the only weapons by which the minority can defend themselves against similar attempts from those in power are the forms and rules of proceeding which have been adopted as they were found necessary, from time to time, and are become the law of the House, by a strict adherence to which the weaker party can only be protected from those irregularities and abuses which these forms were intended to check, and which the wantonness of power is too often apt to suggest to large and successful majorities.

"And whether these forms be in all cases the most rational or not is really not of so great importance. It is much more material that there should be a rule to go by than what that rule is; that there may be a uniformity of proceeding in business not subject to the caprice of the Speaker or captiousness of the members. It is very material that order, decency, and regularity be preserved in a dignified public body."

There is very little that I can add to Mr. Jefferson's words on that most important subject. He covers it very fully and very much to the point. I submit that if the minority in this House, and I now address myself to the minority, that if the minority in this House is to be protected from steam roller methods, the time to do it is now, before it goes any further. If a minority of one can be steam rollered in violation of the rules of the House, in the way that it was done here last Thursday, I submit that there is nothing to stop them from steam rollering in a similar manner a minority of ninety. If that sort of tactics is to be justified and upheld in this House, then we cease to be a parliamentary body.

I believe in democracy spelled with a small "d;" I believe in the principles of representative government, and I believe that it is fundamental that each and every member of this House has a right to the floor, to be recognized to raise a point of order, to state his reasons for raising it, and to have that point of order ruled upon by the Speaker. If that rule is not to be carried out, then there is no limit to what we can do. Our forefathers bled and died for rights such as those.

Patrick Henry said: "Give me Liberty or give me Death." We wouldn't have any liberty in this House of Representatives if that sort of tactics is to be carried out.

I want to go just a little bit further. I have heard it charged that certain actions of the Democratic Federal Administration in concentrating power in the Executive was a tendency towards Fascism. Some of us have looked with considerable alarm upon the conduct of another Democrat down in Louisiana, but in the words of Sinclair Lewis, "We thought it cannot happen here," but unfortunately last Thursday a dictatorship was set up in this House of Representatives. If we are going to tolerate that sort of procedure I submit that we will not long be a House of Representatives. We will be merely a House of rubber stamps.

Perhaps, after all, the Democratic majority are not Jeffersonians. It is certainly quite obvious that they are not acquainted with Jefferson's Manual of parliamentary procedure. Perhaps, after viewing their attitude towards the spoils system and Jackson Day dinners, they are Jacksonians rather than Jeffersonians.

I submit to the members of this House that the issue before us here to-night is whether we are going to have a government of rules, a government of laws, from laws and rules which have been fixed by the House, and which we know in advance what they are, or whether we are going to be governed by the capricious decisions of the majority or of the Speaker. That is the issue before us. That is a vital issue. I beg you to so consider it and not to ignore the question merely because it happens to be raised by a Socialist minority of one. I submit to you that this is an issue that goes to the very fundamental liberties of the American people, and the rights of their represntatives to be heard on the floor of this House. If we are to overrule that right, then we might as well abolish the House and set up a dictatorship in name as well as in theory. I do not believe in that; I do not want that; I want to continue that Democratic-Republican form; I do not want a dictatorship. Therefore, I appeal to the members of this House not to approve the Journal in the form in which it is, because it does not set forth what happened here the other night or the other afternoon in anything like correct detail. It does not show what was done to the rights of the minority in the proceedings of this House at that time, and now is our chance and opportunity to refuse to approve these proceedings here and now. If we approve them, then at any future time that question may be raiesd, and somebody is likely to rise to a point of order and say, "Well, you approved it a few minutes ago or last week, and you have no right now to change it."

I submit that we should not only vote against the motion to approve the Journal of this House, but we should take steps to vacate all the proceedings on first reading bills last Thursday, for the reason that they were unconstitutionally considered, and that they were not printed and before us, as required by the Constitution, that we did not have a chance to raise a point of order on the method of procedure.

For these reasons I feel that this thing is important, and I am urging it upon you, so that you will consider it, that you will take steps to see to it that this mistake is corrected, and to the majority of this House, in closing, I want to say one thing more. I think you want those bills which were passed on first reading to stand the test in the Courts. You certainly do not want them to be brought before the Courts and to have them thrown out on a technicality that they were not properly considered in this House. I submit, in view of the fact that that question has been raised on the floor of this House, that there is a very good chance that that question might be raised, and the proper thing for us to do is to vacate those proceedings as to first reading bills last Thursday, which will put these bills back on first reading, then we can repass them and there will be no question about their constitutionality on that score.

I appeal to the members of the House to consider this question as one of the most weighty matters that has appeared before this body in many years, certainly the most important that has appeared before it at this session, and to vote that this Journal be not approved, and, Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is firmly of the opinion that the conduct of this House at last Thursday's session relative to the procedure on first reading bills was in strict accordance with the provisions of the Constitution and the rules of the House.

Jefferson's Manual, quoting from Hind's precedents of Congress, states "That the Chair may determine the presence of a quorum in such manner as he deems accurate and suitable when no record vote is ordered. If the absence of a quorum had been disclosed, a quorum of record would have been required before the House could proceed to business.

Rule 19 of the House provides that all bills are printed on pink paper for the use of the Members as soon as introduced.

Article III, Section 2 of the Constitution reads as follows: "No bill shall be considered unless referred to a committee returned therefrom, and printed for the use of the Members."

A question of order was raised in this House in the session of 1911 that there were no calendars or bills in the desks of the Members; therefore legislative business could not be conducted. The House itself decided the point of order not well taken.

Rule 43 of the House provides: When bills on first reading are in order, the Speaker shall take up the calendar and announce each bill in its order, which he did.

It has been the practice of the House, as it should be, not to consider bills on second reading, third reading or final passage until they are on the desks of the Members, but never so far as we are able to learn has this question been raised on first reading bills.

Every member knowns bills have been frequently read for the first time when they have been printed only in pink and were not on file.

The facts are every bill on Thursday on the first reading calendar was printed both in pink and in white. They were all on the floor of this House, ready for filing. The reason why they were not filed was that two or three bills did not reach the sergeant-at-arms room until about the time we were ready to convene, which made it impossible to pick complete sets to place in the members' files.

The Chair is unable to find any rule of the House or constitutional provision which has been violated by reason of the bills on the first reading calendar of Thursday, May 14th, being passed before they were placed in the files of the members.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House, it is not my intention to become involved in this debate; in fact, it is just the opposite. I would like to say in a spirit of complete friendliness for my friend, the gentleman from Berks, it is my opinion that he should not be too harsh upon the majority party of this House, particularly so when he bears in mind that the head of the Democratic party was kind enough to voluntarily put aside the platform of the Democratic party, and adopt the one sponsored by the party that the honorable genleman from Berks has the honor to represent in this House.

The SPEAKER. Is the call for the roll call seconded?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I second the call.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WITKIN. Will the Speaker please state the question.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the approval of the Journal of last Thursday's session. Those voting aye vote to approve the Journal; those voting nay vote for disapproval.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HOOPES and Mr. COHEN and were as follows:

RESOLUTIONS

SYMPATHY EXTENDED ON DEATH OF HON. A. MITCHELL PALMER

Mr. ACHTERMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

In the House of Representatives, May 18, 1936.

Pennsylvania has lost a distinguished citizen in the death of Honorable A. Mitchell Palmer. He represented his district and this Commonwealth in Congress of the United States, was Attorney General of the United States during the administration of President Woodrow Wilson, alien property custodian during the World War period, and a leader in his political party.

In his public career he served the people of his community and the State and Nation with distinction and his passing leaves a void that must remain unfilled, therefore be it

Resolved, That this House extend its profound sympathy to the members of the family of Honorable A. Mitchell Palmer; that this resolution be spread upon the Legislative Journal; and that a copy be sent to the family of the Honorable A. Mitchell Palmer by the Chief Clerk of this House.

RESOLUTION No. 9

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 9, Printer's No. 50.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

Whereas, Under House Resolution No. 110, Serial No. 142, Printer's No. 502, a Joint Committee to Investigate the Distribution of Public Relief throughout the Commonwealth was duly appointed at the last regular session of this General Assembly; and

Whereas, In compliance with the said joint resolution, three members of the Senate and three members of the House were appointed to the said Joint Committee; and

Whereas, The said Joint Committee held certain meetings and directed certain investigations; and

Whereas, Three members of the Joint Committee signed a report of the Committee; and

Whereas, One of the three members of the Joint Committee signing the said report presented the report to the House of Representatives on Wednesday, May 6, 1936; and

Whereas, All of the members of the Joint Committee were not given a reasonable and fair opportuniiy to review the findings contained in the report before the report was submitted to the House of Representatives; and

Whereas, The report was released to the newspapers prior to the submission to the House of Representatives; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives disavows the highly unethical procedure associated with the submission of the said report and deems the said procedure as an unbecoming attempt to form a partisan and distorted view of a great humane problem confronting our people.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the subject matter of this resolution concerns the procedure that was followed in this House in submitting a report or a so-called report of a joint committee appointed at the regular session to investigate the administration of relief.

I introduced this resolution because I believe that the conduct of those who engineered the filing of the report was highly improper, not only in violation of the rules of this House, not only in contravention to the precedents of this House, but was entirely out of line with all sense of decency.

The Committee appointed at the last session:

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, under the rules of this House has no right to attack the integrity of any member of this House or any member of the Senate, and in making the statement that the filing of a report violated all rules of decency, he is violating the privilege accorded to him as a member of the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia yield for just a moment? The Chair is of the opinion that the gentleman has up to this point cast no personal reflections upon any member of this House or of the Senate, but he wishes to state to the gentleman that he must guard himself in any statements that he makes that might cast personal reflections upon members of either body.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the Speaker to direct the stenographer to repeat the statement just made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, being of the opinion that when it is repeated, the Speaker will of necessity come to the conclusion that the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia will impugn not only the integrity of the members of this House but also of the members of the Senate, when he says that it is a violation of the rules of decency.

I know, Mr. Speaker, of no imputation that is stronger against anyone than to accuse them of lack of decency. The gentleman from Philadelphia has directly stated "lack of decency" to a member of this House and to a member of the Senate. If that is not an imputation against the personal integrity of a member of the House or a member of the Senate, then I know of no comment that could possibly be an imputation or a personal reflection upon a member of the Senate or a member of the House.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I have no desire to be offensive or to violate the rules of this House, and I desire to amend or strike out the word "decency" and to substitute therefor the words "legislative propriety."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. BURKE. Members of the House, this legislative committee, immediately after it was organized, held several hearings in Harrisburg, one in Pittsburgh, and one in Philadelphia, and at those meetings the committee examined the officials of the Emergency Relief Board and the various county relief boards to find out how the relief organization operated in their particular cities.

The committee also employed an investigator who was to do some field work, and I suppose in the ordinary course of events bring his field work to the committee.

Now, during the year 1936, the committee did no work until about the seventeenth of April, at which time they heard several witnesses and at which time it was suggested that the committee should convene very shortly to receive some recommendations, to be submitted to this session of the Legislature. A meeting was called for April 24th, different matters touching upon the administration of relief were discussed, and also recommendations were discussed. At this meeting there was one matter of petty partisanship that was brought out, of which I never had any knowledge as a member of the committee, it was never brought to me, and I in fact attended every meeting but three, and when I suggested that these petty political matters be sricken from the record. no one, who was a member of the committee, seemed to have any knowledge thereof or to assume any responsibility for the authorship.

At the same meeting, when it was suggested that the committee should convene the week following to further study recommendations, I suggested that the committee defer any meetings until the first week of the session, at which time all of the members would be present and they could study the material which was brought to the committee. My suggestion was adopted, no member of the committee present dissented from that suggestion. I next received a letter on May first, which enclosed some recommendations, which were discussed, and the letter set forth that it would be wise for the committee to convene as early as possible and the day was set at May 4th, at 2:00 o'clock P. M., one-half an hour before the Democratic Party caucused, and I think that everybody had knowledge of the fact that the Democratic Party had called a caucus for 2:30 o'clock. So, I bent every effort to be present at 2:00 o'clock, and no member of the committee was there. On the evening of May 4th, I was advised by the Chairman that a meeting would be held on May 5th at 9:30, and that that time was convenient to the Republican senators. Well, the next morning I found myself tied up and I was unable to be present, but I was reliably informed that the five members present were asked to sign the report and that even some of the members, who later signed the report, temporarily refused to do so because—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia has no right to discuss that which took place in committee.

The SPEAKER. This is an instance where the proceedings of a committee have been reported to the House and is, therefore, a proper subject of debate.

The point of order is not well taken. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I was informed that some of the members of that joint committee at first refused to sign the report on the ground that they had not seen the material that was contained in the report. I was further advised that a copy of the report was not available for their inspection.

After the report was signed by three members of that committee, on May 5th, the next day, on the floor of this House, about six feet from where I now stand, about 10:30 in the morning, I was told that the report had to be filed on May 6th. It was filed very shortly after 10:30, and later, when I returned to Philadelphia. I was told why it had to be filed: Because there was given to the Evening Public Ledger on May 5th a copy of that report, which was never submitted to me for my signature, and the material contained in it, of which I had no knowledge, was read by the people of Philadelphia before I had a chance to see it. I think that the members of this House, be they Democrats, Republicans, or Socialists, should resent such action on the part of the committee, and I say that such conduct comes with ill grace from a party that lately asked for a public holiday, and then, in the very next breath, commits political prostitution.

Now, there is another phase to this report, which is of much more moment than any hurt that might be visited on me, and I discerned this fact after all the smoke of the preliminary report had cleared away.

When the members of this House in the last session voted to delegate to a committee of six the power to study the momentous problem of relief, you exercised a proper and legitimate legislative function. The members of this House properly realized that such a study would entail a great amount of time and that a committee, knowing the problem was important, should have some first hand, honest, impartial study made of the relief question, and I use those adjectives because they are contained in the original resolution.

An investigator was appointed to assist the committee, and I found out after the report was filed, as the result of investigations of my own, that this investigator had worked for the Auditor General until August 1st, 1935. I found out that he had received in the Auditor General's Department a salary of two thousand dollars a year. He got a leave of absence to work as an investigator for the committee and he was hired at the rate of three thousand dollars a year. There is one thousand dollars, members of this House, that would have supported thirty Pennsylvania families for one month. Now, I can say, honestly, that seventy-five percent of the material contained in that report never came before this committee. It was assembled by the investigator who was playing the part of Mr. Baldwin's boondoggler on whom a thousand dollar premium was placed so they could do a splendid political job.

I say to the members of this House, I say to the minority of this House, you may have your political fiddle to play but public money is not to be used to pay the fiddler, I ask every fair-minded member of this House—I do not appeal on the grounds of partisanship, but if you are fair, if you want the records of this House, if you want the minds of the members of this House set right on the conduct that should be observed, on the disposition that should exist between members, irrespective of their party, you must vote "aye" on this resolution.

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker, Resolution No. 9, introduced by Representatives Burke and Enroe, members of this House, provides, "that the House of Representatives disavows the highly unethical proceedure associated with the submission of the said report (referred to in the Resolution) and deems the said proceedure as an unbecoming attempt to form a partisan and distorted view of a great humane problem confronting our people."

This statement is based on the assertion embodied in the whereas clause, which says "All of the members of the Joint Committee were not given a reasonable and fair opportunity to review the findings contained in the report before the report was submitted to the House of Representatives."

This is a mis-statement of fact. The Chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee to Investiagte Unemployment Relief in Pennsylvania has endeavored at all times to keep all members of the Committee informed of factual evidence developed by the Committee's investigator. Reports of hearings and of field surveys were sent to members as rapidly as available facilities allowed.

The Committee's proceedure seemed to be perfectly agreeable to all members of the Committee up to the time when the State Emergency Relief Board saw fit to take $50,000 out of relief funds to finance the activities of a Citizen's Committee appointed by the Governor. From then on attendance of the members who did not sign the report were irregular and their interest lagged. It was even suggested by some of the members that the legislative committee should cease functioning.

Monthly meetings of the Committee were held during 1935. At the December 6th meeting the Committee suggested that further meetings of the Committee be postponed until such time as the Chairman saw fit to call it. With the Special Session in the offing a meeting of the Committee was called on April 17th. At this meeting a general outline of the Preliminary Report was discussed. Those present were Senators Ealy and Bean and Representative Burke and myself.

Another meeting of the Committee was called on April 24th, at which time the summary of the report was discussed. Changes in the summary were made at the suggestion of members present. Mr. Burke objected to references in the report to politics affecting relief. It was agreed to take out of the report and the summary, all references to names of political parties but not the evidence relative to political activity. At this meeting the Chairman pressed for another meeting of the Committee on May 1. The Committee decided to meet on May 4th, to close the report.

Present at this meeting were Senator Ealy and Representative Burke and myself. Senator Bean not being able to be present at the meeting arranged to review the report prior to the next meeting.

On May 1st, the following letter was sent to each member of the Committee:

"Dear Committee Member":

I am calling a meeting of the Joint Legislative Committee to investigate Public Relief in Pennsylvania, in Room 302, Capitol Building at 2 o'clock P. M. Standard time, Monday, May 4th, 1936.

This meeting is called to determine definitely the recommendations which the Committee desires to offer to the Special Session in a preliminary report.

The factual part of the report discussed at the last two meetings of the Committee is now being mimeographed for presentation to the Session by Wednesday, May 6th. The recommendations will be attached to the report.

If you cannot be present at this meeting, would you wire me at Palmyra, Pa., please?

I am enclosing a copy of the proposed recommendations discussed at our last Committee meeting.

Sincerely yours,

MILES HORST, Chairman."

In spite of this letter it was asserted by the two sponsors of this resolution in a newspaper release on May 6th, that "Joseph D. Burke, one of the Democratic members of the Committee, was given an explicit pledge, that the report would not be submitted until May 11th. That is contrary to fact.

The meeting on May 4th was recessed until 9:30 Tuesday morning, May 5th. Every member of the Committee was personally notified of this recess by the Chairman.

At the meeting on Tuesday morning, there were present Senators Ealy, Bean and Rodgers and Representatives Eroe and myself. The Committee began work on the recommendations at once. Senator Rodgers left the meeting at 10:30. Changes in the recommendations were suggested and embodied. At 12 noon the Committee recessed until 2 P. M. Only Senators Ealy and Bean and myself reported. Absent members were contacted but none of those who did not sign the report would appear. Three members present decided to close the report and present it to the Legislature as announced previously.

The Chairman apprised the members not signing the report of the action taken. An effort was made Tuesday evening to have these members file their own recommendations and embody them in the report, and for this purpose retained the Committee's office force until 10 P. M.

It was evident Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, that practically the entire concern of the members of the Committee who failed to sign the report was to block it and delay placing the information it contained before the General Assembly and the people of Pennsylvania. And they did this in spite of the fact that members of both sides of the House and Senate were calling for the report.

Now, Mr. Speaker, several assertions have come from the floor of this House relative to this report. It was stated that an investigator was appointed by this Committee when it started its work beginning August 1st. The fact of the matter is there were two investigators appointed. One was suggested by the Republican members of the committee and the committee asked the Democratic members of this committee to suggest another man, which they did, and he was promptly appointed. The salaries of these two men were fixed by the members of the committee, and if I recall correctly, the six members of the committee were present at that meeting.

Reference was also made to the striking out of petty political matters. It seems to me that a report of any investigating committee would have come to this house with poor grace after all the remarks that were heard on the floor of this House during the session of nineteen thirty-five. As you well remember, there were thirteen county investigating committees appointed to look into the matter of relief and relief administraton, and one of the most common criticisms that was heard was the critcism leveled against the then director, Mr. Johnson, on the ground that there was politics in relief.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, the contents of the report are not before this House. The resolution pertains to the procedure that was followed in the filing of the report.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has just ruled on that question and states that the gentleman is in order. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the statement was made that the report was signed by the Republican members because it was convenient for the Republican members to be there. I believe that every fair minded man on that committee will agree with me that throughout the time in which this committee was functioning, I went out of my way in all kinds and manners of means and ways to accommodate the members of that committee. I did not know that there was a Democratic caucus announced for Monday afternoon, when the notice was sent out. I did not know it until I read it in the papers a day or two later, and I then immediately made arrangements to recess the meeting of the committee on Monday afternoon and to call for a meeting on Tuesday morning at nine-thirty.

The statement has been made that members of the committee refused to sign the report. What occurred, to the best of my knowledge, is that no member refused to sign it but that the report was held back by the members refusing to attend the meeting or refusing to come anywhere near the committee rooms.

Now, then, I would like to say a word to you members of the House concerning the availability of this material, about which much has been said. There was not a single meeting of the committee where the material and all the material in that report, that was then prepared up to that point, was not available. We had two copies of the report on the table in the committee room, right around which the members of that committee sat at the meeting of April 17th, at the meeting of April 24th, and at the meeting of May 5th. It was available.

Mr. Burke has referred to the matter of the summary. We went through the summary, and if you will study the summary of that report you will find that every item of any consequence in that report is referred to in the summary. We went over that whole summary on that date of April 24th, and during the whole time there was a copy right there on the desk, to which any member of that committee could have referred at any time, but there was no question raised on the part of any member of the committee.

So, then, members of the House I submit that the conduct of this committee could not have been carried on in a fairer way than I tried to carry it on, and I ask you to vote down this resolution.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, may I first say to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, that where a report is filed by an investigating committee that those who disagree with that report have a perfect right, under the rules of the House, to file a minority or to file another report. So, when the gentleman from Philadelphia complains about this report being the will of only three members of the House and directs attention to the fact that he has failed to file another report concerning that which was investigated, his failure to file such a report must be looked at in the light of the facts.

Personally, I do not blame him for not filing another report, because as I read this report, he has the best reason in the whole world for not filing another one.

There are affidavits of record in this report, affidavits taken by responsible citizens of this State as to what transpired with respect to relief. I listened to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, and I marvelled at the fact that not once during his entire remarks did he say a single word imputing falsehood to those affidavits.

For example, when in this report they set forth some of the cases on relief and call the attention of the House and the Senate to those instances, they are backed up by affidavits. Mr. Burke does not dispute those affidavits; at least he hasn't disputed them. I defy him to dispute them. I defy him to file a report challenging the truthfulness of those statements. For your edification may I just refer to a few cases? Case number 3122 supported by affidavits—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York will state his point of order.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the question under discussion here is Resolution No. 50. In none of the whereas clauses is any attempt made on the part of the sponsor of the resolution in any way to delve into the facts and materials presented in the report. It is not a proper subject of discussion at this time.

Mr. SPEAKER. The report of the committee is not now before the House for discussion. It is merely the procedure involved in submitting this report. The Chair feels that the point of order is well taken, and the gentleman will confine his remarks to the resolution before the House.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I shall read from the resolution itself and then I will contradict that which is contained in the resolution.

The resolution, Mr. Speaker, on page two reads as follows:

"Resolved, That the House of Representatives disavows the highly unethical procedure associated with the submission of the said report and deems the said procedure as an unbecoming attempt to form a partisan and distorted view of a great humane problem confronting our people."

In order that the members of this House may know whether or not the report referred to in this resolution is distorted and in order that they may know whether or not those who signed the report presented a distorted view and to contradict the very words of the resolution, which is before this House, being now discussed and upon which liberty was granted to my friend from Philadelphia to speak thereupon, I want to say to the members of this House that the verbiage in this resolution is incorrect, because I say to you that the report is not a distorted view. It is not distorted because the report deals with particular cases, the particular cases being supported by particular affidavits. The report charges certain irregularities, it charges certain frauds, it charges certain commissions of acts by those in charge of relief, and they are supported by affidavits. As an example I shall refer to a few of the cases. I know that my friend from York, Mr. Cohen, is very anxious to keep out of the record at this time the particular cases, but when you charge us with distortion, the only way we can prove that there is no distortion is to give you the facts.

The affidavits which are contained in the report prove that in case number 3122, this man owned a home—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

Mr. SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point or order.

Mr. BURKE. First of all, Mr. Speaker, I would like to state my position—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

Mr. SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point or order.

Mr. WITKIN. The bentleman, in arising to a point of order, is not permitted to state his position. He must confine himself to stating his point of order.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, after the Chair made its ruling—

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a ruling on my point of order. The gentleman has not been recognized.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Burke, will state his point of order.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is discussing the factual material in the report and not the resolution.

I arise to a point of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SPEAKER. The Chair has already ruled that the report of the committee is not before the house for discussion. The point of order of the gentleman from Philadelphia is well taken.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of information.

Mr. SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of information.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the ruling of the Chair to be that I cannot contradict by reference to the report itself the statements contained in the resolution, which we are now considering and which refers to a distorted view of a great humane problem confronting our people, "and am I not permitted to refer to that very clause and to dispute the correctness thereof in order that the House, in voting upon this resolution, may have before it all the facts so as to determine whether or not the report is distorted or whether it speaks the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, the Chair wishes to read the last resolved clause in the resolution:

Resolved That the House of Representatives disavows the highly unethical procedure associated with the submission of the said report and deems the said procedure as an unbecoming attempt to form a partisan and distorted view of a great humane problem confronting our people

The question involved in the resolution is the procedure; the procedure of the committee and not the report of the committee. The gentleman will proceed.

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF CHAIR

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I appeal from the decision of the Chair.

The SPEAKER. Is the appeal seconded?

Mr. TURNER. I second the appeal.

The SPEAKER. The appeal has been seconded by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews to take the Chair.

MR. ANDREWS IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkins, please come up to the desk?

On the question,

Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the decision of the House?

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF CHAIR WITHDRAWN

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, as a result of an arrangement entered into at the Speaker's desk, I withdraw my appeal from the decision of the Chair.

The SPEAKER (Roy E. Furman) in the Chair.

RESOLUTION TABLED

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the resolution be laid on the table for the purpose of amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTION No. 5

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 5, Printer's No. 47.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 13, 1936.

Whereas The cast of transportation of pupils to the school districts in Allegheny County is matter of grave concern to its citizens; and it is believed that it is far greater than the circumstances required; therefore be it

Resolved (If the Senate concur), That the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania is hereby requested to make an investigation, through its existing facilities, with the view of ascertaining whether, on the basis of valuation and income, or on any other basis, the street railway companies operating in Allegheny County may be required to issue tickets for school pupils only, at a rate not to exceed twenty-five cents (25 cents) per week.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION

Mr. McCREARY offered a resolution and asked unanimous consent for its immediate reading for the information of the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent for the immediate reading of the resolution for the information of the House? Are there objections?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I object to the reading of the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, it has been the custom in this House during this session when a resolution is introduced that it be read for the information of the House, and then objection can be made to its consideration. This is the first time that I recall in this House that a gentleman who introduces a resolution can not have it read for the information of the House. It seems to me that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, ought to permit the resolution to be read and then if he objects to its consideration at this time, it is entirely agreeable to this side of the House, but I ask the gentleman from Allegheny to withdraw his objection to the reading of the resolution. A man has a right to have his resolution read merely for information.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to make the following statement.

House Rule No. 84 provides that resolutions which are not privileged shall be introduced by filing them with the Clerk. This rule precludes introducing such resolutions from the floor except by unanimous consent or by a suspension of the rule.

After a resolution is filed it is referred to committee and the full text of the resolution is printed in the Legislative Journal for the information of the members, and also in the House History.

The rule was adopted by this House at the beginning of the 1935 session at the suggestion of our former Speaker, the Honorable William G. Sarig. The definite objective was to save the time of the House required to read a resolution and to prevent their consideration before giving the membership time to know what they are voting on.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I yield for the moment to the gentleman from Erie, Mr. McCreary.

Mr. McCREARY. Mr. Speaker, I simply wish to ask that that be read for the information of the House and not for their consideration at this time. May I further say, Mr. Speaker, that there are some figures connected with that that will be presented to the House tomorrow morning at the opening of the session; figures that go to explain that resolution. All I asked for was to have it read for the information of the House tonight.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to advise the gentleman from Erie that in order to have this resolution read, the rule would have to be suspended or we must have unanimous consent to have the resolution read. There were objections, and the Chair has no other alternative than to have the resolution filed with the Clerk first according to the rules.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. How is the House to know, Mr. Speaker, whether it will give its unanimous consent to have the resolution read when it does not know what is in the resolution.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, this question is merely a question of procedure. In order to advise the membership of the House of the contents of the resolution it would be necessary to get the unanimous consent of the House to have this resolution read or to suspend the rules which govern the filing of resolutions.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the rule 84 referred to by the Speaker be suspended for the purpose of having the resolution read for the information of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, if we are going to stay here and accomplish anything, there ought to be some degree of cooperation on matters that are not of such great moment as to require objection. This side of the House has not offered any objections to the unanimous consent to have statements made, nor to have resolutions read, nor to have matters considered. We do not want to do that; we do not want to get into the position of where we are simply going to stay here and take up the time and waste the time of the House, but we expect similar courtesy from the other side of the House. When you offer,—you may laugh, but you cannot point to a single instance in this Special Session of the Legislature where we refused to give you unanimous consent for the purpose of having a resolution read, and I defy every one of you, individually and collectively, members or non-members who are influential in this House, to point to a single instance where we refused to give you consent to have a resolution read. And now, if you are going to do it, we are going to take up the time of the House and we are going to move to suspend the rule every time, and if you think it is better politics to have us make these motions and vote them down and gag us, O. K. with us, but you are going to signify by your vote each and every time that that move predominates in this House. The gentleman from Erie offered a resolution. I haven't the slightest idea what is in that resolution. It may be good or it may be bad. He doesn't ask to have it considered; he wants it read. The gentleman may have a motive for having it read tonight; I do not know, but there is such a thing as common courtesy in this House, and where a member thinks it is important enough to him or to his constitutents to have it read for the information of the House, you are not going to save time by refusing unanimous consent, and we are going to ask for suspension of the rules and a verification of the roll call. If you want that, it is O. K. with us, but you are going to be here for an awfully long time doing it. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this Rule No. 84 was adopted at the last general session of the Assembly. It has been in vogue and effect for quite some time. It was adopted for a very definite purpose, and that purpose was to save the time of the members of this House so that the members of this House would get down to doing the business that we are here for, and that was true last year, and I submit that if it was true last year, that we should get down to business, it is all the more true in this special session when we are here for a very definite purpose, and if we take the time to read these resolutions, it doesn't benefit any member of this House to have these resolutions read. The rules provide that this resolution will be printed tomorrow. Every member will get a copy of that resolution, can read it and digest it and get what is in it, and there is no gag rule to this whatsoever and if Mr. Witkin wants to keep us here in session, I think it is very unfair for him to take that attitude. When these resolutions are printed they are available to the public and they are available to the members of the House. Insofar as unanimous consent to the reading is concerned, I serve notice that if they are not privileged resolutions I shall object to them.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny has stated, has he not, that this resolution will be printed tomorrow and be available to every member of the House; is that correct?

Mr. EBERHARTER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Allegheny tell me under what rule of the House can this resolution come to print tomorrow, when I call his attention to the fact that resolutions are not printed until they are reported out of committee except in the Legislaive Journal and the History. Answer that.

Mr. EBERHARTER. The resolution will be printed in the Legislative Journal tomorrow, or at least the day after and is available to every member of the House and is available to the public.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I further interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EBERHARTER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman then admit that his statement that it will be available tomorrow is incorrect.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I wouldn't say that statement is incorrect, because the Journal may be printed tomorrow.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Allegheny have any precedent that the Journal is available to the members until at least one week after we leave here during the preceding week? Does the gentleman know that the Legislative Journal will not be printed tomorrow or the next day and will not be available to the members of this House for at least one week or possibly more?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, I have not been a member quite as long as he has and I cannot say from my experience of the past that the Legislative Journal will be printed to-morrow or the next day, but it will be in a short time, just as soon as the mechanics of printing can be gone through.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, so the gentleman agrees with me, possibly by reason of the fact that he has not been a member as sufficiently long, that it is quite possible and probable that this resolution will not be available to any members of this House in print until at least next Monday night.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, there is a probability that it may not be, depending upon the action of the committee. If this is a proper resolution and has the approval of the majority of the committee to which it is referred, it will be available within a day after it is reported out to the House by the committee.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, didn't the gentleman from Allegheny say that this resolution would be available tomorrow or the day after?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, the printed copy will be available the day after tomorrow.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. YOURISHIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. YOURISHIN. The question before the House, Mr Speaker, is the suspension of a rule and not what is going to happen to a resolution.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The question before the House is the suspension of Rule No. 84 for the specific purpose of having a resolution read for the information of the House.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I take it by your ruling that I am unable to continue my interrogation in order to prove by the statement of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, himself that this statement made to this House is incorrect. Having been limited and refused the opportunity of continuing that interrogation, I want to answer the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, by saying that in this House for generations back it is the custom, and should be followed strictly, that no member ought to make a statement that either purposely or carelessly or negligently is incorrect. The gentleman from Allegheny's argument would be persuasive if it were true; if this resolution were available for print to-mororw morning, he would be right, and the motion to suspend ought not to govern, but the gentleman from Allegheny knows or should know, and where he should know he should not carelessly state facts which are incorrect. This resolution in the ordinary course of events won't be ready for this House until at least next week. It may be that this discussion will have the printer do a rush job and have it ready to-morrow. If it does then it will be a good thing for the gentleman from Erie, Mr. McCreary, but no Legislative Journal has come out the next day or the day after, and it usually comes out a week after. I object to the gentleman from Allegheny making a statement on the floor of the House telling the membership,—when he tells them we must take his word, because I believe that we ought to take the word of another member up here. He has no right to tell the membership of this House a fact which is actually incorrect. I say to the membership of this House that you ought to vote to suspend the rule if for no other reason than the fact that the gentleman from Allegheny is incorrect, and subsequently admits that it may not get out next Monday unless your printer is ordered to get it out to-night in order to set a precedent, and I hope he does.

Mr. PFAFF. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. PFAFF. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Witkin, tell the House when he approached the sponsor of the resolution, whether he ascertained the contents from the sponsor or one of his colleagues who also spoke to Mr. McCreary?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is asking me to divulge a personal conversation with the gentleman from Erie, Mr. McCreary. Although it is not proper and although he should not ask the question because what I say to a fellow member ad. lib. or at side confidences should not be necessary for the information of the House to-night. But I will reply to the question by saying that when I got over to the gentleman from Erie, Mr. McCreary, in the first place I had difficulty in getting there because the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, occupied most of the room in front of the gentleman from Erie, Mr. McCreary, and then after I did get in I saying that when I got over to the gentleman from Erie, because I directed the question at him and I shot back to my chair to get back here to get the floor, because the Republicans have to be careful not to miss opportunities to get the floor. So I say to the gentleman from Philadelphia that the gentleman from Erie, Mr. McCreary told me nothing about the resolution, and I know nothing about the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion to suspend.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. PETERS. Mr. Speaker, I second the call.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the Speaker in stating the question said in order to suspend the rules for the purpose of introducing and having read—as I understand it, the resolution was permitted to be introduced and was to be filed, and this motion was merely for the purpose of having it read, and not for the purpose of having it introduced.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is in error, and it is for the purpose of having it read for the information of the House.

The yeas any nays were required by Mr. WITKIN and Mr. PETERS.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 40, entitled:

An Act to provide for the commemoration by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of the Three Hundredth Anniversary of the Earliest Settlement the First Courts of Law and the First Capital within what is now Pennsylvania and making an appropriation

The first, second and third sections were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the Department of Public Instruction is hereby authorized and directed to act for and on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in arranging a suitable commemoration of the aforementioned inspiring events

In performing its duties under this act the Department of Public Instruction shall have power to appoint such committee or committees of representative citizens as it may find desirable the same however to include the Governor the Lieutenant Governor the President Pro Tempore of the Senate the Speaker of the House and the President and Secretary of the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies and shall cooperate with similar commissions of the States of Delaware New Jersey or Maryland and with the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies and other historical associations including the Swedish Colonial Society the Swedish Tercentenary Commission and with the respective Governments of the United States Sweden and Finland

Section 2 The sum of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated to the Department of Public Instruction for use in carrying out the purposes of this act

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

The preamble was read as follows:

Whereas The landing of the ships Kalmar Nyckel and Fogel Grip on the Delaware in March one thousand six hundred thirty-eight thereby establishing the Colony of New Sweden on land water included in the Royal Grant to William Penn vests this Tercentenary of the first white permanent settlement within the bounds of Pennsylvania with a peculiar relation to the Commonwealth and

Whereas Pennsylvania's state sovereignty in reality began with Johan Printz who under plenary power reposed in him by the Swedish Crown planted her first capital under permanent government on Tinicum Island (now in Delaware County) and was himself her first Chief Executive or Governor here were her first law courts and here three years later was consecrated to the Glory of God and the practice of Sweden's historic Church the first building of any branch of the Church universal within Pennsylvania's bounds and

Whereas Through varying vicissitudes this settlement was continued under English rule the founding Swedes were held in high esteem and during the Duke of York's government on the Delaware three of his six councilors were native Swedes while all the justices of the earliest English tribunal on the soil of Pennsylvania the Upland Court were Swedes save one and

Whereas The establishment of Penn's government under Colonel William Markham at Upland now Chester on August third one thousand six hundred eighty-one was followed by the coming of the great Quaker himself in October one thousand six hundred eighty-two and upon his arrival there began a coalition in government unique in the annals of colonization and New Sweden merged into his Holy Experiment of a hoped-for perfect democracy in the province of Pennsylvania and the counties of New Castle Kent and Susser-on-Delaware which counties later became the sister State of Delaware and

Whereas Under the tolerant religious and civil principles bodied forth in the Proprietary's Bill of Rights New Sweden and Pennsylvania lived on under the latter's name and although Penn's English Irish Welsh and German colonists were among the last great group to settle in the thirteen original states such was the character or quality of our forefathers and so beneficent their government that both New Sweden and its successor Pennsylvania were the only colonies that not only lived at peace with the Indians and with neighboring colonies but developed quickly into the greatest richest and most populous province among the original thirteen colonies and Philadelphia early became the greatest city of this young America and Pennsylvania soon was recognized as truly the keystone in the great arch of states and

Whereas This General Assembly is mindful both of this goodly heritage of faith of character and of the achievements of our forefathers in founding the civilization upon which our Commonwealth is based and the honorable pride of our citizens therein and

Whereas the General Assembly by earlier acts and The Administrative Code of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine has created the Pennsylvania Historical Commission to represent the Commonwealth in such matters

Which was laid upon the table be taken from the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. When this bill was before the House a few days ago the amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins were adopted. The House was considering the amendments offered by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham?

The amendments were again read by the Clerk for the information of the House as follows:

Amend section 1, page 7, line 6, by inserting after the word "return" the following: "in duplicate, the original"

Amend section 1, page 7, by inserting after line 21, following paragraph: "The duplicate unsworn return shall be forwarded by the Department of Revenue to the county commissioners, Board of Revision of Taxes or board for the assessment and revision of taxes, as the case may be, of the county from which the return was made for its use and information."

Amend section 1, page 22, line 18, by inserting after the word "act' the following: "and any information gained by the county commissioners, Board of Revision of Taxes or board for the assessment and revision of taxes as the result of duplicate returns received from the department"

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I have been informed that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins withdraws his objection to my amendment, I would like to ask whether my information is correct.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham I desire to state that that information is correct, and in the light of the purposes of the amendment offered by the gentleman, I ask this House to vote to adopt those amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Wickersham?

They were agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, page 3, line 3, by striking out the word "four" and insert in lieu thereof: "six"

Amend section 1, page 5, line 3, by striking out the word "four" and insert in lieu thereof: "six"

Amend section 1, page 5, line 7, by striking out the word "four" and insert in lieu thereof: "six"

Amend section 1, page 23, line 21, by striking out the word "four" and insert in lieu thereof: "six"

Amend section 1, page 26, line 6, by striking out the word "four" and insert in lieu thereof: "six"

Amend section 1, page 26, line 10, by striking out the word "four" and insert in lieu thereof: "six"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. HOOPES. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, the amendments are very simple. It will take very few words to explain them. I know that there is considerable objection on the part of some of us in this House to more taxes indicated in the tax program. It seems to me that here is a chance to put on a tax that is more just and at the same time raise enough money for relief, and if we are here to raise money for relief, we have got to get it somewhere. Real estate is paying anywhere from twenty-five to forty mills. If this amendment is adopted, which I propose, personal property will pay only ten mills, or about one-third of what real estate is paying. Under the circumstances, in view of the needs of the Commonwealth, of the necessity of providing relief for the unemployed, I ask the members of the House to vote "aye" on these amendments, and Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to ask the members of the House to vote down the amendments offered by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes. The estimates furnished as to the amount of money to be raised by this four mill tax gives a sum of forty millions of dollars, and I feel that that is a considerate sum and sufficient to be asked of the owners of personal property at this time. In view of the fact that there is at least a four mill tax on property of this nature used for county purposes, I feel that the additional levy of four mills makes a total of eight mills on this type of property, and is sufficient for the purpose, and I ask the members of the House to vote down the amendments offered by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Hoopes.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HOOPES and Mr. CAMERON and were as follows:

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 22, Printer's No. 4, on page 7 of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

Agreeably to order.

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. FLINCHBAUGH.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 22, entitled:

An Act imposing an emergency State tax for a limited period of time on liquor as herein defined sold by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board providing for the collection and payment of such tax and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Flinchbaugh.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from York, Mr. Flinchbaugh, whether or not under this bill sacramental wines will be taxed.

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Clinton, Mr. Simon, I wish to say that quite a number of clergymen have written me and interviewed me in regard to this question, as to whether sacramental wines or wines used for sacramental purposes would be taxed under this bill. The bill only taxes spirituous liquors sold by the Liquor Control Board, and as the sacramental wines are usually bought from the duly licensed sacramental wine dealers, this bill would not affect wines used for that purpose.

In this connection I had a communication from W. L. Farrell, Chancellor of the Diocese of Scranton, dated May 15, 1936, in which he says:

"Your letter of May 14th concerning the proposed tax on liquor, spirits, wines, etc., has been received.

It pleased me very much to know that sacramental wines are not to be included in this tax. I feel quite sure in saying that all sacramental wines are obtained through licensed sacramental wine dealers and since the tax proposed has to do with only wine purchased in the State Liquor Stores this, of course, exempts us.

Thanking you for your kind cooperation, I remain."

I will say to the gentleman from Clinton, therefore, that sacramental wines will not be taxed under this act

Mr TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Flinchbaugh.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker do I understand that this tax covers liquors sold in the State Stores.

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware is correct: it covers only liquors sold in State Liquor Stores.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, why impose the tax in this manner? Why don't the State Liquor Stores raise their prices by ten percent?

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question propounded by the gentleman from Delaware, this is a matter, I would say, that was considered. The Liquor Control Board could easily do that, but in the event that the government attempted to issue tax anticipation notes, using those notes as security a tax would be the only way in which loans of that character would be made.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, if tax anticipation notes are issued they would have to be based upon estimates of the amount of tax to be raised is that not correct?

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. It is, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, the amount to be raised would have to be based upon the estimated sales, would it not?

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. And where is the difference, Mr. Speaker. between the estimated amount of taxes to be derived based upon the amount of sales and the amount to be received by the Liquor Stores in return for sales at the increased price of ten per cent?

Mr. FLINCHBAUGH. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Delaware, I am not a lawyer, but it appears to me that the tax anticipation notes could only be sold on a tax and that any advance in the prices of liquor the Liquor Control Board might put on spirits as a tax could not be used as legal security.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I realize that tax anticipation notes are based upon the question of taxes which have been levied and that the anticipated revenue would be paid from them. I cannot see the difference between a tax which is to be levied upon liquor and any other income of the State. Certainly that which comes into the liquor stores is income, which has to be paid into the State treasury—it goes to no other place. We have the right to estimate the amount of revenue to be derived in any biennium, and if we can borrow money upon the amount of revenue from a tax, why can't we in the same sense borrow money to be derived from the receipts of the Liquor Stores if that ten per cent increase can be estimated on the amount of sales. It seems to me that this is just a fiction that is going to be set up, which will add materially to the cost. Every time we have set up a new tax in Pennsylvania, we have had to give more money to the Revenue department to collect it. It means more employes, it means the cost of the stamps, it means the auditing of the account by the Revenue department, and in that way there is always a lot taken out of every amount which we set up as a tax in this State, and I feel that in this instance we are on the wrong track, that it would be much more simple to finance the proposition by a ten per cent increase of the sales price of liquors in the State Liquor Stores.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House this tax will increase by ten percent the sales price of liquor sold by the Liquor Control Board. The seven and a half million dollars which we anticipate we will collect through this tax will then be utilized as the basis for the issuance of tax anticipation notes.

The gentleman from Delaware intimates that the Liquor Control Board could accomplish the purpose of raising the seven and a half million dollars by increasing the sales prices. That is very true, but the Commonwealth could not obtain that seven and a half million dollars immediately by increasing the prices of the Liquor Control Board, and as the result we find ourselves confronted with the necessity by legislative action of increasing the price by a tax of ten per cent. Now, this act will be based upon the estimated amount of sales, the estimated amount of sales being seventy-five million dollars and ten per cent. of that is seven and a half million dollars, which will be the basis of the tax anticipation notes.

We cannot issue tax anticipation notes on anticipated profits. The very terminology of the tax anticipation notes indicate that those notes are to be issued on the basis of anticipated taxes, not anticipated profits. A sinking fund will be set up for the retirement of those notes in conformity with the requirements that have been presented by the bankers who purchased the other fifty million dollars of tax anticipation notes.

Now, as to the question of the cost. This seven and a half million dollars will be turned into the treasury without the expenditure by the Commonwealth of one additional penny for its collection. The Liquor Control Board will collect an extra ten per cent. and transmit the money that they collect, that excess ten per cent., to the Department of Revenue for the General fund, either to be used for general fund purposes or to act as a sinking fund for the retirement of the tax anticipation notes.

The gentleman from Delaware is quite correct. So far as getting the money is concerned, we could get it by merely increasing the prices of all the products that are sold by the Liquor Control Board, but we are confronted here with two problems: one, to get the money and, two, to get it quickly. By the passage of this act we accomplish both of those purposes: We get the money and we get it quickly.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally,

An Act to provide for the participation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in a National Celebration of the One Hundred Fiftieth Anniversary of the Framing the Signing the Ratification by Pennsylvania and the Final Adoption and Promulgation of the Constitution of the United States to be held at Philadelphia and elsewhere on the fifteenth sixteenth and seventeenth days of September one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven and subsequent anniversary dates in connection therewith and making an appropriation.

Mr. BUCKMAN, from the Committee on Federal Relations, reported as committed, the following resolution, which was laid on the table:

MEMORALIZING CONGRESS TO ENACT LEGISLATION TO PROHIBIT FEDERAL EMPLOYES FROM ENGAGING IN POLITICS

In the Senate, May 18, 1936.

Whereas, Many allegations are being made in the press that Federal employes are actively engaging in politics through political clubs, by canvassing, and soliciting voters, and by acting as watchers at the polls; and

Whereas, All persons employed by the Works Progress Administration are Federal employes who have been given work because they are without means of support, and should not be required to surrender their political freedom in order to secure this type of work; and

Whereas, The Honorable John B. Kelley, Secretary of Revenue of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is quoted, by the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin of April 29, 1936, in commenting on the victory of Congressman Michael Stack in his fight for renomination, as having said:

> "Added to this, he got 1200 WPA jobs for his people in the last two months. We didn't know he was going to free lance it until he had a good start on us."

Whereas, This reputed statement implies that these 1200 WPA workers were used for political purposes; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania respectfully memorialize Congress of the United States to enact legislation, as soon as may be, prohibiting Federal employes, who are working on United States relief projects, from engaging in politics or being used for political purposes, and prohibiting them from being members of political clubs or from canvassing or soliciting voters or acting as watchers at election polls;

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Senate and to the House of Representatives of the United States by the Chief Clerk of the Senate.

Whereas, The recent floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere brought loss of life and resulted in damage to public and private property, running into millions of dollars; and

Whereas, The adequate flood control measures are urgently needed, and cannot be wholly financed by the states and their local subdivisions; and

Whereas, Such problems are in many cases not local, but of an interstate character; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That a joint legislative committee be created, composed of two members of the Senate appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and three Members of the House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker of the House, whose duty it shall be to personally urge upon the President and Congress of the United States the necessity of the immediate adoption of adequate Federal flood control measures, designed to eliminate future floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere;

Resolved, That said committee shall make report to the General Assembly during its session convening May fourth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six.

The PRESIDENT. There is a parliamentary question raised with respect to this resolution, and the question is, whether or not the Senate deems it advisable that the resolution should go to the Governor for his signature. What is the pleasure of the Senate?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the resolution be submitted to the Governor for his approval and signature.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. McCREARY. (Concurrent Resolution No. 13.

In the House of Representatives, May 18, 1936.

Whereas, The Pennsylvania Legislature has been called to meet in Extraordinary Session at an estimated cost to taxpayers of $365,000 for the almost exclusive purpose of raising nine to eleven million dollars for appropriation to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief until July first next, and an additional sum of fifty to sixty million dollars to carry on until January first, 1937; and

Whereas, The question of the necessity of raising this money is not debatable, It Must Be Done; and

Whereas, There appears to be but three ways of producing this required amount of money, i.e., by reducing present operating costs of State and local governments, by increasing taxes, and by borrowing from State funds dedicated to special purposes; and

Whereas, Borrowing is but putting off the evil day when money must be had to repay the loan, and our citizens, already burdened with heavy taxation, clamor against the imposition of new taxes; and

Whereas, There is a great disparity between the salaries received by many officers and employes of the State and its political subdivisions, as compared with the salaries and wages of many taxpayers of the State for similar services, and a reasonable reduction in the salaries of these officers and employes would work no hardship as compared with the hardships of the unemployed; and

Whereas, An equalization of compensation between taxpayers and those who are paid out of tax funds is bound to come sooner or later; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly proposes to obtain at least a part of the money needed for unemployment relief by a 20% reudction of the salaries of all State and local officers and employes receiving more than $1,800 per year, effective forthwith in so far as permitted by the Constitution and made possible through the cooperation of elected officers, and to divert the moneys thus saved to unemployment relief by State and local agencies; and be it further

Resolved, That the Auditor General, the Budget Secretary and the Secretary of Internal Affairs are hereby requested, at as early a date as possible, to furnish to the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, information as to the number and amounts of salaries of all elected and appointed officers and employes of the Commonwealth and of its political subdivisions who receive more than $1,800 per year, together with an estimate of the amount of revenue that could be made available for unemployment relief by a 20% reduction in such salaries, and such other information available from the records of such officers as may be requested by the Chairman of said Committee.

Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

SENATE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate which was read as follows:

In the Senate, May 11, 1936.

Whereas, The authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and other municipalities throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are advertising or about to advertise tax sales, and have declined the requests of taxpayers to further postpone said tax sales until legislation can be enacted by the General Assembly for the relief of delinquent taxpayers; and

Whereas, The Allied Boards of Trade of Allegheny County, composed of forty-eight constituent community organizations, the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers League, Pennsylvania Tax Justice League, and Pennsylvania Property Owners Association and similar organizations throughout the Commonwealth are in favor of the continuation of any such tax sales so as to enable the Legislature now in Special Session to enact appropriate legislation; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly hereby directs the attention of the public authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and the public authorities of other municipalities throughout the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the fact that, pursuant to the Governor's call, bills are now before the General Assembly authorizing the abatement of penalties and interest on municipal and other local taxes permitting the payment of such delinquent taxes by installments and therefore urges the public authorities of the City of Pittsburgh and all other municipalities in the Commonwealth to adjourn any tax sale which, under existing law, such authorities have authorized to be held during the months of May and June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six, until legislation may be enacted relative to the abatement of tax penalties and interest.

RESOLUTION NO. 9 TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. BURKE. Mr Speaker, I move that Resolution No. 9, Printer's No. 50 which was laid upon the table be taken from the table.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 13, 1936.

Whereas Under House Resolution Number one hundred ten Serial number one hundred forty-two Printer's number five hundred two a joint Committee to Investigate the Distribution of Public Relief throughout the Commonwealth was duly appointed at the last regular session of this General Assembly and

Whereas In compliance with the said joint resolution three members of the Senate and three members of the House were appointd to the said Joint Committee and

Whereas The said Joint Committee held certain meetings and directed certain investigations and

Whereas Three members of the Joint Committee signed a report of the Committee and

Whereas One of the three members of the Joint Committee signing the said report presented the report to the House of Representatives on Wednesday May sixth one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas All of the members of the Joint Committee were not given a reasonable and fair opportunity to review the findings contained in the report before the report was submitted to the House of Representatives and

Whereas The report was released to the newspapers prior to the submission to the House of Representatives therefore be it

Resolved That the House of Representatives disavows the highly unethical procedure associated with the submission of the said report and deems the said procedure as an unbecoming attempt to form a partisan and distorted view of a great humane problem confronting our people

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring.

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend as follows: Page 2, line 2, at the beginning of the line before the word "procedure" strike out the words "highly unethical."

Page 2, line 3, after the word "report" strike out the balance of the line and all of lines four and five.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I arise to a question of information?

Mr. SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of information.

Mr. WITKIN. We are voting on the amendments now, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. That is correct

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution as amended?

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in a statement made before this House last evening, it was pointed out that the procedure that this committee followed was not in order. I appeal, therefore, to the members of this House, out of fairness, to vote "no" on this resolution, and I ask, Mr. Speaker, for a roll call

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is the first opportunity I have had of rebutting the statements that were made subsequent to my remarks on the resolution.

I wish to tell the members of this House that I misstated no facts, and I wish to say that at the meeting at which the two investigators were employed, I was not present. The minutes of the committee will disclose that fact and the correspondence with the chairman will reveal a letter which I sent to him objecting to the disposition that was made of the question of employing investigators.

I wish to advise the members that the Democratic members of that committee—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has no right to divulge that which took place in committee nor the votes of the members of a committee nor anything pertaining to that which was conducted in committee.

Mr. SPEAKER. The Chair ruled on this point of order last night. This is an instance where the proceedings of the committee have been reported to the House and is, therefore, a proper subject of debate. (Jefferson's Manual, Section 353—Hind's Precedents, Volume V, pp. 5080-5083.) The point of order is not well taken. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, as I was saying when I was interrupted, it was always the intention of the Democratic members of that committee to submit a report and we intended so to do before Mr. Witkin advised us of our rights.

I ask the members of this House to vote "aye" on this resolution, so that all discussions of the committee may be considered privileged or at least privileged to the members of the House so that in future all matters of a confidential nature will be discussed at least with the House before they are released to the newspapers.

On the question recurring.

Will the House adopt the resolution as amended?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HORST and Mr. BURKE.

RESOLUTION NO. 6

Mr. JOHN E. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 6, Printer's No. 48.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives May 13, 1936.

Whereas The Supreme Court has held that it is the duty of the Commonwealth to care for unemployed persons who are without means of support but no such duty exists with respect to those which have such means and who are not eligible for poor relief and

Whereas It appears that many married women are employed in the administration of unemployment relief who are not in need of employment and yet are paid from moneys appropriated for unemployment relief and

Whereas The true purposes of the appropriation for unemployment relief will be accomplished by employing in administrative work those competent persons who are in need of employment and relief aid and who can appreciate the necessities and select the cases entitled to aid therefore be it

Resolved That it is the sense of the House of Representatives that all married women employed by the State Emergency Relief Board who are not in need of employment be replaced by the employment of competent persons residents of this Commonwealth who are without employment and in need of work

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Executive Director of the State Emergency Relief Board by the Chief Clerk of this House

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 68, as follows:

An Act authorizing the Department of Forests and Waters to make a survey and investigation with respect to flood control and water conservation and the coordination of any Federal and State flood control program and making an appropriation

Whereas Numerous projects have been proposed in the Commonwealth for flood prevention and flood control involving the construction of storage reservoirs dykes and other forms of stream channel improvement and

Whereas It is of utmost importance that such projects be studied and correlated so that they may form part of a properly developed plan for flood control covering the entire Commonwealth and

Whereas A study should be made to determine how much projects may be constructed primarily in the interest of flood control and at the same time develop the uses of water for public water supply hydroelectric power development navigation increase of dry weather flow sanitation and other forms of water conservation and

Whereas A survey and investigation should be made to determine the locations where additional storage reservoirs may be built for flood control and at the same time provide for water conservation including estimates of cost and economic justification and

Whereas The construction of flood control works by the Federal Government with or without the financial cooperation of this and adjoining states should be carefully reviewed by some Commonwealth agency to the end that such projects may be most advantageously coordinated with any State program for flood control and water conservation therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the Department of Forests and Waters is hereby authorized and directed to make a survey and study of the various watersheds of the Commonwealth for the purpose of determining for the benefit of this Commonwealth and the Federal Government where reservoirs may be built for flood control and the manner in which such developments may be combined to best advantage with other forms of water conservation and for the further purpose of determining where and in what manner flood control may be secured by the construction of dykes and other forms of stream channel improvement

Section 2 The Department of Forests and Waters shall make a complete report of its investigation and flood control survey to the next General Assembly convening in January one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven not later than February first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven so that the General Assembly may be fully advised in order that appropriate legislation may be enacted with a view of adopting a comprehensive flood control and water conservation program

Section 3 The sum of two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Forests and Waters for the payment of the salary compensation and wages of engineers experts clerks assistants and employes deemed necessary in making the investigation survey and report authorized by this act for the payment of postage traveling expenses mileage charges to the Department of Property and Supplies for the use of automobiles telephone toll charges telegrams expenses of operating and maintaining automobiles and other motor equipment for printing and for all other incidental expenses necessary for carrying into effect the provisions of this act

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 69, as follows:

An Act authorizing and directing the Department of Forests and Waters to investigate survey and report on the location and availability for purchase of certain lands suitable for reforestion with flood control as the objective and making an appropriation

Whereas the continued efficiency of any water impounding dams which may be constructed by the State or Federal Government as flood control projects is dependent upon reducing to a minimum the silt deposited in them and

Whereas A forest cover with its honey-combed soil and thick humus bedded surface is the most effective agent known to prevent soil erosion and the silting of streams and dams and to retard the water run-off and

Whereas There are upwards of two million three hundred thousand acres of submarginal idle and abandoned farm lands in this State located largely on the upper river water sheds which are subject to serious soil erosion and rapid water run-off which constitute a growing menace during flood seasons and are of little value for reforestation and

Whereas The rate of fire damage on private unmanaged and unattended wild lands is six times that on State-controlled forest lands and such burned-over lands constitute an additional menace from soil erosion and water run-off therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the Department of Forests and Waters is hereby authorized and directed to make an investigation and reforestation survey with flood control as the objective of all private forest lands and all abandoned farm lands and submarginal lands their location availability for purchase and their approximate purchase prices together with all lands in any of the above classes on which the taxes imposed by political subdivisions are delinquent or which have been sold to counties because of insufficient bids at tax sales

The investigation and survey shall include the three watersheds of the Commonwealth the Susquehanna watershed the Delaware watershed and the Ohio watershed including lands draining directly or indirectly into the Susquehanna River and its North and West Branches and the Juniata River the Delaware the Lehigh and Schuylkill Rivers and the Ohio Allegheny Monongahela and Beaver Rivers

Section 2 The Department of Forests and Waters shall make a complete report of its investigation and reforestation survey to the next General Assembly convening in January one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven not later than February first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven so that the General Assembly may be fully advised in order that appropriate legislation may be enacted with a view of adopting a comprehensive flood control program

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 40, as follows:

An Act to provide for the commemoration by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of the Three Hundredth Anniversary of the Earliest Settlement the First Courts of Law and the First Capital within what is now Pennsylvania and making an appropriation.

Whereas The landing of the ships Kalmar Nyckel and Fogel Grip on the Delaware in March one thousand six hundred thirty-eight thereby establishing the Colony of New Sweden on land later included in the Royal Grant to William Penn vests this Tercentenary of the first white permanent settlement within the bounds of Pennsylvania with a peculiar relation to the Commonwealth and

Whereas Pennsylvania's state sovereignty in reality began with Johan Printz who under plenary power reposed in him by the Swedish Crown planted her first capital under permanent government on Tinicum Island (now in Delaware County) and was himself her first Chief Executive or Governor here were her first law courts and here three years later was consecrated to the Glory of God and the practice of Sweden's historic Church the first building of any branch of the Church universal within Pennsylvania bounds and

Whereas Through varying vicissitudes this settlement was continued under English rule the founding Swedes were held in high esteem and during the Duke of York's government on the Delaware three of his six councilors were native Swedes while all the justices of the earliest English tribunal on the soil of Pennsylvania the Upland Court were Swedes save one and

Whereas The establishment of Penn's government under Colonel William Markham at Upland now Chester on August third one thousand six hundred eighty-one was followed by the coming of the great Quaker himself in October one thousand six hundred eighty-two and upon his arrival there began a coalition and New Sweden merged into his Holy Experiment of a hoped-for perfect democracy in the province of Pennsylvania and the counties of New Castle Kent and Sussex-on-Delaware which counties later became the sister State of Delaware and

Whereas Under the tolerant religious and civil principles bodied forth in the Proprietary's Bill of Rights New Sweden and Pennsylvania lived on under the latter's name and although Penn's English Irish Welsh and German colonists were among the last great group to settle in the thirteen original states such was the character or quality of our forefathers and so beneficient their government that both New Sweden and its successor Pennsylvania were the only colonies that not only lived at peace with the Indians and with neighboring colonies but developed quickly into the greatest richest and most populous province among the original thirteen colonies and Philadelphia early became the greatest city of this young America and Pennsylvania soon was recognized as truly the keystone in the great arch of states and

Whereas This General Assembly is mindful both of this goodly heritage of faith of character and of the achievement of our forefathers in founding the civilization upon which our Commonwealh is based and the honorable pride of our citizens therein and

Whereas the General Assembly by earlier acts and The Administrative Code of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine has created the Pennsylvania Historical Commission to represent the Commonwealth in such matters

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the Department of Public Instruction is hereby authorized and directed to act for and on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in arranging a suitable commemoration of the aforementioned inspiring events

In performing its duties under this act the Department of Public Instruction shall have power to appoint such committee or committees of representative citizens as it may find desirable the same however to include the Governor the Lieutenant Governor the President Pro Tempore of the Senate the Speaker of the House and the President and Secretary of the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies and shall cooperate with similar commissions of the States of Delaware New Jersey or Maryland and with the Pennsylvania Federation of Historical Societies and other historical associations including the Swedish Colonial Society the Swedish Tercentenary Commission and with the respective Governments of the United States Sweden and Finland

Section 2 The sum of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated to the Department of Public Instruction for use in carrying out the purposes of this act

Section 3 This act shall be come effective immediately upon its final enactment.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 56, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Health to defray the cost of pumping the water from slate quarries and anthracite and bituminous coal mines which have been flooded directly or indirectly by the high waters during March one thousand nine hundred thirty-six

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the sum of seven hundred thousand dollars ($700,000) or as much thereof as may be necessary is hereb specifically appropriated to the Department of Health to defray the cost of pumping the water from slate quarries and anthracite and bituminous coal mines which have been flooded directly or indirectly by the high waters during March one thousand nine hundred thirty-six including the purchase and installation of pumps motors and other equipment the purchase of electric power and all necessary incidental expenses

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate one of the sponsors of the bill?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COLEMAN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker, may I ask first whether a legal opinion has been rendered by the Attorney General as to whether we are within our rights in appropriating an amount,—an expenditure like this on private property.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, it is my understanding that the Governor, before he sent telegrams to the members of the General Assembly had an interpretation, a legal opinion from the Attorney General's office giving him the legal right to do so.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman how much has already been expended and whether expenditures are still being made upon the projects.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am not in a position to tell the amount of money spent at this particular time because it is my understanding that there have been several pumps installed and tested in the Pittston mine area preparatory to dewatering the mines. It is not within my knowledge at the present time just how much has been spent.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker, would the sponsor of this bill object to a resolution asking for a complete report of the expenditures to this House, and on whose territory they were expended.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that, I do not personally have any objection to the House having a definite knowledge as to the money expended and how it is spent. I personally will not oppose the presentation or the adoption of a resolution asking for that information.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker, while I know that there were some other industries that would have been glad for employment reasons to have been helped out of this same difficulty, is there any reason why we cannot recover from the mine owners, by agreement or otherwise, the moneys expended, to reimburse the State?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, the mine owners have consented to spend twice the amount that the State will appropriate for dewatering the mines. To me it is a question of common sense, and to the Governor and to all the members of the Assembly that have given him the right to spend this money it is a common sense business proposition. In the event the mines were not dewatered within a limited time it would cost the State six hundred thousand dollars a month for relief purposes only. The thing is a common sense business proposition.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker, would the sponsor of this bill mind putting it on the postponed calendar until we get a little additional information.

Mr. COLEMAN. No. I will not agree, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker, the reason that I asked the question regarding whether we could recover a portion of the expenditure,—I didn't necessarily mean all of it,—I also assented to the Governor's telegram in which were not included the other two industries, but I see no reason why we should not make an attempt to recover some of the expense, and I expect possibly to introduce a resolution later, embodying this matter and also a report on those expenditures.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the members of the House, the title of this bill as it appears on the calendar is not correct. However, the bills which are on file are correct and include the amendments which were offered to the title last night. The printer's number is 52.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. Speaker, the Governor had the approval of the majority of the members of the House and the Senate to permit the Department of Public Health to spend seven hundred thousand dollars for the purpose of dewatering the mines. The anthracite mines in the Pittston area which threw out of employment some six thousand miners were the ones vitally affected at the time. However, the attention of the Administration has been called to the fact that there are some bituminous mines and some slate quarries that have been similarly affected. I do not know whether the members who do not represent anthracite and bituminous mining districts appreciate that there is a certain natural seepage of water into the mines, even when we have no threat of a flood, and in the Pittston area the water was seeping into the mines at the rate of thirty-six thousand gallons a minute, and the engineers estimated that within a month or six weeks all of the mines in the anthracite region would be flooded, thereby throwing out of employment some fifteen thousand miners. It is my understanding that the Administration will not object to the use of the pumps for any other mines that were affected by the flood waters during the month of March. If the gentleman has in mind any mines that he would like to have taken care of in the same fashion, that were affected by the flood waters, and which constitutes an emergency, I am quite certain that upon proper application the use of the pumps will be granted.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 50, entitled:

A supplement to the act, approved the nineteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws, one thousand three hundred fifty-one), entitled "An act making appropriations to carry into effect the provisions of an act, approved the tenth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws, eight hundred ninety-three), entitled 'An act providing for assistance to certain mothers; providing for the appointment of boards of trustees for the several counties of the Commonwealth, and for the appointment of a State Supervisor and assistants, and fixing the salaries of such State Supervisor and assistants; defining the powers and duties of boards of trustees, including the power of appointing assistants and investigators, and the distribution of funds at their disposal; providing for the apportionment of the State appropriation among the several counties, and requiring counties coming under the provisions of the act to appropriate certain moneys; and providing penalties,' as amended", making an appropriation for the payment of mothers' assistance to applicants in counties which do not have sufficient funds available to pay assistance to such applicants.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ATKINS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise in support of this bill because it appropriates $600,000 as a reserve fund for Mothers' Assistance. It also enables Pennsylvania to get $1,800,000 of federal funds. These two sums together with the funds now allocated will be sufficient money to grant pensions to widows and their dependent children.

I sometimes think that we don't give sufficient thought to the greatest of all social service bills, the Mothers' Assistant Fund. We pass appropriations going into the millions of dollars with little thought by the members of this House. For the past year we have not had sufficient funds to take care of these widows and their dependent children. I personally made investigations and find that we are greatly in need of additional funds. I hope that the members will feel that $600,000 together with a $1,800,000 will be sufficient to take care of every home that is maintained by widows trying to keep fatherless children together. They are to be the future citizens of this great Commonwealth. These mothers cannot go out and support these children in their distressed condition; the children cannot go out and do it.

Each member of this House when he goes back to his home should take a personal interest in Mothers' Assistance. You might not get many votes from this work but you will certainly put yourself into one of the greatest social security works this country has today.

Amend Page 10, Line 15, Section 203, by striking out the word "eight" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "six"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE

Mr SPROUL Mr Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered. It is not necessary for me to state my purpose, but it is for the purpose of considering amendments.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER declared the nays appear to have it, whereupon, a division was called for, seventy-two members voting in the affirmative and one hundred seven in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOOMAW. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the sponsor of the bill to inform the House what the estimated annual revenue is that will be paid by employers into the unemployment compensation fund by the terms of this act for the first, second and third years of its operation.

Mr. MOOMAW. Based on the most accurate information available, which at best is only an estimate, it is estimated that the fund will receive during this year $18,000,000. Of course, that would be doubled in the second year—it would double in the amount of percentage; and it would double for the third year due to the stepup in percentage.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Will the gentleman from Franklin inform this House what the estimated annual charge against the unemployment fund will be as soon as the act is in full operation.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker in estimating this fund in Pennsylvania there is absolutely no precedent. Whether or not the estimates are correct is something that only experience will determine. Once this act is enacted the department will have the power to obtain federal data for the first few months of this year, so that by the end of this year we will really have some concrete information on which to work. The percentage of three percent is established by the Federal Social Security Act, was made after a number of studies of statistics which were available to the various departments in Washington and they took the period from 1923 to 1933 in establishing that 3 percent figure. Now, by having this information, at the next session of the legislature such amendments as may be found necessary can be made to this act, for after all no payments are to be made for compensation until January 1, 1938.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman to say then that there are no estimates as to what the annual charge will be at the present time when this act will be in full operation?

Mr. MOOMAW. Not as far as Pennsylvania is concerned other than the figures from various bureaus and statistics obtained in Washington and the meager checks we have been able to make here in this state.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Will the gentleman from Franklin inform us whether or not the receipts and expenditures have been computed on what is known as an actuarial basis

Mr. MOOMAW. It has, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Will the gentleman inform us what percentage of payroll contribution would be required to place the unemployment compensation fund on an actuarial basis?

Mr. MOOMAW. I don't have the information at hand to answer that particular point.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Will the gentleman inform me whether or not I am correct in stating that this tax or contribution must be paid by employers regardless of whether or not their business is operated at a profit or at a loss?

Mr. MOOMAW. The act does not differentiate in regard to that point.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr Speaker, the bill now up for consideration is one of the most important that has ever come before this House. The problem of unemployment has always been and doubtless always will be with us. If House Bill No. 55 solved its difficulties, it would merit our whole-hearted support, regardless of its cost. Unfortunately, it is only a stop-gag, not a solution. It is for the short haul, not the long pull. That its benefits are of little advantage in a long drawn out depression is evidenced by the fact that the maximum period of payments is but thirteen weeks. And its cost, not only to the employer, but to the unemployed and to every man, woman and child in Pennsylvania, will be terrific.

However, we have no alternative but to pass the Bill. Our right to consider, our right to deliberate has been taken from us. The Federal Government, using its taxing power as an economic shot gun, has placed the weapon at our heads and commanded us to sign. The punishment for failure to comply is too great to consider. If Congress has such a power under the Constitution, then the separate sovereignty of the States is at an end. It can only be a question of time before all governmental functions are centralized in Washington. That the power to tax is the power to destroy was early recognized, and here today we see that economic bludgeon being used to crush beyond recognition the most important right heretofore reserved to the separate States, the right to decide for itself domestic problems within its own borders.

Fortunately, there is nothing within the Federal Act that prevents our attempting to point out to the people of Pennsylvania what they must pay for this legislation.

As we all know, this levy must be paid by the employer regardless of whether his business is run at a profit or at a loss. It rates therefore as a cost of production, the chief determining factor in price levels, and must inevitably result in a general rise in prices, something that must be borne by every man, woman and child in the State. This, regardless of name and no matter how concealed, will be a general Sales Tax, something that could never be passed if so styled, but can be easily adopted if introduced under an alias. The responsibility can not be shifted, the Democratic Congress in Washington is forcing us to adopt a Sales Tax, a tax that falls on the poor with crushing violence, while easily assimilated by the wealthy. Every article of merchandize, including the necessities of life, will have a higher price as a result of this tax. For proof, I submit the experience of Europe, where price indices increased as soon as unemployment insurance was adopted.

Only one alternative can prevent a price rise, and that is a lowering of the wage scale to counter-balance the increased cost of production. The Act forbids the employer withholding 3% of wages to pay the tax, but there is nothing to prevent an employer from reducing his wage scale by a corresponding amount. Such action will accomplish the same result, but is an even greater evil than a general rise in prices.

Nor can it be argued that a very successful business can absorb these charges out of earnings. If it does, it will undersell the less successful competitior and force him to a speedy bankruptcy, with resulting increases in the unemployment rolls and permanent economic loss. The Act will, to that extent, play into the hands of Big Business at the expense of the Little Fellow.

One thing is certain. The only one who will have to bear this charge out of his own pocket is the man with only one, two or three employees, and no production cost through which to pass it on. The man with a little store, or a small business, the grocer, the druggist, the doctor; in short, the class now hardest hit by taxation. When we remember that the total tax to the employer under the Social Security Act is 6% of his gross payroll, we can readily see that the added burden means something to him.

What other results should Labor anticipate from the Act? A further curtailment of employment is a certainty. In an effort to keep down the cost of production, border-line employees will be dropped everywhere. Payrolls will be scrutinized with even greater care to eliminate those not absolutely indispensible. Finally, labor-saving machines not now justified under present labor costs, will be adopted because of savings they will make possible.

Finally, and probably most important of all, the best available information indicates that the proposed Bill is not based on an actuarial basis and therefore will in the immediate future necessitate large grants or subsidies from the Commonwealth to make up the deficits that will result. Such funds can only be raised by new taxes to be imposed on the people of Pennsylvania already overburdened with back-breaking taxes.

Based on the experiences of European countries having similar legislation, a pay-roll tax of from 4% to 6% is estimated to be necessary to place unemployment compensation on an actuarial basis. Seven of the eleven states in this country having unemployment insurance have recognized this by providing for employee contribution, usually at one per cent (1%), to be added to the contributions of employers. Pennsylvania will have but 2.7% at the maximum, all of which comes from employers. Additional taxes are therefore, a certainty.

In Germany, a payroll tax of 6½% borne equally by employer and employe, is levied for unemployment compensation. The maximum payment is $4.80 per week for twenty weeks, but despite this low maximum rate large contributions are required from the Central government.

In France, the rate is 7%, shared on an equal basis by employers and employees, yet an additional 600,000,000 francs is required to round out the deficit.

In England, with a maximum payment of approximately $4.25 per week, Parliament in 1935 had to appropriate from the general fund over 50% of the total raised from employer and employee contributions, in order to balance receipts with disbursements.

Pennsylvanians, may, therefore reasonably anticipate substantial new taxes in addition to a concealed general Sales Tax and increased unemployment as a result of this Act. The responsibility, however, belong to the administration in Washington. We are given no opportunity to weigh the relative merits and demerits of the proposal; the right has been taken from us to determine whether or not the cost overbalances possible benefits. Of one thing we may be certain, the cost burden will reach and be felt by every resident of Pennsylvania. Anyone who argues that employers alone will bear the expense, simply ignores the fundamental principles of economics. It will require some years for us to estimate the final cost, but one thing is certain, it will be extreme.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the remarks of the gentleman from Dauphin may or may not have merit, depending entirely upon the viewpoint. There is one thing, however, that is certain, and which he has admitted, that Pennsylvania must enact a measure of this kind in order to protect the payroll tax which would otherwise go to the Federal Government and from which Pennsylvanians would receive no benefit. This measure has been carefully gone over and when the gentleman from Dauphin states that to the best of his knowledge it was not gone over from an actuarial standpoint, I might say that when the President of the United States appointed a Board of Economic Security, they carefully went into the various measures of this particular act. They took census figures, payroll and employment indices and employment studies in arriving at the figure which they have placed, namely three per cent, when the act becomes fully effective. As I stated in my previous remarks, this was taken over the period from 1923 to 1933, we had practically every condition that is experienced in in which I believe every member of the House will agree we had practically every condition that is experienced in our industrial and commercial life in America. This particular measure was carefully checked, and before being drafted the Department of Labor and Industry in Pennsylvania had Dr. Kulp of the University of Pennsylvania and Professor Simpson of the University of Pennsylvania to go over this measure in its entirety along with the Federal Security Act . Dr. Kulp, I might state, has been called in by previous administrations in Pennsylvania to help work out and to use his data and information regarding the Workmen's Compensation Act and other measures of this kind. He is also the consultant of the State of New York and set up the stystem in the State of New Hampshire. So, his ability is certainly unquestioned.

This measure in its present form was carefully gone over by the Social Security Board at Washington and approved in its entirety as being what they termed a model measure. With that thought in mind, plus the fact that we want to protect this money for Pennsylvania, I ask the members of the House to vote "aye" on this bill.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I quite agree with the two previous speakers, my colleagues from Dauphin and from Franklin, but under the circumstances, no matter how we may feel about this legislation, we are left no choice but to vote for some form of an unemployment compensation bill at this session, in order that we may save the workers of Pennsylvania the twenty million dollars that it is estimated will be collected by the Federal Government.

I do not want to take the time now to discuss some of the features of the act which I believe are not in accordance with what is considered by the experts of the country and I believe abroad, as the proper features of an unemployment compensation act of this kind. But I do want to recall to the members of this House and the people of this Commonwealth a feature of this bill that has placed it in such a position that it makes it very difficult for me to vote for it. That is the provision that permits the Federal Government to take this money out of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in the guise of a tax upon our manufacturers, upon their payrolls, to take it into the Federal treasury and then to remit a percentage of that money for the administration of this measure in the Commonwealth, not by turning that money back to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, not by turning it over to a department of our to admnister in accordance with the general practice of administration of our administrative departments under the Administrative Code in Pennsylvana, but gives them a free hand, freed of all the restrictions of the Administrative Code, to set up the kind of an organization that the Federal Government shall dictate, not the kind of an organization that we in Pennsylvania would like to have out of the money which we are contributing. Of course, the answer of the Federal Government will be "We are collecting this ten percent, we are returning this money out of the Federal Treasury, and therefore, have a right to direct it." But I say to you that that is but a smoke screen on the part of those who are so minded that they believe in concentrating everything in the hands of this great paternaustic and centralized Federal Government of ours. They do not trust us to set up the kind of a department we want, but they must keep their fingers and their eyes on the organization in Pennsylvania in such a way that they will set up in Pennsylvania an appropriate amount of money to be expended in administration, and the kind of organization we will have, free of all restrictions that we place upon our departments by the provisions of the Administrative Code, and the determination there as to how the bureau shall be set up and as to the taxing of the payroll.

I have heard it estimated that there will be possibly three million five hundred thousand dollars come back to the State of Pennsylvania for administrative purposes. That is more money—I have forgotten the figures, but about twice as much money as we give to the Department of Labor and Industry for the administration of that department; it is at least twice that much, and I think it is more, if I have the accurate figures before me. I do not object to a large organization to administer this money in Pennsylvania, this bill will require a great army of employes in Pennsylvania to administer it, because you will have to keep track of everybody who is employed in Pennsylvania, but inasmuch as that will set up a great army for supervision, I think that is all the more reason why in Pennsylvania we should have some way of setting up a check and balance upon what we have done in setting up such an organization. We have had such a great example from Washington in the last few years of the great expansion of bureaus, a great army of people upon the payrolls of the Federal Government, until today we have pretty nearly as many people working under the Federal Government, if you take those on WPA, as there are those working in all industry in the United States. Anyone knows that that can only mean the breaking down of our Government and the breaking down of the backs of the taxpayer. Now let us have some common sense in this, let us see if we cannot raise our voice to in some way put some sort of a check and balance upon the cost of administration of this act in Pennsylvania and the cost of its administration.

Mr. DENT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the Social Security Act of the Federal Government does not establish any unemployment compensation system for the various states. The states are invited to enact laws for the compensation of their unemployed. The Federal Government does not require or seek to force them to enact laws of a particular type. They are permitted to enact laws which are best suited to their local conditions and problems. That is an answer to any of the insinuations or influences that the Federal Government is stepping into Pennsylvania or any other State and demanding that we pass legislation that they themselves would have passed if so allowed to do.

May I suggest at this time that during the talk by one of the previous speakers an attempt was made to infer that this particular tax placed upon the payrolls of the employers of the State of Pennsylvania would result in lower wages, due to the fact that this tax would come from profits. We all realize that profits, in a major sense, control the amount of wages paid, but we also realize that profits do not wholly control the amount paid out in wages.

We who come from the laboring ranks realize this, that a standard of minimum wages is set up in the community and whether the corporations and companies in that community are making money or whether they are losing money, that minimum is adhered to. We find a corporation which made enormous profits in the past few years paying the same scale of wages as a corporation alongside of it, which has lost money in the past few years, therefore the argument that this is a tax placed directly upon the employee is untrue.

Let us admit that unemployment insurance certainly needs more study, but how can we or any other group of men interested in any law assume the responsibility for passing a good law until we have at least tried the best we have at hand. You men who are opposed to this particular bill have the privilege to introduce a bill that you think will fill the gap. You have stated this as a stop gap piece of legislation. We all realize that, but we are willing to study your type of legislation to answer this problem. Unemployment insurance is a vital question and therefore a vital issue to all the people of Pennsylvania, whether they are employers or employes.

The statement has been made that machinery would come into more use than it has in the past due to this tax. That is particularly untrue, because machinery is developed not with the idea of evading taxes but with the idea of making more profits, and if any machine can be devised to make more profits, regardless of taxes, that machine will be devised.

Members of the House, this bill is particularly necessary at this time and I certainly hope you will give serious consideration to its passage.

Mr. MASON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Franklin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOOMAW. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MASON. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding, and I believe the understanding of the sponsor of the bill, that there will be a public hearing on this bill held in the Senate.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, I have been given to understand that that is to be the case.

Mr. MASON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, after the answer as submitted by the sponsor of the bill, there is no doubt that the members of this House must vote in favor of the passage of the measure in this present form. I regret exceedingly, however, that we must pass it as a House and by registering our individual votes in its present form in what I would rather call a rather blindfold fashion. I regret exceedingly that it is perhaps the feeling of the sponsor of the bill and the Administration that this act must be passed with such speed. In my opinion this is going to be the most important piece of legislation that will be passed at the present session of the Legislature. I have studied the Unemployment Insurance Act of the various, states, including New Hampshire and New York State, that the sponsor of the bill mentioned in his own address. I have attended several conferences which took place with regard to the types of unemployment insurance acts that have been passed and I assure you that each and every individual bill that has been passed, as far away as the State of Washington, down to the State of Alabama, and from there up to New Hampshire, vary in the essential principals. For that reason I had thought that perhaps in this session that the State would propose and this lower body of two hundred eight members would work out some bill that would be agreeable to everybody, and for that reason I regret exceedingly that we must vote on the bill as it is at the present time. However, as has been stated by each of the previous speakers, we must pass an unemployment insurance bill, not only must we do it, but we must do it at this session of the Legislature. I would add to the thought that when the bill reaches the Senate there will be an opportunity for a public hearing, at which we may offer amendments, if they are necessary, and when we can discuss the merits or demerits of the legislation. I urge each and every member of the House to vote for the pasage of this bill.

Mr. WICKERSHAM. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I will be very brief. I just want to answer one point raised by the gentleman from Westmoreland when he said that the Federal Government merely invites the states to enact legislation and does not exercise any control over the legislation adopted by the states. If the gentleman has read the Social Security Act he will know that it contains a provision that unless the Federal Social Security Board gives its stamp of approval to the State legislation, that the employers of the State will not be entitled to the credit of ninety percent on their Federal tax

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOOMAW. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, may I inform Mr. Moomaw that in Luzerne County the second day after election that there were three thousand WPA workers laid off, and that last Friday there were 1250 more laid off. Will those four thousand, as well as between forty and fifty thousand in the State, come under the provisions of this Social Security Act, or will we have to appropriate that additional money in this Session from the taxpayers of Pennsylvania to take care of those forty or fifty thousand WPA workers who have been laid off?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jones, I would say that this act does not cover WPA workers or any other workers of any other governmental agency, along with certain other exemptions which are in the act,—I do not have the section.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the majority leader, the gentleman from York.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the majority leader, the gentleman from York, whether it is his intention to bring House Bill No. 61, Printer's No. 41, on Page 1 of the calendar today, to a vote upon the floor of this House.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the bill to which the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, refers is the income tax of two percent, with a twenty dollar exemptions and no graduations. It is my intention if I can speak for the Democratic caucus, although I do not wish to assume that responsibility, but it is my intention and I think it is the intention of all the members of this House to get a vote upon an income tax measure, provided a measure can be devised which will not place too heavy a burden upon those least able to pay.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from York, and I construe his statement to mean that he, speaking as majority leader, will either bring House Bill No. 61, Printer's No. 41, to the floor of this House for a vote as it stands in its present form or as it may be amended in the course of the deliberations of this House.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in discussing the stock increase in the personal property tax, I am concerned with the provision which may result in a great deal of our personal property being moved out of the State of Pennsylvania to other states which do not tax personal wealth. In a few minutes in my office the other day I contacted one institution and they gave me a list of six different cases in those few minutes, one of them amounting to between five and ten million dollars which was being transferred now to the City of Camden and on which the City of Philadelphia or Philadelphia county will lose four mills in addition to a mill of the State's. A further study would reveal that similar action is being taken in institutions throughout the State of Pennsylvania, especially on the borders.

I feel that if this tax is imposed, it will create an undue burden on those whose dependency is upon such things as mortgages which have defaulted and stocks and bonds which may not be paying dividends.

I have no brief for those who should pay a proportionate share of the burden but I believe that it should be on an income basis, of which I am sure quite a number of these people are in favor who are moving out, and I hate to see these institutions gradually being withdrawn from the State of Pennsylvania and going to other states. I know that solicitations are being made by other states for trust estates, which will decrease our personal property tax.

My conclusions in asking the House to vote against the bill, and in parenthesis may I say I am in favor of a straight income tax bill, are based on the fact that I should like to keep—and I am sure Pennsylvania would—this personal property in Pennsylvania instead of sending it to other states because it will go there rapidly.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I arise to ask the support of the members of this House for this bill. This bill increases the present State levy of one mill by an additional three mills on personal property.

It is a well known fact that the owners of personal property have been evading or have been avoiding their just and proportionate share of the expenses for maintenance of our government. The burden of taxation hitherto has fallen upon the small home owner and the owner of real estate.

The entire proceeds of this tax are to be used for the purpose of relief. The total amount to be raised, it is estimated by the Department of Revenue, will be forty million dollars. At the present the estimated amount of returns from the one mill State tax now in effect appears to be eight million dollars. In addition to the twenty-four million dollars that will be raised by the three mill tax the removal of certain exemptions now granted to foreign corporations will net sixteen million dollars.

It seems to me that the argument advanced by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, that we will have a removal of capital, that we will see an out-going of wealth that now is in the nature of personal property is far-fetched and does not represent what is reasonable to infer actually will occur. This additional three mill levy is only for the term and space of one year. It does not seem reasonable to me that we should expect those people who have considerable wealth to uproot themselves from their homes, from their business associations, from all of those things that they hold dear merely to escape what they should consider is a just share of the burden, which they have long avoided hitherto.

I ask the support of the members of this House on this bill, because this money raised by this tax will go back in the nature of relief for the maintenance of people in the various local counties and it will, in that sense, be a return to the individual counties. It will lessen the burden that those individual counties now have, because there has been inserted a provision, an amendment by Mr. Wickersham last evening, which will enable the counties to check in the enforcement of their own personal property tax and by the increase raised by that provision to enable the counties to check with the State and to rigidly enforce their local personal property tax act, and that will, in turn, reduce the amount of money necessary to be raised by local taxation on real estate in the counties.

I say to you members of the House that this is an opportunity for you to demonstrate whether or not you are serious in this particular session. This is an opportunity to demonstrate whether or not you believe that the relief burden which has been maintained hitherto by various other taxes should be properly shared by those most able to bear their share of the tax burden.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

Mr. BLUMBERG. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

STATEMENT BY MR. TURNER

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to make the following statement:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, on May 12 I introduced a resolution which among other things called attention to the SERB, and the fact that there has been an agreement or statement by the Federal Government that all of the employables who needed relief would be taken care of by the WPA. I asked that the SERB cause to be kept an accurate account of money paid for relief to employables and that statements be submitted from time to time to the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. That resolution has received no action on the part of the Committee on Judiciary Special. I have just talked to the Chairman of that committee, and he tells me that there has been no opportunity to have a meeting, and that in addition he was awaiting an opinion from the Legislative Reference Bureau as to whether this resolution could properly be considered at this special session. In the meantime this question is becoming rather acute. I am advised by the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Jones, that according to public press accounts some four thousand WPA workers have been laid off in his county and that these people have been returned to the relief rolls.

I asked the Relief Administration in Pennsylvania for a statement of the number of WPA workers who had been returned during the recent weeks, and I found that in the week of May 2 there were some three thousand cases of workers who were returned to the relief rolls in Pennsylvania. It must be apparent to any sensible person or any intelligent person that if we are going to determine the amount of relief we are going to give in Pennsylvania we have got to have an answer to this question. This is not a political or partisan matter, although some of my friends on the other side of the House have a tendecy to treat all these questions from that standpoint. I believe every member of the House wants to see every deserving needy person taken care of. I believe every member of this House wants to see every person entitled to relief receive relief, receive adequate relief, but for some reason some of my friends on the other side of this House who in the session of 1935 were most strenuously objecting to the relief situation in Pennsylvania have become suddenly silent, and it has become difficult for me to understand that situation.

Now, therefore, as the matter is urgent, as we must know what we are going to appropriate for relief over the next eight or nine months; as we must know something about this, I have taken another course of getting this information, because it is apparent that no action will be taken upon my resolution within the time remaining. I have, therefore, Mr. Speaker, addressed to the State Emergeny Relief Board a letter as follows:

The State Emergency Relief Board, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.
Gentlemen:

Through the public press and otherwise, I am advised that large numbers of workers are being discharged by WPA.

As it has been the policy of those administering unemployment relief in Pennsylvania to place these discharged WPA workers on the relief rolls after a three weeks' waiting period (this rule is not strictly enforced) it is but reasonable to expect that the relief rolls in Pennsylvania will be materially increased. During the week of May 2nd the relief rolls were increased by over three thousand cases, each one being a discharged WPA worker.

I am told that in one county alone four thousand men were discharged by WPA last week. It is, therefore, reasonable to expect that these cases will be back on your lists.

When the present Federal program of work relief was announced by President Roosevelt he stated that the Federal Government would supply such relief for the employables and that the states would have to take care of the unemployables.

It, therefore, seems to me that it becomes the duty of your board to go to Washington at once and ascertain from the Federal Relief Administration whether or not they intend to supply relief for the employables and the number which it is intended to employ during the balance of this biennium, or whatever period their program covers.

No intelligent relief program can be built in Pennsylvania until these questions are answered.

In addition I believe that there is a very serious legal question involved that may have an extensive effect upon the propriety of the payment of relief by your Board to certain individuals. I call your attention to the Constitutional restriction as to charitable appropriations and the decision in the Talbot Act case setting forth the historical treatment of poor relief in Pennsylvania. Now, in appropriating for relief we use the term "without means of support". The question, therefore, arises as to whether those who are employed on WPA are "without means of support".

From the foregoing, it is apparent that the Legislature must have more definite information as to the whole WPA Program—the intent of the Federal Government to take care of employables; the extent to which they intend to go; and what your Board intends to do in the future in reference to relief for this class of cases.

I realize that I am asking this as an individual member of the Legislature, but, nevertheless, I feel that the matter is of such public interest that it should have your careful consideration.

I would appreciate a reply.

Sincerely,
ELLWOOD J. TURNER.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I feel that we must have some action upon this situation, we must know something about the future of WPA and what it intends to do. We must know whether men who worked for the WPA and have worked there for a few weeks or a few months will be shifted back to our rolls. They are certainly employables if they work on WPA. If the Federal Government is to take care of the employables, then our relief rolls in Pennsylvania should be relieved of that burden.

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in explanation of the matter referred to by the gentleman from Delaware, as to his resolution, I want to explain the position of the Committee on Judiciary Special on the resolution of our friend, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, and two other resolutions that we have.

It has been the policy of our committee, and I think of other committees of the House, to get an opinion as to whether or not the subject matter was within the call. In the first place, these resolutions were not received by me until this week. They were referred to the committee on the thirteenth—one on the eleventh and two on the thirteenth. And last Wednesday, after the House adjourned, I stopped in the Clerk's office and there was nothing there that I had not already taken up.

As I said before, I received these on Monday, and I immediately asked Mr. Fertig for an opinion as to whether they came within the call, and I received his advice this morning. I think that the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, who is always fair minded, will know that there were no dilatory tactics on the part of the committee in handling this resolution.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have a number of newspaper clippings which tell about a dilly-dallying Legislature, and I have here a picture from a metropolitan newspaper which shows the Legislature engaged in a series of partisan, factional contentions, with a picture of two pathetic figures on the side, termed "needy", and these needy are saying, as usual, "They are forgetting all about us".

The Legislature, the first week, was in session three days. We could not have passed any bills in this House. Anyway we are supposed to read them or at least try to read them. The second week we devoted three days to the consideration of business and one day to the consideration of the gentleman from Berks. This week we have put in two working days. So I would say that we have had available for the consideration of business possibly five days. During those five days we have approved tax legislation approximating the sum of sixty-one or sixty-two or sixty-three million dollars. So, we have been grinding out money for these needy at an average rate of at least twelve million dollars per working day. In addition to that, we have sponsored an unemployment compensation bill, which nobody has read and which nobody understands. We have attended to the needs of all the widows and orphans, although I suspect that there will still be a waiting list after we have passed the obtainable appropriation. We have attended to the needs of the aged and made an appropriation to exhaust the waiting list under that law. In fact, in these five days we have passed more legislation than could be intelligently read by anybody except the gentlemen of the Press, perhaps the majority leader and the minority leader. I have no doubt that in those five days the gentlemen of the Press, the majority leader and the minority leader might have possibly read these bills, might possibly have studied the textual inaccuracies and might possibly have learned the import of the legislation we have passed. I am quite confident that a considerable portion of the legislation that is enacted will come back to us amended in essential portions because of errors in draftsmanship, which this House has not had the opportunity to spot, because it has not sufficiently deliberated. I simply desire to call attention to the fact that never in the history of Pennsylvania has the House of Representatives done as much business, as much business of real importance, of transcendent importance, indeed, as this Legislature has done in the past three weeks, and I only hope that the wisdom of the actions we have taken will justify the speed.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I always have had the greatest amount of respect, if not for the intelligence, at least for the acumen, of the gentleman from Cambria, but in this instance I have been a little bit perturbed because I realize that he has a habit of writing indelibly upon the records through the Legislative Journal things that may stand a long time after we have departed and gone from here. I always, at the end of the session, take the bound volumes of the Legislative Journal to my home and place them very carefully under a glass cover, in the hope that some day my posterity may take them down and read them over, and in comparison with the things they read therein about myself, and in comparison with those others associated with me, they may be able to gain a true measure of the stature, even if I may modestly say so, of the man who was their progenitor. I should dislike to have among those bound volumes of records for my future generations to read the statement made by the gentleman from Cambria, who has always heretofore been most just to me and most kind to me in his criticism and in his praise. But, during this momentous period when we have been freely bantering around with millions of dollars, when the Administration talks of relief in terms of seventy or eighty millions of dollars, and the unemployed come here and talk in terms of one hundred twenty million dollars, and yesterday I happened to go into a meeting of the Appropriations Committee, where a group were talking about one hundred and forty millions of dollars, I am afraid to go to any further meetings because the ante keeps going up so rapidly.

I should hate to think, as I said in the beginning, that there were only three classes who were intelligent enough, who had the initiative or had the energy, or who were so cognizant of their duties in this session, that they were the only ones who read the bills. Speaking of the majority and minority leaders, I will say from what I have observed of their actions on the floor, that if it were not for several of their assistants they would not have known what the bills were about when the titles were read.

As for the gentlemen of the press I dislike the slur which has been cast upon them by the gentleman from Cambria. I have always understood that he considers himself a gentleman of the press, too. I think that is true. When he says they were the only people who have read them intelligently, anyone knows that when a man becomes intelligent he does not continue as a member of the press.

Now, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have never considered all of this talk about the boondoggling Legislature—That has made a lot of fun for the unemployed,—I have always considered in all of the years I have been here that after all the real question was what was the quality of the legislation we passed; what was the quality of the work done in this House. But, I must say that with the desire of all of us to speed this session, with all the desire of the majority on the other side of the House to get their legislation over into the lap of the Senate, where they won't have to take the fire any longer, but where they can start to throw mud balls at the Republicans, nevertheless, I do feel that we have made too much haste in this session of this Legislature, and that there is legislation of too much importance to have been passed as rapidly as it has and with as little consideration.

The gentleman from Cambria has mentioned an unemployment compensation bill. I remember, I think it was during about the year 1933, I tried to introduce a resolution for the appointment of a commission to study unemployment compensation, and the distinguished gentleman from Berks County pooh-poohed the question of the study of unemployment compensation, stating that everybody knew all about it, that Europe had had it for twenty years, and that it was only poor, dumb reactionary Republicans who wouldn't know anything about it, but I have found since that time, and although I again introduced another resolution, that some of my distinguished colleagues wouldn't let it get very far,—I found that this question is still in the study stage, and I have talked to some of the men, who, I think, have taken a great part in the development of the National legislation, and I think we could have well spent more time in the consideration of this bill, rather than the few days that were allotted to it.

There is a big program here on flood control, which I am glad to see has been placed upon the postponed calendar. That involves some very broad questions too, and yet it would have very likely been pushed through this House this morning and have gone to the Senate without very much consideration of the question. I find among the experts who know something about flood control that there is a very wide difference of opinion on this question, that there are eminent engineers who talked on both sides of the question. Yet I doubt whether any members of the House have given it any consideration, except Pittsburgh and Aliquippa and a few other places out there which are so dear to the hearts of our western representatives, which were damaged by the flood recently, and, therefore, we must rush into this question of flood control. Let us not be disturbed, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, by what is said on the outside, let us not be too prone to rush legislation through this House, let us just be as deliberative as we possibly can, and that does not mean that we have to sit here all summer either.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is my understanding that the question of personal privilege involves the integrity of the member who is speaking. I must admit that I was a little confused after the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, got up, because I was unable to discern from his remarks that his integrity had been questioned in any way, but as he proceeded I discerned very definitely a question of his integrity. I have a very warm personal regard for the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, and on the question of his integrity it is my sincere hope that his progeny will never see and no one will ever tell them of the record that the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, has made in this House.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman under his question of personal privilege will be spread upon the Journal.

SENATE MESSAGES

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 4, 1936.

Whereas The recent floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere brought loss of life and resulted in damage to public and private property running into millions of dollars and

Whereas The adequate flood control measures are urgently needed and cannot be wholly financed by the states and their local subdivisions and

Whereas Such problems are in many cases not local but of an interstate character therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That a joint legislative committee be created composed of two Members of the Senate appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and three Members of the House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker of the House whose duty it shall be to personally urge upon the President and Congress of the United States the necessity of the immediate adoption of adequate Federal flood control measures designed to eliminate future floods in this Commonwealth and elsewhere

Resolved That said committee shall make report to the General Assembly during its session convening May fourth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, May 19, 1936.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, May 25, at nine o'clock Eastern Standard Time, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, May 25, at nine o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendment.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend by striking out "May 25," in the next to the last line of the resolution and inserting in lieu thereof "June 1, 1936"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER. For the information of the members of the House this amendment will only affect the membership of this House and not the Senate.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, next week the Knights Templar will convene in Harrisburg for three days, arriving on Sunday, May 24th. In my hotel room yesterday this notice was delivered, "Inasmuch as this room has been reserved for occupancy Sunday, we will greatly appreciate your cooperation in vacating it not later than noon of that date." Signed "The management." We then made inquiries about Harrisburg for Hotel accommodations for next Monday night, and we were informed that there are no accommodations in Harrisburg, that all accommodations have been contracted for to the Knights Templar.

The business of the House of Representatives is well advanced; that of the Senate is behind us; and it seems that inasmuch as our first reading calendar is very light, therefore, our second reading calendar on next Monday night would contain but few bills, and there are practically none that would be on third reading, that this House might properly recess over next week, in order to let the Senate advance its work. Then the great physical difficulty is that it will be impossible for members to obtain hotel accommodations, and the only place we could possibly go would be the Farm Show Building, and I, being from the city, just do not feel like stabling in the Farm Building with my farmer friends.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the question as to whether or not the House of Representatives should be in session next week has been deply considered by th members on this side of the House. All of us, I am sure, have among the Knights Templar very many personal friends. We appreciate the inconvenience that may be caused by the lack of hotel accommodations. Perhaps it will be said that the only excuse that we will have if we do not meet in session next week will be that we ourselves will suffer some inconvenience.

I want to recall to the members of this House a statement made a few minutes ago by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, wherein he said that perhaps we should give more consideration to all of this legislation that we have before us now, and I think it would be inexcusable on our part to adjourn this session until two weeks from last Monday.

The question before us is whether or not we ourselves are willing to suffer a little inconvenience on account of hotel accommodations or whether or not we want to stay here and try to take care of the great questions before us, —the question of unemployment relief and the question of raising revenue to take care of those people. As you will recall, members of the House, we only appropriated sufficient money to take care of the needs of the unemployed for the month of May. June will be upon us,—in fact the amendment will have the effect of our doing no further work on this unemployment question until we have entirely expended the money that has been appropriated for the unemployed. I think it would be a sad mistake for the members of this House to adjourn until June 1. I ask the members of the House to vote against this amendment.

Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am in accord with the amendment offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia. Only yesterday I sought to get my Democratic friends as well as my Democratic enemies to agree to a recess until June 1. I differ with the gentleman from Allegheny in this, while he agreed that we should have greater deliberation upon the legislation. I believe that what we need is not sessions but a breathing space in which we can study the great amount of legislation that has already been introduced. When bills come in here one day, are reported out of committee almost as soon as they are introduced, appear upon the calendar on first, second and third reading, I find that it is almost impossible for me to make an intelligent study of a bill such as House Bill No. 70 in the time that the legislature is in session. I must do that in the interim, and in the time that we have for leisure to study. I think this House could very profitably spend next week at home with the bills that have been introduced, studying them and getting the necessary information so that they can intelligently act upon them.

In the second place, as the gentleman from Philadelphia said, we have now passed a large part of the program which the Democratic administration has introduced. It is over in the Senate. We would give them a chance to catch up on it.

In the next place as to relief, I see no reason, as far as I am concerned,—and I am sure as the members understand it, I would rather stay tomorrow or even Friday of this week and advance these bills that you now have on the calendar and then take a recess, and we would thereby lose no time as far as the calendar is concerned.

As to relief, I want to give you some figures that I think are rather interesting. On April 1 there was a balance in the State treasury for relief of $13,630,000 plus. There was in the hands of the SERB district office $2,294,000 plus, or a total of $15,924,000. The budget for the month of April was $7,370,699 which would leave a balance of over eight million dollars for the month of May. In addition to that, we have already authorized three million six hundred thousand and some odd dollars. If the budget for the month of May was equal to,—and I think it was,—the budget for the month of April, then there ought to be some three to four million dollars in the hands of the Emergency Relief to take care of relief over any few-day period that might exist after the first of June if a resolution could not be put through.

There is no reason in my mind why the administration could not introduce a resolution today, or if necessary stay tomorrow and introduce a resolution so that we might have a resolution passed by this House, because you members on the other side would pass that,—and that end of it would be taken care of. Now, let me say just one other thing: I understand there are some eight to ten thousand people in Pennsylvania who are coming here for this convention. While I believe that the work of the legislature should be paramount, of course,—if there was an emergency I think we should stay, no matter what the conditions, and I am willing to go out to the Farm Building and cohabit with the agricultural members of this House whether they bring along with them some of their pets or not,—I will put up with it for a few days if necessary. But I believe these people have a right to come into Harrisburg and to have the opportunity to have their convention. They had it planned long before we came here, and therefore I think that we owe some consideration to them also, because with this group that is here occupying the hotels, it is certainly going to inconvenience those people as well as inconvenience ourselves, and therefore I can see on all of these grounds no good reason why we should inconvenience these good people next week, why we should inconvenience ourselves, and I believe the work of the Legislature will be far better done and will proceed better after the first of June if we go along with this amendment.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberharter, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EBERHARTER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Eberharter, do you persist in your demand for a roll call?

Mr. EBERHARTER. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SOWERS. May I ask the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, hasn't he received notice that his room will not be available next Monday night?

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I have not received such a notice, but I can say further that if I had received such a notice it would have no effect whatsoever upon my desire to remain here next week.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, and the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, very properly argued that we ought not to meet next Monday night. Permit me to say that there is no one that has a more sincere wish and desire to help the poor and needy of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and I hope that my Democratic friends when they return next Monday night will speedily accomplish that result, and with the permission of the House, I ask leave to withdraw the amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

Our Father and our God, Thou knowest the turmoil and unrest of these turbulent times. On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny whether this bill abates any penalties for the year 1935.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, it does not.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman whether this bill is supported by the Taxpayers' League which was instrumental in obtaining a tax abatement bill during the regular session.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, they are in favor of this present bill.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to also inquire of the gentleman whether or not this organization will oppose any future abatement bill.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I cannot speak for the Taxpayers' League or the Tax Justice League, but I, as a member of the House, am opposed to encouraging delinquency by continual or permanent abatement bills.

This bill was designed for the purpose of aiding the taxpayers avail themselves of the benefits of an abatement act, to obtain funds for employment or otherwise, who were unable to avail themselves of the Huffman-Rankin Abatement Act, presented at the last session.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman please state whether he has received any word from the officials or the lobbyist of that organization that they will oppose any future batement bill?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I have had no conference with the membership as far as opposition to future abatement bills is concerned. I know that the men I talked to feel that this bill should be the final bill as far as abatement acts are concerned. We believe with the conditions improving no further abatement acts will be necessary.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, at the regular session, when an abatement bill was presented to this House, I opposed it on the grounds primarily that it went too far. I felt and I feel to-day that a penalty that approaches 50% of the tax is too high, and that it would be proper to make such certain abatements in the penalties. At that time I felt that it was wrong to go as far as that bill went. I felt that the banks and various other large institutions would come in and take advantage of the bill, and that the poor man would not have an opportunity to take advantage of it. I think that at least in my district my prediction came true and that the bill operated in that manner.

I realize that there are arguments on both sides for this bill, and I am not going to take up your time to advance the arguments that can be advanced both for and against the bill. I will say this much in favor of it, that inasmuch as it states that the penalties of the 1935 taxes cannot be abated, it is a step in the right direction. I predicted at the last session that we would come here time after time with new abatement bills which would be presented to us. I have had the assurance from the lobbyists of the Tax Justice League that this was the last tax abatement bill that they were going to support, and that they are, or at least the lobbyists personally, are opposed to any future tax abatement bill. If that is the case I see no particular objection to this bill at this time. I do not think it makes a whole lot of difference. I wouldn't weep tears if this bill were defeated, but I am not going to urge this membership to defeat this bill at this time. I feel that by putting in the amendment which I offered that the bill has been greatly improved. As orginally presented it provided that no tax sales that would be held, could be held before April of 1937. However, the sponsors of the bill agreed to an amendment which I offered, which provides that tax sales may be held after December of 1936. I think that this amendment materially improves the bill and puts it in such shape that it is not as detrimental as it would be if this amendment had not been placed in it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—2

Habbyshaw,	Wood,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. ACHTERMAN filed the following reason for his vote.

House Bill No. 1 although more carefully prepared is similar to the Huffman-Rankin Bill passed in the last session of the Legislature. I voted against the Huffman Rankin Bill for the reasons that I then stated, to wit: that the act would only benefit the banks, building and loan associations, owners of mortgages about to foreclose and tax chiselers. Experience has justified that position for that class mainly benefited by the act. House Bill No. 1 in effect would extend the time to take advantage of the tax abatement features of the previous act. This would extend to the poor but unfortunate delinquent tax payer the time under which he could take advantage of the act. I am heartily in favor of extending the time to the poor man and it is only for this reason that I am voting for House Bill No. 1.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 68 Printer's No. 42 on page 6 of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. WEISS.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 68, entitled:

An Act authorizing the Department of Forests and Waters to make a survey and investigation with respect to flood control and water conservation and the coordination of any Federal and State flood control prgram and making an appropriation

On the question recurring

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill appears to be a bill intended for the purpose of making a survey and investigation with respect to flood control. It is, undoubtedly, a magnificent gesture on the part of the Democratic majority of this House. However, I want to call the attention of the House to the fact that the Democratic majority is fooling no one in connection with this bill. They are endeavoring to pull the wool over the eyes of the membership of this House as well as of the people of Pennsylvania.

The truth of the matter is very simple. This matter was investigated by the United States government. It was fully and completely investigated by the Department of War of the United States government. The United States government spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in this very investigation. The report of the committee is a matter of public record. It exists in the halls of Congress. The report specifically and definitely shows that had the United States government expended the sum of seventy million dollars to avoid floods in Pennsylvania when it was first called to the attention of the United States government in 1933, that disaster, that destruction, that loss of life, that loss of property in Pennsylvania would never have occurred.

The report submitted to the Congress in 1933 showed that the engineers of the War Department of the United States government pointed out specifically that in Pennsylvania there was liklihood of floods occurring in exactly the counties wherein they did occur, and had the United States government and had the Roosevelt administration heeded the report of the army engineers, then the loss to the people of Pennsylvania that occurred in the disastrous floods of 1936 would not have occurred, and instead of wasting the taxpayers' money, instead of wasting it upon those things that were not important, if Congress had appropriated the seventy million dollars for Pennsylvania, those same two hundred persons who lost their lives in Pennsylvania would not have lost their lives, and the floods that occurred in Allegheny county and in many counties of Pennsylvania would not have occurred, because in that report the United States Engineers of the War Department said to Congress, "put these improvements in Pennsylvania and you will stop the possibility of floods," but the Roosevelt administration, in their desire to waste money, decided that they could postpone the day of stopping floods in Pennsylvania—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAPUTO. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

Mr. SPEAKER. The gentleman from Beaver will state his point of order.

Mr. CAPUTO. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia is not speaking on the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the bill before the House.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

Mr. SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I advise my friend, Mr. Caputo, that if he were cognizant of what is taking place here, he would known that we were not discussing a resolution but a bill, and that bill is on Page 6, House Bill No. 68, and particularly refers to a survey and investigation of flood control. It is not a resolution, and so his point of order might well be thrown out of the window.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will confine his remarks to the bill before the House.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, as I was saying when I was interrupted by my good friend, the Chairman of the Judiciary General, that had the Roosevelt administration been more interested in the spending of money to avoid floods instead of playing politics, the floods that took place in March of 1936 in Pennsylvania would never have occurred, because the United States Army engineers in that report, very carefully prepared, in 1933, called the attention of the United States Congress to the fact that in these very counties of Pennsylvania floods were imminent, and if the seventy million dollars of money that was subsequently wasted had been spent upon the building of reservoirs to stop the floods in Pennsylvania, the half billion dollars that was lost in the destruction of property would not have been lost, the people who lost their lives in these floods would not have lost their lives, and I say that the greatest indictment against the Roosevelt administration in Pennsylvania is that in the "must" program of Congress the President of the United States refused to include flood control that would affect the citizenry of Pennsylvania, and I challenge my Democratic friends to dispute that statement. After the flood occurred, and after the half billion dollars of property was lost, and after the lives of our citizens were sacrificed, they make the noble political gesture of bringing in House Bill No. 68. We do not need House Bill No. 68, because everything they want investigated, everything they want looked into has already been looked into, and I am opposed to wasting money to ascertain that which we already know, and we already know that the responsibility for the loss of the lives, for the loss of the property rests upon the Roosevelt administration. They would not spend the money to help them—

Is that your only answer? Make an intelligent answer and I will be glad to bow to it, but you can't dispute the facts, you can't answer the fact that the United States War Department engineers said that these floods were imminent. They printed that report. It is in the Congressional Record. If you are so stupid that the only answer you can make is dumb jeering, then I compliment the Republican party on being able to say that this bill is unnecessary, because you are trying to pass something that should have been passed two years ago, and the United States Government could have studied flood relief and the flood problems in Pennsylvania, they could have built the necessary reservoirs in those two years, instead of using seventy million dollars in an endeavor to elect Democrats to public office, and I challenge you to answer that.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the minority leader has evidently lost completely the significance of House Bill No. 68. He has evidently been reading from the report entitled "Billions For Boondoggling But Nothing For Flood Control" written by one Warren F. Doane.

I wish to refresh the recollection of the member from Philadelphia by informing him that the first report submitted by the Army engineers was submitted during the Hoover administration, and after efforts made by civic bodies throughout this entire Commonwealth no one in the Hoover administration, composed entirely of Republicans would act.

I want to inform the minority leader further that if he will read the War Department report on the Ohio River watershed and on the Delaware River watershed, known as House Document No. 306, Seventy-fourth Congress, First Session, he will find that the report of the Army engineers was confined to four elements:

One, was flood control;
Two, was navigation;
Three, was irrigation;
Four, was water power.

What does Pennsylvania care about irrigation? We are concerned in House Bill No. 68 primarily with flood control. Second, we are interested in water conservation. There is nothing in the Congressional Record or report of the Army engineers that takes care of low water during the summers or any arrangements made for the erection of dikes or reservoirs to take care of sanitary problems, or water for domestic use or even for industrial purposes.

If he will only read this report, and I refer him to Page 7 of this report, which is printed in the Congressional Record, he will see that the U. S. Army engineers did not make a complete report affecting Pennsylvania, because under Article 21, E. M. Markham, an engineer employed during four Republican administrations, a Major General, Chief of Engineers, says, and I quote him:

"21. I recommend that authority be conferred upon the Secretary of War—

(a) To receive from States and/or duly organized flood-control districts, plans and proposals for the construction of reservoirs on the tributaries of the Ohio River for flood-control purposes;"

Does that help to answer your question, Mr. Minority Floor Leader?

(b) To cause the Chief of Engineers to investigate these plans and proposals, determine their adequacy, and evaluate the local and general benefits which will result from the execution of the work."

In accordance with that policy and in accordance with the present flood omnibus control bill before the present session of Congress, this bill has been prepared to coordinate with that plan, so that we will not be placed in the same predicament that we were in connection with social security legislation, of having to have another special session this fall, although some of the Republicans might desire another special session so as to enact special legislation to avail themselves of the flood omnibus bill. This House Bill No. 68, I say, is introduced for that very purpose. The bill is clear on its face. There is one thing the Democrats believe in: we believe in profiting by mistakes. The mistake of the Republican leadership is that they do not know when they are licked, they do not improve when mistakes are made. We say that even if the Democrats did err somewhat—and there has been no evidence submitted to substantiate that—we believe that the devastating floods that visited this entire Commonwealth through the tributaries of the Ohio, the Susquehanna and the Delaware, that caused half a billion dollars loss of property and the loss of over two hundred lives—we believe in remedying this situation if possible.

We cannot deal with human misery like the minority leader did when he declared a political holiday with the relief problem. We believe in dealing with this problem intelligently, and I say to the membership of this House and to those many Republican members whose districts were visted by raging torrents—the little brooks that were known as silent, babbling little brooks sung by our poets, for instance, the Juniata in flood water, carrying debris to the top of the poles, floods that elevated the waters a distance of fifteen feet—I say that this House Bill No. 68 is an intelligent gesture on the part of the Democratic leadership, and I commend our Governor for including it as a part of his program during this special session.

I ask the membership of this House to vote intelligently upon this House Bill No. 68 and to vote aye.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I see where my friend refers to political holidays. I take it that our administrator of WPA funds, Mr. Jones, would like to have a political holiday on giving information to the public concerning money spent on WPA until after the session is over. So much for that.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia is out of order in not speaking on the bill before the House.

Mr. SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken and the gentleman will confine his remarks to the bill before the House.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I admit that the gentleman from Allegheny is right. What I said I will not repeat, but it is true.

The gentleman from Allegheny, however, said the Republicans don't know when they are licked. They said we were going to be licked in Philadelphia, but we were not, and that also is subject to a point of order and if the gentleman from Allegheny raises the question I will stop.

I am glad to note that he asks the Democratic members of the House to vote intelligently. That would be a novel thing for the Democratic members of the House.

Now we will get back to the principle of this particular bill and what it covers.

May I interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, my esteemed friend and colleague, Mr. Weiss, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny, I understood, said that the report that I referred to was presented by the Republicans in the Hoover administration, it that right?

Mr. WEISS. I am correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. And therefore, Mr. Speaker, I take it that Mr. Hoover preceded Mr. Roosevelt; is that right, Mr. Weiss of Allegheny county?

Mr. WEISS. I believe that is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, if the report was presented in the Hoover administration, the Roosevelt administration had the information before it, is that right?

Mr. WEISS. That's right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, if that information was before the Roosevelt administration and it said that the seventy million dollars if spent would stop the floods in Pennsylvania, the Roosevelt administration received that information, is that right?

Mr. WEISS. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WITKIN. That is all; you hooked yourself. Mr. Speaker, I am through with the interrogation, and I ask for the further privilege of the floor for the purpose of making a few remarks. Thank you, Mr. Weiss.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, has strengthened the argument that I so poorly presented to this House. He has added a great deal of weight to it. He has told you very emphatically that even before Mr. Roosevelt got into his office, the Hoover administration decided that one of the most important factors for the people of Pennsylvania was to have flood control in Pennsylvania. He has indelibly impressed upon the members of the House that which I in my humble capacity endeavored to do. He has told you that even before Mr. Roosevelt got into office it was a patent fact that was known to every Pennsylvanian and to everyone throughout the country that one of the most important things that the Hoover administratoin did for the people of Pennsylvania was to see to it that there was flood control. He admits that Roosevelt knew all about it because Hoover told Roosevelt all about it, and he admits that when Hoover told Roosevelt all about it, Roosevelt should have known all about it. He also admits that when Hoover came into office his Army officers didn't dispute it, therefore, when Roosevelt came into office he had the whole thing before him. Had he used any intelligence on behalf of the people of Pennsylvania he could have adopted the Hoover flood control report and spent seventy million dollars instead of wasting it on a lot boondoggling.

Then what would have happened? We would not have had the flood of 1936, the flood of the Ohio that he refers to, the Monangahela and the ot er joins with it, the name of which is too hard for me to pronounce. There would not have been any flood in Pennsylvania, and no waters would have risen, but the Roosevelt administration would have spent seventy million dollars instead of wasting it, and two hundred citizens who lost their lives in Pennsylvania—and this is no joking matter it is a serious matter,—would not have lost them.

The people who suffered the agonies of the waters rising into their property, devastating their regions and ruining their farms,—all that would have been impossible. The result would have been that seventy million dollars would have saved the half billion dollars of property that was ruined. But I reiterate, my Democratic friends, ought to some out of the woods; they want to save their face and make a noble gesture to the people of Pennsylvania in the hope of coercing them to vote Democratic by saying "We are the saviors of the people"—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I arise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Eberhater, will state his point of order.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not speaking on the bill.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The gentleman from Philadelphia will confine his remarks to the bill before the House.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I will confine my remarks to the bill before the House, and I say that spending two hundred thousand dollars of the taxpayers money to find out that which we already know is a colossal waste of money, that the spending of two hundred thousand dollars to get the information that the Army engineers and the War Department already know is a waste of the taxpayers' money. I say stop wasting the taxpayers' money, and let my Democratic friends on the other side simply write to Mr. Roosevelt, or to Mr. Farley,—I won't refer to him as a three-job holder, but simply as Mr. Farley and ask him to do us a favor and send us the report of the Army engineers. And when we get that report what have we got? We have got everything that we want to investigate. It will all be in plain, ordinary English. We have got everything for which we want to spend two hundred thousand dollars. I am sure that if you will intelligently look at it, that is if you have someone who can intelligently look at it, you will find out we won't have to spend two hundred dollars.

I ask by Republican friends to vote "no" on this bill because it is a waste of money for that which we already know, simply to enable the Democrats to make a political gesture in an effort to cajole, coerce and fool the people of Pennsylvania. Don't fail to get the Hoover report or the Roosevelt report or any other name you want to give, but don't fail to get it because it has every bit of information in it that you want.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I would call the attention of the gentleman from Philadelphia,—if you will listen to me and not converse among yourselves, you will be able to hear me. If you would rather hear yourselves talk than listen, why, that is your business.

I desire to call the attention of the gentleman from Philadelphia to the fact that if the Fisher and the Pinchot administrations had spent the same amount of money upon the headwaters of Stonycreek and the Conemaugh that they spent upon the Pymatuning, we would not have had any flood in Johnstown.

The gentleman from Philadelphi has spoken about the surveys that they have made. If the gentleman from Philadelphia knows anything about the surveys he knows that no survey is ever made except as a result of a specific appropriation and no appropriations have been made for surveys of the headwaters of the smaller streams of this State. No surveys covering the headwaters of Stonycreek and the Conemaugh, the two rivers or streams which flow through Johnstown, have been made to this time, and there is no record in any of the work done by the army engineers that covers that territory. I will admit that taking the major streams of the country, the army engineers have projected a national system of flood control, but in this national system of flood control the needs of local communities have been entirely overlooked. It is for the purpose of coordinating the needs of cities like Johnstown, for example, that this particular bill is desired.

I would like to have, after the session is over, the gentleman from Philadelphia cite the portion of the report of the army engineers that deals with the headwaters of the minor streams in western Pennsylvania.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I hesitate to arise at this time and add to the continuous debate that we have had, on the part of the minority leader in the House, trying to prove that the democratic administration is all wet, and on the part of my friend from Allegheny trying to prove that the Hoover Administration was wet. I think in the opinion of the people of the United tSates it has been and will be shown that they are both wet.

The gentlemen on the other side of the House are perfectly correct in the statement that they have made as to the report of the army engineers but unfortunately for the members of the House,—and that is the reason why I am taking up your time at this moment,—they have not gone far enough in their inquiries. They do not know,—apparently do not know,—or they would have stated it on the floor of this House, that at the present time there exists under the Federal Government in the Department of the Interior an organization that is known as the National Resources Board. That National Resources Board has divided the United States into what I think is some eleven regions for the purpose of studying all of these questions that are contained in these bills providing for a study by the Department of Forests and Waters. The National Resources Board are taking as their basis the reports of the Army Engineers that have been referred to, but that they are going further into those questions than my friend from Allegheny has, that is, the question of water supply, reforestation, and perhaps soil erosion and other things that are pertinent to flood control. In addition to in the divisions of those zones they are placing an organization in every water shed that will bring relief to my friend from Johnstown, upon those little streams and creeks that have recently endangered his community. Already in the Ohio River basin there has been started a study, and the engineers of our own Sanitary Water Board and the engineers of like departments of the states of West Virginia, Ohio and other states have already submitted reports to that Regional Director in the Ohio River basin, that covers these questions.

On the Delaware River basin they have an Interstate Commission between New York, New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania that is just about to start gathering all the data pertaining to the Delaware River Basin, and the National Resources Board is supplying a consultant. They have already established an office in the city of New York with an expert there, upon these questions. They have started to study this whole questions, for which they have asked now the sum of three hundred thousand dollars in the two bills that are now before the House. I can see no excuse for the appropriation of this amount of money. This question was before the bipartisan committee that was selected before this session started, composed of four Democrats and four Republicans. It was then determination of the members of that committee when the report was submitted that the question of flood control should not be taken up in this special session, that it should be allowed to go over until the regular session, until we could see exactly what the Federal Government was going to do and its scope. Why should we, therefore, when we are now burdened with these great problems of raising money in Pennsylvania, when we are trying to raise great sums for the relief problem, why should we rush into something like this by passing these two bills and placing a further burden upon the people of Pennsylvania. The gentleman proposes to spend the sum of three hundred thousand dollars to make a study of that which my colleague is perfectly right in saying already exists and is in the course of preparation on the part of the National Government, through the Army engineers and the National Resources Board, containing information and detailed plans to cover this entire program. I see my friend from Cambria shaking his head, but I might say to him I doubt very much whether he is as familiar with these facts as I am. I might say to him that I have been in touch with the National Resources Board for the last couple of months, and therefore, I would say that I know that of which I am speaking. Therefore, I see no excuse for appropriating this amount of money. The Federal has appropriated a large sum of money. The Federal agencies have been put to work.

We can well mark time during the few months that remain of this year until we see what is to be done, what the Federal Government has done. If in the regular session of 1937 we find a gap in this program it will be easy enough to fix it up. But now you are burdening the present biennium with the present appropriation and casting further burdens upon this terrific taxation.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I want to make a few remarks in reference to the statement made by the gentleman from Delaware. I cannot see any force to the argument made by the gentlemen from Delaware and Philadelphia who are sitting high and dry and unaffected by these recent local floods. I want to refresh their recollection by recalling a bill that they voted for in 1931, appropriating one million five hundred thousand dollars and an additional four hundred thousand dollars for the Pymatuning Dam. When we talk about that, we must that innumerable lives were saved by the damming of the Venango and Beaver Rivers. I say that marking time has been their policy in the past. We will probably mark time until next Spring and have another flood. I fear there may have been mistakes made by both parties but we are going to rectify them right now. Appropriating two hundred thousand dollars is a mere drop in the bucket when we consider we have suffered a loss of a half a billion dollars. Are we then going to deliberate over some two hundred thousand dollars to make a survey? I submit that the report of the Army Engineers Corps is not complete, they are looking for cooperation from the States. I say if we are going to mark time, mark it right now. This Democratic Assembly is going on the spot to prevent future flood peril, I ask you to vote "Aye" on House Bill No. 68.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I hesitate to rise again and prolong this debate except to say that I think the gentleman from Allegheny is carried away by his enthusiasm and his desire to help the people in that part of the State from which he comes. If this money is appropriated there will be no flood control work done on any of those things in time to take care of next Spring or the Fall after or the Spring following. Flood control is a long range proposition. If in ten years from now my young friends come back as members of the House, they will still be talking about flood control, but the flood control project will not be completed by that time.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, as one of those who will probably vote "Aye" on this bill, I would like to ask the sponsor of the bill, whether or not the bill as he has it drawn will cover the subject which he says the Federal legislation does not cover. I do not believe that the bill as drawn covers the subject of sanitation, which is covered in the preamble on the bill. Will you tell me about that?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, there were five bills introduced in coordination with each other, in order to avail ourselves of the benefits of the Federal Flood Control Bill. One bill set forth a Water Resources Board, which I say was the instrumentality or agency to deal with the Government in obtaining moneys to be used for flood control work. I say that this bill, presented with two other bills, will provide the remedy desired. The gentleman will find the reference to sanitation on the bottom of House Bill 68, if the gentleman will read the bill.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I see the word "sanitation" in the whereas clause but not in the bill.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, the whereas clause sets up the purpose of the bill, the enactment sets up the surveys to be made. If the gentleman will read the bill, the purpose is to set up the surveys for the various watersheds for the purpose of setting the whereas clause.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call the attention of the House to two matters in this bill, if I may have the floor for a moment. I am through with the interrogation.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the bill, it is true, does recite in the whereas clause a number of very laudable purposes which I would like to see covered when the survey is made, but the bill, in my opinion, does not include in Section 1, which authorizes the work to be done, some of the purposes which are recited in the preamble. I further call the attention of the sponsor to the fact that the bill has no effective date in it. I believe that we ought to postpone the commencement of work on this important subject by a period of several months until the first of September, and I would suggest to the sponsor of the bill to let the matter go over for the time being and insert an effective date in the bill, and read the bill as carefully as I think I have done, and include in the bill specifically and carefully all of the purposes that he wants included, and also an effective date, which I think should be immediately upon the signing of the act by the Governor, and not the first of September, 1936.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the members, and in connection with the remarks of the gentleman who has just spoken, the Chair wishes to state that any bill that is passed in this session becomes effective immediately upon being signed by the Governor. That is in accord with an act passed in the 1935 session.

Mr. VanSICKLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the minority floor leader here has seen fit to call his condemnation down on the Roosevelt Administration for not accomplishing in three years what the gentleman from Delaware, M. Turner, says will take ten years to accomplish. The Democrats may be fast but they are not that fast. I would suggest while they are getting together on their various opinions that we vote for the bill and actually accomplish something other than plain talk.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to vote and want to state my reasons for so voting.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will send his reasons to the desk and file them with the Clerk.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, may I state them orally, with the consent of the House.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman would vote first before asking consent to state his reasons.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, if I vote first, can I State my reasons?

The SPEAKER. It depends on the way you vote.

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker, that is an awfully honest answer.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am going to vote "No", but in voting "No" I want to say to my Republican colleagues, don't let these Democrats put you on the spot. If in your particular district you feel it is worth while to spend two hundred thousand dollars to find out that which we already know, you vote "Aye". I am voting "No". I thank you.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. SPROUL filed the following reason for his vote: Inasmuch as some or most of the information is already or may be made available from the Federal Government, I take the position that the amount of money appropriated is excessive for the provisions of the bill will require duplication of a lot of work already done or contemplated. While I am not against flood control and prevention, an attempt should first be made to reduce the cost. I am voting in the negative because a stand must be taken sometime against this excessive overhead. Let us find out first what is to be done by the proper Federal agency.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 69, Printer's No. 43, on page 6 of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. WEISS.

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 69, entitled:

An Act authorizing and directing the Department of Forests and Waters to investigate survey and report on the location and availability for purchase of certain lands suitable for reforestation with flood control as the objective and making an appropriation

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WITKIN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the arguments made on House Bill No. 68 are applicable to House Bill No. 69, with this addition, the investigation set forth in Section 1 of this Act says that the investigation and survey shall include the three watersheds of the Commonwealth, the Susquehanna, the Delaware, and the Ohio. Each one of those three watersheds was included in the report of the United States Army Engineers, and therefore, the information which the Department of Forests and Waters wants, they already have. However, I can see very good reasons why the Democrats should want this bill, because in Section 3 they want one hundred thousand dollars, and that one hundred thousand dollars is for the payment of salary, and compensation of engineers. I assume they will not be Republican engineers but will be Democratic engineers. They want extra clerks, assistants, and employes. I can readily see why they want extra clerks, assistants, and employes, because they shall not be of the Republican party, but help deemed necessary in making the investigation. I presume that with the expenditure of one hundred thousand dollars they will be able to find a lot of persons whom they deem necessary to make the investigation, particularly in view of the fact that in November, 1936, there happens to be an election coming along.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

EDWARD N. JONES. WPA ADMINISTRATOR. TO FURNISH TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY CERTAIN INFORMATION REGARDING WPA

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, May 14, 1936.

Whereas, The most important and crucial problem before this Extraordinary Session of 1936 is that of relief for the unemployed, the destitute and needy, and

Whereas, It is the sense of the General Assembly that the maximum amount of relief possible under present circumstances should be afforded to this unfortunate class of our citizenship, and

Whereas, Under the terms of the agreement entered into by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the United States Government in 1935, the Federal Government agreed to provide by works projects for all employables in the aforementioned class of citizenship and the State Government was to provide by direct relief for all unemployables, and

Whereas, The State Government has been compelled from the time of said agreement to the present to continue to provide for the employables among the needy by means of direct relief grants, despite the said agreement, and

Whereas, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is maintaining a large administrative agency operating under the State Emergency Relief Board for the distribution of direct relief at a present administrative cost of approximately $12,000,000 per year, and

Whereas, It has been impossible to determine the cost of administration of WPA projects in Pennsylvania although it has been reported that same exceeds many times the high cost of administration of direct relief by the State Emergency Relief Board, and

Whereas, Allegations have been made and charges have appeared in the public press of the Commonwealth to the effect that the administration of WPA projects in Pennsylvania has been entirely political, that persons not entitled to relief and whose sole qualification is political activity have been given lucrative administrative positions and white collar jobs; that preferences exist to the detriment of those in need of relief for the benefit of the political parasite and that vast sums of money which should properly go to the unemployed, the destitute and the needy of this Commonwealth are being diverted to those not in need of relief who receive the political plums of WPA. and

Whereas, A direct relationship exists between the sum to be appropriated by the Commonwealth for direct relief and the number of persons properly employed on WPA projects, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania request the State Administrator of WPA projects, Edward N. Jones, furnish to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania not later than May 19, 1936, the following information:

1. The total cost of administration of WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, for the period beginning January 1, 1935 and ending May 1, 1936.

2. The number of administrative positions in WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, and the salaries of same.

3. The names and addresses of those holding administrative positions in WPA projects in Pennsylvania, by counties, and the respective salaries.

4. The number, by counties, of those working on WPA projects in Pennsylvania not taken from the relief rolls of the State and the percentage of same to the gross number of employables on WPA projects in Pennsylvania.

5. The names and addresses, by counties, of those not taken from direct relief rolls of the State of Pennsylvania holding positions of County Administrator, supervisors, superintendents, secretaries, foremen, assistant foremen, time keepers and disbursing officers on WPA projects in the State and the respective salary of each.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the immediate consideration of this resolution?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection. The resolution is referred to the committee on Appropriations.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE

Mr. BEAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. BEAN offered the following resolution which was twice read considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, May 26, 1936.

Resolved, That the Department of Revenue be and is hereby requested to inform the Senate in answer to the following inquiries:

1. With reference to the State Personal Property Tax approved June 22d, 1935, Act No. 182, Sessions of 1935, how many returns have been received by the State Department of Revenue; what is the total of taxable personal property disclosed on such returns; what is the total amount of tax based thereon; and what is the present estimate of the Department as to the total amount of tax to the Commonwealth which will result from this Act?

2. With reference to the Corporate Net Income Tax Act approved May 16th, 1935, Act No. 91, Sessions of 1935, how many returns have been received by the Department of Revenue; what is the total amount of corporate net income disclosed; and what is the present estimate of the Department as to the total amount of tax to the Commonwealth which will result from this Act?

3. With reference to the Cigarette Tax Act, approved June 14th, 1935, P. L. 155, Sessions of 1935, what have been the total collections under this Act to May 1st, 1936 and what is the present estimate of the Department as to the total amount of tax to the Commonwealth which will result from this Act?

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the immediate consideration of this resolution? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM THE RELIEF ADMINISTRATOR

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. McCLURE offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate of Pennsylvania, May 26, 1936.

Whereas, The question as to the amount of money to be appropriated at this Session for Relief is of great importance; and

Whereas, To arrive at an intelligent determination of the necessary sum, it is essential to have detailed information as to the amounts expended for relief;

Therefore, be it resolved, That the Relief Administrator be requested to furnish to the Senate, not later than Monday, June 1, 1936, the following information:

(a) Number of cases during the months of January to April, inclusive, of the year 1936, where relief was granted to persons or families without any property;

(b) Number of cases during the said months of January to April, inclusive, of the year 1936, where relief was granted to persons or families without any income;

(c) The amount of relief granted during the said months of January to April, inclusive, where the person or family had an income up to $5.00 per week;

(d) The amount of relief granted during the said months of January to April, inclusive, where the person or family had an income between $5.00 and $10.00 per week;

(e) The amount of relief granted during the said months of January to April, inclusive, where the person or family had an income between $10.00 and $15.00 per week;

(f) The amount of relief granted during the said months of January to April, inclusive, where the person or family had an income above $15.00 per week;

(g) The total amount paid for relief in each of the said months of January to April, inclusive, for relief in the above classifications, as continued in (a) to (f), inclusive.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended, and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, have any idea as to how long it will take to compile the information required in his resolution?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I have not.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am informed that to obtain that information, detailed information, it may require a month to a month and a half to compile. The resolution asks for that information before June 1st of 1936, and it seems to me it is very short. You have only about four or five days to get that in, and you will never be able to do it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I shall be glad to.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, state whether or not the information requested in this resolution has been requested informally from the Administrator of Relief?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, not to my knowledge.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I take it—I assume, then, that this resolution is not being offered here as the result of any refusal on the part of the Administrator of Relief in Pennsylvania to give the information.

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Delaware, Mr. McClure, consider an amendment to this resolution, to the effect that the Relief Administrator be requested to furnish information as to the costs which he will incur in the gathering of this information requested in the resolution, so that it will not be charged up against the Relief Administration?

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I will accept that amendment.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution as amended?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move to amend section (g) by adding at the end thereof "and that the Administrator of Relief be requested to keep a separate account of the monies expended in furnishing the above requested information, and report the cost thereof, together with the other information herein requested."

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution as amended?

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I move to amend paragraph 3, by striking out after the word "Senate," the words "not later than" and in lieu thereof inserting the word "by" and by inserting, after the figures "1936," the words "or as soon thereafter as possible."

Mr. McCLURE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution as amended?

It was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to the question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to call to the attention of the members of this Senate that when I offered my amendment to the resolution just adopted, to figure the costs, I did it advisedly. I know something about what this information, that is requested, will amount to. It will require the examination of every card in every case in the files of the Relief Administration from the beginning of the period mentioned, which I believe begins with January of this year, until now. It will mean employment of a new staff, office staff, to compile this, or the stopping of all the present employees in the office from the work in which they are now engaged.

Aside from the cost, it will be a task which I am sure my friends did not realize the extent of when they made this request. My belief in the matter, from some little experience I have had, has been confirmed by the Relief Administrator, who happens to be in the room at the present moment; he has confirmed my belief.

I call to the attention of the members of this Senate that we are again wasting a great deal of time and a great deal of money; and I think the proper thing to do would be to reconsider the action on this resolution, and see if we cannot get some information which will be helpful and which would not entail so great a task from the Relief Administrator, who, I think, everyone will agree has been the ablest and best of assistants, and the most willing man we have had in our work here during our session.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make reports from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. GELDER, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 23 (House Bill No. 17), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the State Emergency Relief Board for direct work relief and expenses defining the purposes for which such monies may be expended and prescribing the power and duties of the State Emergency Relief Board and certain State Departments and ratifying, confirming and validating the action of the Governor and the fiscal officers in making moneys available for unemployment relief prior to the adoption of this act.

Mr. GELDER, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended, House Resolution No. 14, as follows:

In the Huse of Representatives, May 25, 1936.

Whereas It is estimated that approximately eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars ($845,000.00) of moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes will be lapsed into the General Fund on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas The sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) in addition to the aforesaid eight hundred forty-five thousand dollars (845,000.00) will be necessary for unemployment relief purposes for the month of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and

Whereas There is an immediate need for the raising of this amount for the use of the General Fund by transfers of moneys from the Motor License Fund and The State Stores Fund therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly hereby authorizes the Governor and the Fiscal Officers of the Commonwealth to transfer to the General Fund the sum of two million five hundred thousand dollars ($2,500,000.00) from the State Stores Fund and the sum of one million five hundred eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($1,586,211.00) from the Motor License Fund and hereby makes available to the State Emergency Relief Board the aggregate sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,-211.00) for unemplyoment relief purposes and

Resolved That any moneys heretofore appropriated to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes that remain unobligated and enexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six are hereby made available to the State Emergency Relief Board for unemployment relief purposes on and after May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and ployment relief purposes the sum of four million eighty-six thousand two hundred eleven dollars ($4,086,211.00) and any moneys heretofore appropriated for unemployment relief that remain unobligated and unexpended on May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-six and (3) providing revenue by taxation or otherwise to repay moneys transferred by authority of this resolution from the Motor License Fund and the Liquid Fuels Tax Fund

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I ask unanimus consent that Rule 39 which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, on what basis is the reduction made from $6,086,211.00 to $4,086,211.00?

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, was present in committee and he knows the entire action of the committee.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, what is the basis for the reduction of the $2,000,000, on what facts and figures was the reduction made?

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, it was the action of the Committee.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the Senator from Susquehanna know on what basis the Committee acted?

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, it was to conserve the fund of $2,000,000 from the Liquid Fuel Funds, which should go to the counties.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, may I assume and understand that the reason for reducing the amount from $6,000,000 to $4,000,000. is not because of a disagreement as to the amount needed, but because the funds are not available from which the money can be borrowed?

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has a right to assume anything that he pleases. Having heard and participated in the argument, his judgment would be just as good as mine as to what was the idea of the members of the committee. Some of the members of the committee felt that perhaps $4,500,000, was enough, some other members on the committee perhaps felt that much less would tide the Administrator of Relief over for the present. The Senator from Philadelphia certainly knows as much about it as any other member of the committee. He knows what was in his own mind.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I was always under the impression that matters in Committee were covered with somewhat of a cloak of privilege. When I was in the committee, I asked the same question as I am asking now, and whether or not anybody has since answered the question, that is the question which I repeat now to the Senator. I had not heard in the committee any reason; I asked the question in the committee, and nobody answered me. The majority there is a Republican majority, and they have fixed $4,086,211.00. I do not know whether it is an arbitrary figure, or whether it is due to the fact, that, as I hear discussed there, there was $2,000,000. to be transferred from the Liquid Fuel Tax, and some of the people did not want to transfer the money from the Liquid Fuel Tax. I was one of those in favor of $6,800,000.00. I feel that there is nothing sacred about the Liuqid Fuel Tax in a time like this, as compared with relief; and, in voting on a question like this, I should like to know, when I vote on $4,800,000.00, whether we are voting because we think it is enough, or whether we are voting because we do not have enough funds available at this time. I would like to repeat my question whether this is intended to cover the whole month of June.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I have no knowledge as to what this will cover, or what the intention of the members of this committee was. As I have said before, the various members of the committee may have had various thoughts on it.

The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, talks about cloaking the proceeding in secrecy, and apparently he is trying to remove the cloak. I would suggest, if he wants to remove the cloak, that he may just as well proceed to do it himself. I would say that the action of the committee was not entirely partisan action.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, on this resolution peradventure the cloak of secrecy was removed by my friend from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, if there was such a cloak, I have heard a great deal of talk about relief, and what we are going to do, and a great deal said that probably would better have been left unsaid. I am going to confine myself to the situation, and I for one want to say that I do not propose to sit idly by and see this relief question handled in an arbitrary manner without at least raising my voice in protest. I do not propose to call any names about it, but I do propose from time to time to try to elicit the facts so that I can intelligently perform the duty that I was sent here to perform. This is May 26, and I think it is time now that somebody who is in a position to do something shall do it, and that the things that are done shall be based upon facts and not upon fancy, and especially when we are dealing with a matter of such importance as we have here. I am perfectly satisfied to stay here as long as is necessary, to give what little information I have to a solution of the problem; but I do not propose, on any theory, to sit idly by and allow an important matter like this to be treated as it has been treated. I say that there is no information in the possession of anybody which warrants the reduction arbitrarily of $2,000,000. from a resolution which was presented to us in the form in which it was presented over two weeks ago—probably three weeks ago.

The resolution was presented to us, coming from the House, asking us to appropriate some eleven million dollars for the months of May and June for relief. It was not being appropriated to people without responsibility, it was appropriated to a department of this State that has existed for a number of years, and that is in the control not only of the State Emergency Relief Board but its figures and its functions are in the control and under the observation of the Auditor General and the State Treasurer. That resolution was changed to $3,650,000. by action of the majority members of this Senate. Now, today, after the month of May is about gone, June is confronting us, we have been promised that there would be an investigation made of the facts, and we would be given some information which indicate that the amount requested is exaggerated. Now

I hold no brief for those who have set up the figures. I am quite sure that what you have heard today in public hearings, that whether there be 180,000 cases on the list or 220,000, is a matter of conjecture that no one can, with certainty, at this time state. The number of cases on relief would depend upon whether or not W. P. A. takes more or less workers, or whether industry absorbs more or less workers, and one thing is certain; those things which we have been promised, not a single member on the majority side of this Senate has presented any facts or figures which would warrant us in saying $4,800,000. is enough for the month of June, and the reason I stand up to call attention to this fact is that from what has been going up to now, I know June will have gone before we decide this proposition.

Talk is around that we are going to adjourn to enable some of us to attend the Democratic or Republican Convention, . . . they are talking about doing everything except that which we ought to be doing, and for which the people of Pennsylvania are looking . . .

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will state his point of order.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, my point of order is that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is disclosing what took place in the Committee room, and under the rules of the Senate he is out of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the conversation which I have disclosed took place in a public hearing, which I was invited to attend this afternoon.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, he was talking about a discussion as to political convention, and that was discussed in the Committee Room.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, before I came to this Senate on Monday night, I was told in Philadelphia by a young man, who had nothing to do with the Senate, that there was talk here that we were going to adjourn for the convention, and I am making no disclosure of any confidential matter.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair has no knowledge of any confidential arrangements in Committee, and is not in a position to rule on it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this whole subject, to some people, is a matter of little moment, to others it is an opportunity to give voice to some political aspiration and make some speeches. I am not interested in that type or attitude of mind. I am interested in seeing to it that when I go back I can face the people who look to me to help them in this situation, and nobody here who has the power to do it is doing it. I have asked and I have not yet received an answer to a very important question, and I know that what I am saying is not going to change a single vote on this floor, but I am not making that statement for that purpose, I am making the statement to place myself on record, so that my position in the matter may be clear, and that is, that I will not vote for any resolution, whether it be relief or otherwise, that is presented without any consideration, and is mutilated, without any vote; and for the purpose of this record, I will not vote on the resolution and not make that statement so that those who look to me for some intelligent action will at least know that I am not voting on something that has no basis back of it.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I do not think that the action of the Committee was involved or complicated in any way, and I also do not think that I am violating any of the rules of the Senate, or the Committee, if I discuss in a general way what happened. It is very clear and easily understood that the request was for $6,800,000.00. The $800,000.00 was the highest balance for the month of May. The amount was for $4,800,000. to prevent the disturbing of the use of the Liquid Fuel money that goes back to the counties.

Now, in answering the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, on the very important question, which was not answered to him: This Committee, in appropriating $4,800,000.00 does not, in any sense, say that that is the limit to be used in June. They hope that it will be, but was distinctly understood that the $4,800,000. appropriated would go as far as it could in June for relief, and in the event that Dr. de Schweinitz decided he needed more, he could come again to the Committee. It was simply allowing the use of $4,800,000.00 so far as it would go, and if that is found not to be enough, they can later on have another resolution prepared supplying sufficient money for June. It is not limiting the amount for June.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, has partly answered the question which I have asked, and which had not been answered. Am I correct that the reason for reducing the amount was that the $2,000,000.00 was to be transferred from the Liquid Fuel Tax, and there was objection due to the fact that the Liquid Fuel Tax money had to be used by the counties.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I repeat, that I shall not vote for this resolution because the reason the money is not available because the majority on this side of the Senate has not taken the proper steps to provide the funds. There are no monies available because of the fact that they have not produced any revenue raising bills or acted upon revenue raising bills which were before them, so that we could have the money that is necessary for June.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I just want to state, so that no one will have any excuse for voting against this resolution, I want to repeat what I said before, that we are not fixing the amount definitely for relief in June. Again I say, that if Dr. de Schweinitz decides that there is more money needed, I will be one to vote for the additional sum.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris.

The. PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, I will be very glad indeed.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the resolution as now amended conform with the statement made by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris, that the $4,086,211.00 is merely on account of the sum that we have not as yet determined what will be necessary for the month of June?

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the resolution so provide.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, the resolution provides for $4,086,211.00 for relief for June insofar as it will take it.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the resolution so provide, or is it merely a statement made by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Harris.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, the resolution does not limit the amount needed for June to $4,086,211.00. I cannot put it any plainer than that.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of information.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, may the resolution be again read so that we may ascertain whether it fixes the period for which this money is set aside?

The PRESIDENT. The Secretary will read the resolution.

(The resolution was again read.)

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, then I think that it is very plain that the amount that has been reduced by $2,000,000., and as the resolution now stands it means that the amount of $4,086,211.00 is the only amount that we are appropriating for the month of June.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, no.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, that is what is says.

Mr. HUFFMAN. Mr. President, I would like to say a word about the resolution. I think the resolution does limit us to this appropriation for the month of June. However, I am voting for the resolution believing that if it is shown that more money is necessary, and I believe it will be, that the Senate will pass an appropriation, or will correct this resolution and supply additional money for relief. We do not want to vote for a resolution cutting out $2,000,000.00, as demanded by Dr. de Schweinitz, neither do we on this side want to vote against contributing at this time $4,086,211.00. toward relief in June.

So much has been repeated about what was said in Committee: It was suggested in Committee and admitted that this was an arbitrary figure, not based upon facts at all. It is simply an arbitrary amount set aside toward taking care of relief for the month of June, and on that basis I am voting for the resolution.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate garee to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Cavalcante and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—30

Batchelor,	Graff,	McGinnis,	Roberts,

By Mr. EROE RESOLUTION No. 15.

In the House of Representatives, May 25, 1936.

Whereas, In order to promote peace, lessen the likelihood of war, prevent profiteering in time of war, and equalize the burdens of war, it seems impressive that there should be Federal legislation towards that purpose; and

Whereas, There has been introduced in the House of Representatives at the 74th Session of the Congress of the United States a bill known as H. R. No. 5529, the enactment of which into a law would aid considerably in accomplishing such purposes; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby recommends to the Congress of the United States the speedy passage of the above mentioned bill and urges the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives in Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to give their earnest support to the said bill: and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of this House is hereby instructed to forward, immediately after the adoption of this resolution, a copy of the same to the President of the Senate of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives in Congress, and to each Senator and Representative in Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. SPROUL RESOLUTION No. 16.

In the House of Representatives, May 25, 1936.

Whereas, House Bill No. 56 provides for an appropriation of $700,000 to the Department of Health to defray the cost of pumping water from slate quarries and coal mines, flooded during the recent March floods; and

Whereas, It appears that this work has been proceeded with before the final enactment of said bill, and certain expenditures made or obligations incurred; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Health be required to furnish to th House of Representatives now in session as soon as may be, a statement showing:

(a) The amount expended or obligated to the date of the report, or as near such date as possible, for the purchase and installation of equipment and for operation thereof;

(b) An estimate of the total amount to be expended for the completion of the work, separate for each particular project;

(c) A statement of the amount expended and to be expended on the property of each person or company.

Resolved, That the Department of Health shall transmit to the House of Representatives at its Session in 1937, not later than February 1st, a complete statement showing in detail the expenditures made under the authority of the appropriation made by the General Assembly.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Department of Health by the Chief Clerk of this House.

Referred to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation.

By Mr. HOLLAND (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 17.

In the House of Representatives, May 25, 1936.

Whereas, Stability in the administration of the civil service laws of the City of Pittsburgh is impossible of accomplishment with the present practice of ever changing the personel of the Civil Service Commission; and

Whereas, It appears that where decisions are rendered by the Civil Service Commission the same are not being carried into effect; and

Whereas, It is alleged that department heads of said city flagrantly disregard approved lists of applicants for positions under the City Government; and

Whereas, There is a demand by a great number of citizens of said city for an investigation of the situation now existing with respect to the Civil Service Commission; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That a joint legislative committee is hereby created, composed of three members of the House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker of the House, and three members of the Senate appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, whose duty it shall be to make a full, searching and impartial investigation of the Civil Service Commission of the City of Pittsburgh, its admnistration and manner of functioning, and such other matters and affairs in connection therewith as is deemed proper by the joint committee.

Resolved, That said joint committee shall make report to the General Assembly at this or the next regular session of the Legislature as early as possible with such recommendations as are deemed appropriate.

Resolved, That the said committee shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before them and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of said committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases.
